GOVERNMENT OF INDIA:

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 22nd April 1916.

Burma.—Twenty-one districts report light to moderate showers. The fall exceeded one inch in nine districts. Agricultural operations for spring rice and harvesting of island crops are proceeding normally. Standing crops are generally satisfactory. The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon has fallen slightly to rupees 116 per hundred baskets but is still above normal. The supplies are small. The market for white rice is steady.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable. Light to moderate rain fell during the week in all districts and facilitated agricultural operations. Pressing of sugarcane is almost finished. Hailstorm did some damage to standing crops and tea in Sylhet. Pruning of tea has been finished and hoeing is still going on. Ploughing of land for and sowing of autumn and winter rice and jute and plucking of tea are in progress. Harvesting of spring rice continues in Sylhet. Prospects of tea and spring rice are fair. The price of common rice is almost stationary. Cattle disease is reported from six districts.

Bengal.—During the week light to moderate rain fell generally throughout the Province. Sowings of jute and autumn paddy have been greatly facilitated. Weeding of jute fields has commenced. In some of the eastern districts land is being prepared for paddy seedlings for the next winter paddy Harvesting of summer paddy is in progress and that of other spring crops is practically over. Insufficiency of water is being felt in parts of the Murshidabad district Cattle disease is reported from five districts. The average price of common rice for the Province has risen by about 0·3 per cent as compared with that of the previous week.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows :—In the Bankura district distress in the affected areas is generally unchanged. People on relief works are generally in good condition and relief measures are adequate. People are freely resorting to works. Loans are being advanced Private charitable funds are giving assistance. Scarcity of fodder continues. Light rain fell generally in the district. Ploughing has begun. Prices are stationary. The price of rice is 9¼ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 16,120 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 25,236, total 41,356. The decrease in the number on works is due to the resumption of agricultural operations. The number of persons relieved on private works was 6,475. In the Tippera district conditions are improving in the affected areas. Summer paddy has been harvested with average outturn. Sowing of autumn rice and jute has been practically completed. Sowing and weeding of barshal paddy have been retarded by rain. The public health is good. Relief measures are adequate. The price of rice is 7½ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 2,767 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 6,735, total 9,502. The decrease in the number of persons on works is due to the intermittent water logging of works and to the employment of labourers on agricultural operations.

Bihar and Orissa.—Light rain was fairly general over the Province. Harvesting of spring crops is approaching completion. Threshing continues. Planting of sugarcane for the next season and preparation of lands for autumn crops are in progress. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has risen slightly as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient Cattle disease is reported from fourteen districts. The attendance of persons on test works in Manbhum was 2,476 and Singhbhum 6,005. Gratuitous relief was given to 661 persons in Manbhum. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—Useful rain fell in many districts but more rain is needed in the hills. Standing crops are generally doing well but the mango crop in the eastern districts has been damaged by a severe dust storm. Prospects are good. Threshing and winnowing of spring crop and irrigation of sugarcane continue. Sowing of cotton, indigo and tobacco has commenced. Weighment of opium is in progress. The condition of agricultural stock is good and cattle disease is confined to a few villages. Fodder and water are ample everywhere except in parts of the Aligarh, Muttra and Agra districts which complain of shortage of canal water, pasturage and fodder respectively. Markets are adequately stocked. Prices are falling.

Punjab.—Light rain has fallen in parts of all the reporting districts and has been useful for sowings of cotton and sugarcane. The condition of standing crops on irrigated areas is average and on unirrigated area generally poor. Harvesting of spring crops continues. The yield on irrigated areas is below normal to normal and on unirrigated areas bad in the southeast and poor elsewhere. Sowing of extra spring crops has been nearly completed and that of sugarcane and cotton is in progress and is generally normal. Crops sown on irrigated areas are generally doing well. Cattle are generally healthy but are weak in some districts owing to scarcity of fodder. Water for drinking and irrigation is generally sufficient. Prices are generally stationary. In the case of wheat they range between normal and warning rates and in other cases between warning and scarcity rates. Price of wheat :— Ambala 10¾, Rawalpindi 11, Ferozepore and Lahore 11½ and Lyallpur 12 seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—During the week rain fell at some places but more rain is required in Dera Ismail Khan. The weather is cloudy and temperate. Standing crops are average in Peshawar and in irrigated areas of Bannu and Dera Ismail Khan, below average in unirrigated parts of Bannu and poor in unirrigated areas of Dera Ismail Khan. Harvesting of spring crops and sowing of autumn crops continue in Peshawar and Bannu. The condition of cattle is good except in unirrigated tracts of Bannu where it is bad. Fodder and water are sufficient in Peshawar and scanty in unirrigated tracts of Bannu. In Dera Ismail Khan fodder is dear and water is scarce in some southern villages. Prices are high but stationary in Peshawar. In Bannu the price of gram is rising and that of wheat is falling.

Kashmir.—The rainfall during the week was good. The condition of standing crops is fair. Cattle are generally healthy. Fodder and water are sufficient. Prices are falling.

Rajputana.—The weather is hot and clear but at times dusty. Harvesting and threshing operations are in progress in a few places but the area of the spring crop is restricted. The probable outturn is below normal. The condition of cattle is very poor owing to fodder scarcity in most States and in Ajmer-Merwara. Cattle disease is reported from Dungarpur, Banswara and Kotah. Water is generally sufficient except in Marwar, Kotah and Tonk. Prices are a little easier. The number of persons on test works in Kishengarh was 1,420 and in Karauli 691.

The weekly report on scarcity in Merwara as is follows :—Distress is slightly increasing among agriculturists and agricultural labourers and the number of persons on works is rising. There is no influx of foreigners. The physical condition of the people is satisfactory. Emigration is visible in small proportion of children. Relief measures are sufficient. Land is being prepared for autumn crops in Indore and Malwa. The condition of standing crops is fair in Malwa and good elsewhere except in the Bhaisaunda State in the Baghelkhand Agency where they are fair. The probable outturn is normal on irrigated land in Gwalior, fair in Malwa and good elsewhere except in the Bhaisaunda State in the Baghelkhand Agency where it is fair. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition except for cattle disease in the Bhander, Sheopur, Pichhor and Jawad parganas in the Gwalior State, in the Indore, Depalpur, Rampura and Manasa parganas in the Indore State, in the Karwai State in the Bhopal Agency and in the Nagod State in the Baghelkhand Agency and in parts of Dhar, Barwani, Jhabua, Ali-Rajpur and Jobat in the Southern States. The fodder supply is generally good except in parts of Gwalior and Baghelkhand. Prices are falling in Gwalior, Bundelkhand and Malwa, normal in Bhopal and Baghelkhand and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather has been hot with occasional clouds but the mornings are still fairly cool. A light shower of rain fell in Damoh. Harvesting of spring crops has been completed. Threshing and winnowing continue and are approaching completion. Preparation of land for autumn sowings continues. The supply of water and fodder is adequate The condition of cattle is satisfactory. Wheat and juar fell by nearly 2 and 2½ seers per rupee in Yeotmal and Betul, respectively. Elsewhere fluctuations in prices are less marked but the price of wheat continues to show a downward tendency.

Hyderabad.—During the week isolated showers fell in a few places. The average fall was 7 cents. Harvesting of spring crops has been nearly completed. Late rice crop is in fair to good condition and is being irrigated and harvested. Cattle disease prevails in three talukas. Prices of grains are high and almost constant. The highest price of juar in districts is 11 seers per rupee in Medak, Warangal and Karimnagar and the lowest 25 seers per rupee in Adilabad.

Mysore.—During the week slight rain fell throughout the State. The price of ragi has fallen in Shimoga and that of other food stuffs is steady. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are generally in good condition. The outturn of the harvested sugarcane, paddy and cotton is fair to good. Ploughing and sowing of sugarcane are in progress. Prospects of the season are generally good. Cattle are healthy in the greater part of the State. Water and fodder are available.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was good to fair in Madura, Malabar, Travancore, Cochin, Ganjam, Salem, Coimbatore, Trichinopoly, Ramnad, Tinnevelly and the Nilgiris and light or nil elsewhere. Standing crops are in fair to good condition generally but they are withering or have withered in parts of four districts and require more rain in parts of another. Harvesting of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops are proceeding or are nearing completion normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. The water supply is sufficient except in parts of Ganjam, Godavari, Bellary, Anantapur, South Canara and the Carnatic and the southern and central parts, except Trichinopoly. January and February 1916.—The second crop of potatoes and winter vegetables was sown.

March 1916.—The spring crops (wheat, barley, gram, etc.) were harvested in the Terai but owing to the want of rain the outturn was below the average.

April 1916.—Fields are being prepared for the sowing of early rice and Indian corn in the valley. Red pepper is being sown and the second crop of potatoes is being dug. The wheat and barley crops in the hills and in the Nepal valley were suffering until the beginning of April from a marked shortage of moisture but rain has fallen in the period—1st to 15th April and the crops which promised to be very poor are improving. The market is well stocked but prices continue somewhat high. The health of the live-stock is reported to be good.

FOREIGN SEA-BORNE TRADE DURING MARCH 1916.

REVIEW of the SEA-BORNE TRADE and NAVIGATION of BRITISH INDIA for the month of MARCH 1916 and for the twelve months ended MARCH 1916.

FOREIGN COMMERCE.

FOREIGN SEA-BORNE TRADE DURING MARCH 1916.

The trade returns of British India for March 1916, as compared with those of its immediate predecessor, showed decreases in total imports, exports, and re-exports. The total imports of merchandise were valued at R10¾ crores, the exports at nearly R18⅔ crores, and the re-exports at R37⅔ lakhs. As compared with the preceding month (February 1916), the imports decreased by nearly 7 per cent, the exports by over 10 per cent, and the re-exports by 47 per cent. As compared with March 1915, the imports showed an increase of about 15 per cent, the exports of 35 per cent, and the re-exports of 20 per cent.

The actual net excess of exports, including re-exports, over imports was R10,10 lakhs in February 1916, and R8,29 lakhs in March 1916. The statement below shows the figures of imports and exports, including re-exports, during February and March of the years 1914, 1915, and 1916, and the actual net excess of exports over imports during the same periods:—

	1914		1915		1916		Actual net excess of exports over imports

(a) Special duty collected in March 1916.

The customs duty figures are an index to the volume of the import trade only, as under exports jute, rice, and tea only are now subject to duty. In the twelve months, April to March, the import duties declined from R$8,06\frac{3}{4}$ lakhs in 1914-15 to R$7,36\frac{1}{4}$ lakhs in 1915-16, and the export duty on rice from ₹83 lakhs to ₹76¼ lakhs. The new export duty levied from 1st March 1916 on raw jute amounted to ₹57,000, on jute manufactures ₹1,17,000, and on tea ₹93,000. The total customs revenue, excluding salt, but including excise duty on cotton goods and land customs, in the twelve months of 1915-16, amounted to about ₹8,78¾ lakhs, as against ₹9,53½ lakhs last year.

SHIPPING.

The following table shows the number and tonnage of vessels, which entered and cleared with cargoes at ports in British India during March 1916, as compared with February 1916, March 1915, and March 1914:—

Entered with cargoes.

March 1914	307	844,941	172	14,821	479	859,762

In the month of March, there were 262 arrivals* and 545 sailings† in and from India.

The great scarcity of freight at the present time is reflected in these tonnage figures. If a comparison be made with the corresponding month of 1914, before the war broke out, it will be seen that there is a decrease in tonnage of vessels cleared of 340,142 tons or 40 per cent. The clearances from Bengal showed an increase of 6 per cent; while those from Bombay a decrease of 20 per cent; Sind of 39 per cent; Madras of 51 per cent; and Burma of 59 per cent. The decrease in entries amounted to 289,250 tons or 45 per cent.

The shipping clearances with cargoes in foreign trade from the ports of British India in the twelve months, April to March, 1915-16, as compared with the corresponding period of 1913-14 before the war broke out, show the present position of the freight market:—

CROP FORECASTS.

SESAMUM.

Supplementary Memorandum on the SESAMUM Crop of 1915-16

This memorandum deals with the final estimates for the crop received from Madras and Hyderabad and supplements the final memorandum issued on the 20th January last.

Madras (16·6 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The total area estimated in January remains unchanged and stands at 890,000 acres, which is 3⅓ per cent above the actuals of last year. The yield is estimated at 90,000 tons, being 17 per cent in excess of that of last year. In some of the districts in the north and centre, the yield has not been so good as was anticipated notably in Vizagapatam, Kurnool, Chittoor, Chingleput, and North and South Arcot. In the south, especially in the Tanjore, Madura, and South Canara districts, local authorities have slightly revised their estimates.

Hyderabad reports the area sown to be 546,000 acres, which is 9 per cent below the area of last year. The yield is estimated at 22,000 tons, being 18 per cent short as compared with last year.

The estimates in the table appended to the final forecast issued in January last require modifications in accordance with the foregoing reports. The general result for all the provinces from which reports have been received is as follows :—

	Acres	Tons
1915-16	4,070,000	411,000
1914-15	4,565,000	466,000
Average for 5 years ending 1913-14 (a)	4,331,000	400,000

The detailed figures are as follows :—

(1) Area

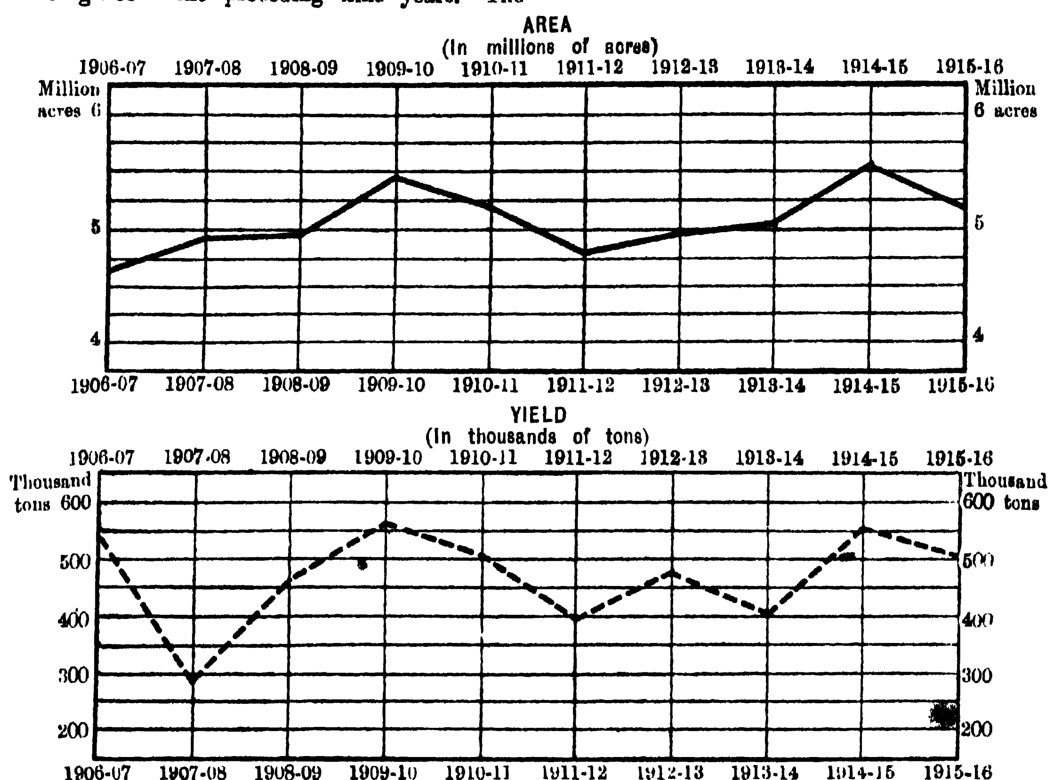
These figures do not include the so-called mixed crop of the United Provinces, that is to say, the sesamum which is grown interspersed with other crops on the same land. The mixed crop in the United Provinces is estimated at approximately 1,100,000 acres yielding 90,000 tons, as against 1,000,000 acres yielding 85,000 tons last year. These figures are, however, rough estimates, and the produce is used largely for home consumption.

In addition to the area for which particulars are given above, the crop is grown in certain other tracts in British India (mainly in Burma), and the average area so grown for the last five years has been some 1,134,000 acres. An addition of approximately 22 per cent may therefore be made to the total estimated outturn on this account.



Exports.—The quantity exported by sea to foreign countries during the last five years ended 31st March has been :—

	Tons
1911-12	94,820
1912-13	77,859
1913-14	112,201
1915-16	13,776

The exports (in tons) in 1915-16 were to the following countries, the figures for the previous year being stated in brackets (in tons): France 9,007 (13,323), Italy 1,716 (9,587), other countries 3,053 (23,795). There were, of course, no exports to Belgium, Germany, and Austria-Hungary which together took 11,463 tons in 1914-15.

(b) Including Native States
(c) Less than 100 tons

Chart.—The chart below shows the present estimates of the total area and yield as compared with the figures of the preceding nine years. The curve for area represents millions of acres and that for yield thousands of tons.

WHEAT.

Special WHEAT Forecast, 1915-16.

This special forecast deals with the state of the wheat crop reported up to the first week of the present month. It is based on reports received from local authorities and refers to 98·6 per cent of the total reported wheat acreage of India. In the table below comparison is made with the estimates given in the special forecast made at this time last year. The final forecast will, as usual, be published in the last week of May.

The total area now reported is 30,100,000 acres (excluding Delhi which is unimportant) as compared with 32,148,000 acres for the same tracts at this time last year, or a decrease of 6·4 per cent. As compared with the final estimate of last year for the same tracts, the present estimate falls short by 6·6 per cent. The total estimated yield is 8,490,000 tons (excluding Delhi) as against 10,293,000 tons at this time last year, or a decrease of 17·5 per cent. As compared with the final estimate of last year for the same tracts, the present estimate shows a decrease of 1,779,000 tons or 17·3 per cent.

(1) Area (in thousand acres)*

It will be seen that the present estimate of yield as against the estimate at this date last year, shows a decrease of 60 per cent in Ajmer-Merwara, 48 per cent in Rajputana, 36 per cent in the Punjab, 30 per cent in the North-West Frontier Province, 28 per cent in Bombay and Sind, 11 per cent in the United Provinces, and 6 per cent in Central India. On the other hand, Hyderabad shows an increase of 80 per cent, Bihar and Orissa 68 per cent, Bengal 25 per cent, and the Central Provinces and Berar 17 per cent.

The failure of the winter rains seriously affected the crop, particularly on unirrigated areas † in the Punjab, the United Provinces, the North-West Frontier Province, Ajmer-Merwara, Rajputana, Sind, and the northern parts of the Bombay Presidency. In the Central Provinces and Berar, Bihar and Orissa, Hyderabad, the Bombay Deccan, and in the eastern and southern parts of Central India, the weather conditions have, on the whole, been favourable.

(a) Including Native States.
* Delhi is not included in this statement, as no estimate of yield for 1914-15 has been reported. The area reported is 28,000 acres as against 32,000 acres at this time last year, and the yield this year is estimated at 10,600 tons.
† The unirrigated area under wheat is on an average about 50 per cent of the total wheat area in the Punjab, 54 per cent in the United Provinces, 74 per cent in the North-West Frontier Province, 46 per cent in Ajmer-Merwara, 18 per cent in Sind, and 86 per cent in the Bombay Presidency.

The provincial reports are summarised below :—

Punjab (32·5 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The combined area of British districts and Native States is estimated at 10,333,000 acres, which shows a decrease of 8 per cent, as compared with the estimate at this time last year. The area sown in British districts, it may be noted, is 9,065,000 acres, which is 8 per cent below last year, and that in Native States 1,268,000 acres, which is about 8 per cent short of last year's corresponding estimate. The total estimated yield is 2,509,000 tons (402,000 tons being in Native States), which is 36 per cent below the estimate at this time last year. Light or moderate showers were received in the south-east and submontane tracts in the third week of February, and were useful. After this the weather cleared and remained generally dry up to the middle of the third week of March. Light but fairly general rain fell on or after the 18th March, which was beneficial to the standing crops, especially in parts of the Rawalpindi division, where the fall was good. The total rainfall, however, was quite insufficient for the maturing of the unirrigated crop, which has suffered considerably in the south-east and south-western districts. The partial failure of the winter rains affected the yield adversely. The yield is reported to be from below normal to normal on irrigated areas and poor or bad on unirrigated areas.

United Provinces (23·3 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area under wheat, pure and mixed, is now estimated at 6,681,000 acres as against 7,263,000 acres reported at this time last year, or a decrease of 8 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 2,742,000 tons, as compared with 3,082,000 tons estimated at this time last year, showing a decrease of 11 per cent. Owing to difficulties in sowing, the area under wheat is smaller than was anticipated. The only division which shows an increase (of 106,000 acres) in the area sown is Jhansi. The months of December and January were practically rainless in the plains districts, and there was a serious shortage of water in both the Ganges and the Jumna canals. The long spell of dry weather injured the unirrigated crop, particularly in the western districts, where the rainfall during the monsoon period had been deficient. Rain was received in the third week of February, and, although of material value to the unirrigated crop, it came too late to ensure a good harvest. The irrigated crop has on the whole done well, although, owing to short supplies of water, it is below normal in parts of the canal irrigated tracts. The Meerut division, in which there are considerable unirrigated areas, returns an estimate of 70 per cent of the normal; and Agra and Rohilkhand of 80 per cent each. In Gorakhpur the wheat crop is estimated at 90 per cent; in Allahabad, Benares, and Lucknow at 95 per cent; and in Jhansi and Fyzabad at 100 per cent of the normal. For the province as a whole the wheat crop is estimated at 90 per cent of the normal.

Central Provinces and Berar (11·6 per cent of the total area under wheat in India) :—The total area sown is now estimated at 3,601,000 acres (3,094,000 acres being in the Central Provinces, 388,000 acres in Berar, and 119,000 acres in the States of Khairagarh and Nandgaon), which is 5 per cent above the area reported at this time last year. The total yield is estimated at 963,000 tons (822,000 tons in the Central Provinces, 108,000 tons in Berar, and 33,000 tons in Khairagarh and Nandgaon), as compared with 820,000 tons at this time last year, or an increase of 17 per cent. Germinations were, on the whole, successful, although bad seed in parts of Nagpur and Chanda and heavy rain following up the sowings in Raipur necessitated resowing, and cloudy weather affected slightly the germinations in Nimar. During the last week of December there were timely, though light, showers in the Nerbudda Valley, the Satpura, and the Berar districts, which improved the prospects of the crop. January was practically rainless. During the 2nd and 3rd weeks of February light showers were received throughout the province, except in Nimar and Wardha, but the accompanying cloudy weather, frost, and hail damaged the crop to some extent in a few districts. March passed practically rainless, and this facilitated harvesting of the crop all over the province. On the whole, the climatic conditions were generally favourable to the crop. Buldana expects nearly a full crop. The estimated outturn in Seoni, Nimar, Nagpur, and Chanda ranges from 82 to 90 per cent, and in the remaining districts from 100 to 105 per cent of the normal. For the Central Provinces the outturn works out to 99 per cent and for Berar to 107 per cent. For both the Central Provinces and Berar together a normal outturn (100) is anticipated.

Bombay and Sind (7·7 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is now reported to be 2,512,000 acres (including 552,000 acres in Native States) as against 2,840,000 acres reported at this time last year, or a decrease of 11 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 633,000 tons (including 148,000 tons in Native States), which is 28 per cent below the estimate made at this time last year. Since the publication of the second wheat forecast in March, no rain has fallen anywhere in the Presidency, and no change in the condition of the crop has been reported. As already reported, the crop in Gujarat suffered from want of moisture, and in Sind through deficiency of water supply and, in places, through frost. In the Deccan the crop on the whole has done well. In the Karnatak it suffered somewhat from cloudy weather, untimely rains, and unfavourable winds. The unirrigated crop in the Presidency has all been harvested, and the gathering of the irrigated crop on an area of 362,000 acres only is in progress. The Sind crop, of which 443,000 acres are irrigated, is about ready for harvest.

Bihar and Orissa (4·3 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area sown is reported to be 1,330,000 acres as against 1,218,000 acres reported at this time last year, or an increase of 9 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 583,000 tons, which is 68 per cent larger than the estimate made at this time last year. The increase in area is due to favourable weather at the time of sowing and also to the fact that in parts of Tirhut the crop was largely sown on areas from which paddy and bhadoi (autumn) crops had been washed away by floods. In February the rainfall was slightly above the normal in Patna and in the Tirhut division, and below the normal elsewhere. In March there was no rain, except light showers in parts of Singhbhum and Ranchi. The weather conditions were generally favourable. Some damage was, however, done to the crop in parts of Patna, Gaya, and Cuttack by excessive rain in November, and in Palamau by hailstorm in February. The present condition of the crop is reported to be fair to good. According to the estimates of district officers, the outturn for the province works out to 93 per cent of the normal, but the provincial Director of Agriculture thinks it will probably not be less than the normal as the crop has generally been good in Bihar, except in the flooded tracts in parts of Tirhut.

North-West-Frontier Province (3·4 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area as now ascertained amounts to 850,000 acres, which is 27 per cent below that reported at this time last year. The total yield is estimated at 205,000 tons as against 293,000 tons reported at this time last year, or a decrease of 30 per cent. The contraction in area is due to the failure of rain at the sowing time. The yield is average on the irrigated lands of all districts and agencies, except Kohat and Dera Ismail Khan, where it is below normal. The yield on unirrigated lands is generally below average.

Bengal (0·5 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area sown with the crop is estimated at 134,000 acres, which is about the same as reported at this time last year. The total yield is estimated at 40,000 tons as against 32,000 tons reported at this time last year, or an increase of 25 per cent. The season up to January was reported to be fair. No rain fell during the first fortnight of February, but during the last two weeks light showers fell almost all over the province. The small amount of rainfall after two and-a-half months of drought did not, however, materially improve the condition and prospects of the crop. The season, therefore, although it proved satisfactory at the outset, was less favourable at the later stage.

Ajmer-Merwara (0·1 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is now estimated at 12,000 acres, which is 33 per cent below the area reported at this time last year. The total yield is estimated at 2,000 tons as against 5,000 tons estimated at this time last year, or a decrease of 60 per cent.

Delhi (0·1 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is estimated at 28,000 acres as against 32,000 acres last year. The decrease in the unirrigated area was due to the scarcity of rain, and the yield of the unirrigated crop is also estimated at 25 per cent as against the normal for the irrigated crop. Accordingly the quantitative estimate is 9,800 tons irrigated and 800 tons unirrigated.

Central India (8·8 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is now estimated at 2,946,000 acres as against 3,090,000 acres estimated at this time last year, or a decrease of 5 per cent. The total yield is reported to be 618,000 tons as against 656,000 tons at this time last year, showing a decrease of 6 per cent. The details are as follows :—

Rajputana (3·2 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is estimated at 625,000 acres as against 899,000 acres reported at this time last year, or a decrease of 30·5 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 113,000 tons, which is 48 per cent below the estimate at the corresponding period last year. All the States except Partabgarh show a contraction in area, which is due generally to insufficiency of rainfall at the time of sowing. Damage by frost is further reported from Kushalgarh and by winds from Alwar. Detailed figures for the States are as follows :—

Agricultural conditions have been favourable.

Mysore (0·01 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is estimated at 4,000 acres and the yield at 600 tons as against 3,100 acres and 600 tons last year.

Chart.—The chart below illustrates the variations in the total estimates of area and yield in the last ten years.

* Figures for some minor states are not reported.

Freights.—As compared with this time last year wheat freights have nearly doubled from the United States Atlantic ports and more than doubled from the Argentine and India, as shown below :—

Australia to United Kingdom	110 0	—	17 0
Karachi to Liverpool	120 0	45 0	10 0

Freights have recently declined in the absence of chartering by merchants and a larger number of vessels being available.

Wheat Crops in Foreign Countries.—The latest available information published in March by the International Institute of Agriculture, Rome, is as follows :—

In the Argentine the area and yield are estimated at 16,413,000 acres and 4,615,000 tons as against 15,465,000 acres and 4,503,000 tons in 1914-15. In Australia the estimates of area and yield are 11,495,000 acres and 3,822,000 tons as compared with 11,799,000 acres and 664,000 tons last year. The area sown with winter wheat this year in Canada is 1,100,000 acres against 1,293,000 acres in 1914-15, and that in France 12,435,000 acres as against 13,609,000 acres last year. In Spain 9,874,000 acres have been sown with winter wheat this year. The Monthly Crop Report, issued by the Department of Agriculture, United States of America, on the 30th December 1915, estimated the area under winter wheat in the United States of America at 37,256,000 acres against 42,012,000 acres in 1914-15 and the yield at about 14,464,000 tons as against 17,546,000 tons last season.

From un-official sources it appears that in the United States of America, the winter wheat has a fairly good cover of snow, but the beneficial change has come late as the crop had already suffered from winter killing. In Russia relatively mild weather is prevailing and the position of the crop is considered to be satisfactory. As regards the condition in the Argentine, a recent report, which appeared in the Times of Argentina, states that there is no doubt that the country has obtained a very big wheat crop, which will be very nearly the record. In Australia rains continue to be reported from various parts, and the present weather is quite sea onable and favourable for preparing the land for the new crop. In France the recent falls of snow were well received by the wheat growers, who are now quite optimistic concerning prospects for the next harvest. The latest official bulletin in Italy describes the winter crops as really satisfactory, whilst spring sowings started with very favourable weather.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA

Director of Statistics

Published by order of the Governor-General in Council

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN SELECTED ARTICLES IN FEBRUARY 1916.

The object of the tables below is to show the quantities of the principal staples of agricultural produce imported from the various provinces, etc., and from foreign countries into the ports of Calcutta, Bombay, Karachi, and the Madras ports during the month of February 1916, and for the eleven months April 1915 to February 1916, as compared with the corresponding periods of 1915. The statistics include foreign sea-borne and coasting trade as well as inland (rail and river-borne) trade. They have been furnished by Collectors of Customs, Steamer Companies, Railway Audit Officers, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, etc.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN FEBRUARY 1915 AND 1916.

It will be seen from Table I, that the imports by rail, river and sea in February 1916, as against the corresponding month of 1915 show (in round numbers) an increase of—

75 per cent in linseed.
(10,700 tons as against 6,100 tons last year.)

51 per cent in tea.
(8,296,200 lbs. as against 5,502,000 lbs. last year.)

25 per cent in gram and pulse.
(34,000 tons as against 27,100 tons last year.)

22 per cent in jute.
(585,300 bales as against 481,200 bales last year.)

(14,600 tons as against 12,000 tons last year.)

The imports of rice by rail, river and sea into ports show a fall of 37 per cent (117,900 tons as against 185,900 tons last year) due mainly to smaller exports from Burma. The decrease of 7 per cent (25,300 tons as against 27,400 tons last year) in the imports of wheat is accounted for by smaller exports mainly from the Punjab.

NOTE.—400 lbs. are equivalent to 1 bale of cotton or jute.
82$\frac{2}{7}$ lbs are equivalent to 1 maund.
1 maund of paddy is taken as equivalent to 25 seers of rice.

It will be seen from Table IV (wheat, excluding wheat flour) that the principal sources of the imports in February 1915 were the Punjab, Bombay, and the United Provinces. Table XI shows the exports out of India of wheat (including wheat flour) month by month during the last five years.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN ELEVEN MONTHS ENDING FEBRUARY 1915 AND 1916.

The eleven months' figures in table I show (in round numbers) an increase of—

32 per cent in jute.
(5,569,200 bales as against 4,229,000 bales last year.)

25 per cent in raw cotton.
(3,669,300 bales as against 2,930,100 bales last year.)

22 per cent in gram and pulse.

13 per cent in tea.
(276,691,900 lbs. as against 245,118,300 lbs. last year.)

2 per cent in rape and mustard seed.

1 per cent in rice.
(1,266,400 tons as against 1,247,900 tons last year.)

Imports of linseed into ports show a decrease of 24 per cent (202,200 tons as against 264,800 tons last year) mainly on account of smaller exports from Bihar and Orissa and Bengal. The fall of 1 per cent (1,018,900 tons as against 1,033,900 tons last year) in the imports of wheat (excluding wheat flour) is due principally to smaller exports from the Punjab to Karachi (467,300 tons as against 713,600 tons last year), although the imports into ports from the United Provinces show an increase (247,300 tons as against 75,900 tons last year).

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN FEBRUARY 1916 AS COMPARED WITH THE PREVIOUS MONTH.

As compared with January 1916, the imports in February 1916 into the ports referred to above show (in round numbers) an increase of—

83 per cent in rape and mustard seed.
(14,600 tons as against 8,000 tons previous month.)

56 per cent in jute.
(585,800 bales as against 376,100 bales previous month.)

21 per cent in gram and pulse.
(34,000 tons as against 28,200 tons previous month.)

and a decrease of—

64 per cent in tea.
(8,296,200 lbs. as against 22,923,100 lbs. previous month.)

19 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat-flour).
(25,300 tons as against 31,100 tons previous month.)

16 per cent in raw cotton.
(505,400 bales as against 604,700 bales previous month.)

5 per cent in rice.
(117,900 tons as against 124,200 tons previous month.)

1 per cent in linseed.
(10,700 tons as against 10,900 tons previous month.)

Rules made by the Secretary of State for India in Council under Indian Civil Service (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1915 (5 & 6 George V., Chapter 87).

1. In 1916 the Secretary of State in Council will take into consideration the case of Indian candidates who competed for admission to the Indian Civil Service in the open competitive examinations of 1915 and 1916. In each succeeding year during which the Indian Civil Service (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1915, is in force, the Secretary of State in Council will take into consideration the case of Indian candidates who competed for admission to the Indian Civil Service in the Open Competitive Examination of the year.

2. If it be found that the number of Indians admitted as Selected Candidates for the Indian Civil Service on the results of the said examinations is less than the average number of Indians annually so admitted during the 10 years ending 1914, the Secretary of State in Council will make good the deficiency by nominating for admission to the Indian Civil Service one or more of the other Indian candidates whose names appear on the results list of the Civil Service Commission, selecting the same in the order of their priority on the said list. Provided that no candidate will be so nominated unless—

(1) The aggregate marks obtained by him in the Open Competitive Examination are such as in the opinion of the Civil Service Commissioners might in the decennial period above mentioned have secured for him admission to the Indian Civil Service; and

(2) He is certified by the Civil Service Commissioners to have in other respects the qualifications which the Regulations for the Open Competitive Examination require of Selected Candidates for the Civil Service of India.

3. If in any year there are not sufficient Indian candidates qualified as aforesaid to bring the number admitted to the Indian Civil Service in the year by open competition and by nomination under these rules up to the average of the 10 years ending 1914, the Secretary of State in Council may in a subsequent year make good the deficiency from the results list of that year, but no candidate shall be appointed under these rules who does not possess the qualifications set forth in (1) and (2) of the last preceding rule.

4. A candidate nominated under these rules shall be deemed to be a Selected Candidate for the Civil Service of India, and shall be subject to the regulations and rules made under Section 32 of the Government of India Act, 1858, and Section 97 of the Government of India Act, 1915, for the probation and training of Selected Candidates of the year.

METEOROLOGY.

Simla, the 5th May, 1916.

It will be remembered that a new system of storm warning signals for use at Indian ports was announced in September last. This system is now in force but it has been found necessary on military grounds to suspend temporarily the exhibition of night signals at Bombay, Madras, Karachi and Aden until the station from which these are exhibited has either been approved by the military authorities or has been moved to a site free from objection. The day signals at these four ports and both day and night signals at all other ports will remain unaffected.

During the short time necessary for the removal the Port Officers at Bombay, Madras, Karachi and Aden will endeavour to keep shipping informed by other means of any storm changes of which they receive warning at night.

LONDON GAZETTE.

No. 471.—The following extracts are published for general information :—

Third Supplement dated the 27th March 1916, to the " London Gazette " of the 24th March 1916, pages 3279 and 3280.

War Office,

24th March 1916.

The following supplementary despatch has been received by the Secretary of State for War from General Sir Ian Hamilton, G.C.B. (The references are to the pages of the Supplement to the London Gazette, dated 6th January, 1916, Number 29429) :—

1 Hyde Park Gardens, W.,

March 10th, 1916.

MY LORD,—

I have the honour to submit herewith a supplement to my despatch of 11th December, 1915. Your Lordship may remember that I was unable to set seriously to work upon this despatch until after my return home at the end of October, 1915, and that, when I did so, I was hampered by my separation from my late General Headquarters.

My main difficulty lay in the lack of properly authenticated facts relating to the actions and identities of some of the units which had borne the brunt of the fighting. In the Suvla Bay area especially so many senior commanders had gone under in one way or another that it seemed as if the story must be left half told.

But now, since my despatch has been studied by many who were themselves engaged, fresh light has been thrown upon several episodes hitherto obscure. I have sifted the evidence, and have satisfied myself that full justice has not been done to certain individuals and units. I hope, therefore, these corrigenda and addenda may be permitted to appear.

Page 296. Substitute the words "6th Royal Irish Rifles" for the words "10th Hampshire Regiment."

Page 300. Brigadier-General Hill's 31st Brigade consisted of the 5th Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, the 6th Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, the 5th Royal Irish Fusiliers, and the 6th Royal Irish Fusiliers, plus the 6th Royal Dublin Fusiliers and the 7th Royal Dublin Fusiliers which were temporarily attached thereto. Of these battalions the 5th Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers joined General Mahon, and were, therefore, not present during the fighting at Chocolate Hill. In addition to units already singled out for commendation, the 5th Royal Irish Fusiliers and the 7th Royal Dublin Fusiliers deserve special mention for the energy and boldness which characterised their attack.

Page 302. In the attack on Hill 70, on the 9th August, the 6th Royal Irish Fusiliers and the 6th Royal Dublin Fusiliers of the 31st Brigade (both attached to the 32nd Brigade for this day's operations) rendered distinguished service.

Page 306. The 9th Battalion Sherwood Foresters had constantly maintained stout hearts and a soldierly spirit in despite of the heavy losses they had suffered when carrying out their costly duty of closing the big gap between the left of the Anzac troops and Chocolate Hill from the 8th to 14th August. On the 21st August this same Battalion, together with the 6th Battalion, Border Regiment, displayed a vigorous initiative combined with very steady discipline during the attack on Ismail Oglu Tepe.

Since the publication of my despatch of the 11th December the late Commanders of the 11th Division and 9th Corps have drawn my attention to the good work done by the following officers :—

Brigadier-General R. P. Maxwell, commanding the 33rd Brigade. He evinced coolness as well as energy throughout the heavy fighting of August, and stuck to his duty afterwards until, through sickness, he was literally unable to stand.

Brigadier-General H. Haggard, commanding the 32nd Brigade. He was severely wounded on the 7th of August, but not before he had had time to give sure proof of leadership and daring.

The following mentions of officers of the Staff of the 29th Brigade and of the 6th Royal Irish Rifles and 10th Hampshire Regiment have only lately come to hand. The original documents seem to have gone entirely astray owing to successive casualties amongst the senior officers to whom they were addressed :—

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 4th May 1916, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. Weather was unsettled in Kashmir and the adjacent districts where falls of snow and rain occurred. In northeast India, Burma and the Peninsula weather was unusually dry, only a few scattered falls being reported.

A noteworthy feature of the weather was the formation of a cyclonic storm in the neighbourhood of the Andamans; it gave heavy rain at Port Blair, but up to the close of the week had not affected the coast districts of the Bay to any appreciable extent.

2. Burma.—Rainfall was nearly general in Tenasserim on the 30th April, and heavy rain fell at Port Blair on the 1st and 2nd May.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—Rainfall occurred chiefly in upper Assam.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—Pachmarhi had a light fall of rain.

Northwest India.—There was nearly general precipitation in Kashmir on the 27th and 28th April, and in the North-West Frontier Province on the 29th.

The Peninsula.—Only a few scattered falls of rain occurred.

3. The chief amounts of rainfall were as follows:—

April 27th. Drosh 0·85".

" 28th. Victoria Point 0·82", Mergui 0·81", Sonamarg 1·01" and Dras 0·82".

" 29th. Victoria Point 1·28", Drosh 1·23" and Peshawar 0·35".

" 30th. Tavoy 1·15", Drosh 0·64" and Kodaikanal 0·87".

May 1st. Port Blair 4·70", Sibsagar 1·16" and Sonamarg 0·75".

" 2nd. Port Blair 3·36" and Dibrugarh 0·86".

" 3rd. Port Blair 1·21", Moulmein 1·10", Jessore 0·81" and Nizamabad 0·83".

4. The rainfall of the week was in excess by more than 20 per cent in the North-West Frontier Province, Kashmir, Hyderabad North and the Bay Islands. No rain usually falls at this time of year in Central India, Rajputana East, Gujarat, Sind and Berar; in all the remaining divisions rainfall was more than 20 per cent in defect.

As a new rainfall period begins with this week, the departures of rainfall from the normal for the period are the same as those for the week.

Division.	Rainfall data for week ending on 4th May 1916.			Rainfall data from 28th April 1916 to 4th May 1916.			Percentage departure from normal.

Sowing of summer rice has commenced and harvesting of miscellaneous crops has been nearly completed. Standing crops are in good condition. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon has risen slightly to Rs. 120 per hundred baskets and is still above normal. The supplies are very scarce. The market for white rice is firm.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable and generally favourable to standing crops. Light to moderate rain fell in all districts and facilitated agricultural operations. Some damage by hailstorms to standing crops and tea bushes in south Sylhet has again been reported. Pressing of sugarcane has been practically finished. Ploughing of land for and sowing of paddy and jute and plucking of tea are in progress. Harvesting of spring rice in Sylhet is going on. Planting of sugarcane has commenced in places. Prospects of tea are fair and of spring rice poor. The price of common rice has fallen. Cattle disease is reported from five districts.

Bengal.—During the week light rain fell generally throughout the Province. More rain is required for agricultural operations and for the growth of standing crops. Ploughing and sowing of jute and autumn paddy are in full swing. Weeding of jute fields has commenced in some of the Eastern Bengal districts. Harvesting of summer rice and planting of sugarcane are approaching completion. Prospects of mango are reported to be fair in Malda. Scarcity of water is felt in parts of the Murshidabad district. Cattle disease is reported from five districts. The average price of common rice for the Province has a slight tendency to rise as compared with that of the preceding week.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—In the Bankura district the state of affairs and the condition of the people in affected areas are generally unchanged. Relief measures are adequate. People are freely resorting to works. Loans are being freely advanced. Private charitable funds are giving assistance. Scarcity of fodder continues. Prices are rising. The price of rice is 8½ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 16,828 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 24,982, total 41,810. The number of persons relieved on private works was 5,546. In the Tippera district conditions are improving in affected areas. The weather is favourable to standing crops and to weeding operations. Threshing operations continue. Planting of sugarcane is going on and preparation of lands for autumn crops is in progress but rain is wanted for the purpose in parts of Orissa. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has remained almost stationary as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient except in parts of Hazaribagh where water is reported to be scarce. Cattle disease is reported from several districts. The attendance of persons on test works averages in Manbhum to 1,925 and in Singhbhum to 8,816 per diem. Gratuitous relief was given to 1,428 persons in Manbhum. Threshing and winnowing of spring crops, irrigation of extra crops and sowing of indigo and cotton are in progress. Weighments of opium continue. The condition of agricultural stock is generally good. Harvesting of wheat and other spring crops is in progress with yield on irrigated areas below normal to normal and on unirrigated areas bad in the southeast and poor elsewhere. Sowings of extra spring crops have been nearly completed and of sugarcane, cotton and fodder continue and are generally normal. The condition of the crops sown on irrigated areas is generally fair. Cattle are generally healthy but are weak in some districts owing to the scarcity of fodder. Water for drinking and irrigation is generally sufficient. Prices are generally stationary and in the case of wheat they range between normal and warning rates and in other cases between warning and scarcity rates. AUDIT AND APPROPRIATION REPORT

ON

OF

FOR

1914-15.

INTRODUCTORY.

The changes in the form of the Appropriation Report, foreshadowed in the introductory paragraph of my Appropriation Report for the year 1913-14, have been approved by the Secretary of State and have been given effect to in the present Report. The voluminous statements, which set forth in detail the differences between the Account figures for the year and those of the Budget Estimates of the same year, and the Actuals of the preceding year, together with the corresponding portion of the general review which briefly summarised the reasons for these variations, have been omitted. This portion of the Report has hitherto been compiled in accordance with the orders contained in the Secretary of State's Despatch No. 46, dated the 27th January 1881. Since that date, however, conditions have so far altered as to justify the exclusion of information which can be adequately obtained from other existing sources. The financial history of each year is recounted more or less fully in the annual Financial Statement, and the variations between the Budget and the Revised Estimates of the year, which differ very slightly from the variations between the Budget Estimates and the Actuals, are explained in detail in the Financial Secretary's memorandum. It is, therefore, superfluous to record a year later practically the same information in the Appropriation Report. This change has resulted in a considerable reduction in the bulk of the Report and more prominence is in consequence given to matters of practical importance. Thus, among other changes, the work of the Department is more fully reviewed than in previous Reports. In view of the alterations which have now been introduced in the form and subject matter of the Report, the designation has been changed to 'Audit and Appropriation Report.'

PROVINCIAL FINANCE.

Pr Set

2. No change was made during the year in the terms of any of the existing provincial settlements. The Punjab Government surrendered a crore of Rupees from the large balances that had accrued, principally owing to non-recurring receipts from the sale of Government lands, in exchange for a fixed assignment of Rs. 8½ lakhs a year, which will continue in perpetuity and is not liable to resumption directly or indirectly during any future revision of the provincial settlement. A revised quasi-provincial settlement with the Local Administration of Baluchistan was sanctioned for a period of 5 years from the 1st April 1914, under which only a third of the total expenditure is charged to quasi-provincial revenues instead of half as under the previous arrangement. As stated in paragraph 13 of the last Report, no distinction in this case is, however, made in the general accounts between Imperial and Provincial receipts and expenditure, but a pro-forma account is maintained, outside the general accounts, in which the Provincial balances are worked out.

3. The following statement shows the Revenue, Expenditure and Balances of Provincial Governments. The closing balances in all the Provinces were largely in excess of the prescribed minima.

Total .	(a) 14,41,14	45,58,30	48,86,83	−3,28,53	11,12,61	...

(a) Differs from last year's closing balance owing to the surrender by the Government of the Punjab of 1,00,00 of its balance in exchange for a recurring contribution from Imperial Revenues of 3,50 a year, with effect from 1st April 1914.

EXPENDITURE UNDER OBJECTION.

General.

4. During the year under review certain alterations were introduced in the form of the audit office objection books with a view to differentiating between merely formal objections and those representing substantial deviations from code rules. On the Civil side the column 'Items adjusted but awaiting final clearance' has been divided into two, one for items held under objection for want of countersigned detailed bills and the other for items objected to for other reasons. In the tables below, the amounts entered in the columns 'Suspense' and 'Items awaiting clearance—for want of detailed bills' represent merely formal objections, while those entered in the remaining columns, viz. 'Items awaiting clearance—for other reasons' and 'Service payments for recovery', may be taken generally as indicating substantial objections. On the Public Works side no alteration in the form of the objection book has been found necessary, but instructions have been issued to enter the amounts of material objections only in the money column under 'Miscellaneous irregularities.' The amounts entered in all the columns of the Public Works objection tables in this Report represent, as a rule, substantial deviations from code rules. I may mention also that the procedure hitherto followed in the several audit offices in regard to the record and compilation of Public Works objections has not been quite uniform, this being due, to some extent, to certain inconsistencies in the rules in the Public Works Department Code on the subject of the sanction necessary to admit in audit excesses over sanctioned estimates. The matter has been referred to the Government of India.

Civil Department.

Percentage objections to total expenditure.

5. The following statement shows the amount of gross objections raised in each Province during the year under review, the amount of net objections representing substantial infringements of financial rules, the amount of expenditure audited, and the percentage which the net objections bear to the total expenditure.

The highest percentage occurred in Assam as in the preceding year, vide paragraph 28 of my last Report, and is said to be chiefly due to the large amount of objections raised in connection with charges relating to the North-East Frontier, to the fact that the system of contract contingencies has not been adopted to the full extent and to the comparatively poor qualifications of the men employed on accounts work. It is desirable that the Local Administration should take special steps to effect an improvement in this matter.

Analysis of Outstanding Objections.

Balances of objections on 31st July 1915.

6. The balances of the several classes of objections raised up to the 31st March 1915, but remaining unadjusted on the 31st July 1915, are given in the following statement. The corresponding figures for the preceding year are also shown for purposes of comparison.

7. As compared with the preceding year there was a net increase of 15 in the total outstanding balance for all India. In India, the Punjab, Burma, Bihar and Orissa, Assam, and under Post Office the balances were larger than in the preceding year, while in the North-West Frontier Province, Madras, Bombay, Bengal, and the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh there was some improvement. In India the increase was due to the cash balance of the Baghdad treasury having been held under suspense and to larger items having been rejected in the exchange account current, the adjustment of which awaits further information from the Controller of War Accounts. In the Punjab the increase was mainly due to an item of 58, representing a debit raised by the Military Department on account of the excess over Rs. 26 per head in the cost of the maintenance of the children in the Military Asylum at Sanawar, which remained unadjusted owing to want of full particulars. The adjustment has since been effected. In Burma the increase was due mainly to advances made in connection with the Kamaing expedition to suppress the Kachin rising having been placed under objection pending receipt of detailed countersigned bills. In Bihar and Orissa there was an increase owing to sums amounting to 25 having been overdrawn by a Press Superintendent on account of contract contingencies, overtime allowance, and press establishment paid at piece rates. In Assam an adjustment of 45 was made in the accounts for March 1915 (final) in connection with debits raised through the exchange account. Under Post Office the increase occurred chiefly in Bombay, where a large number of objections for want of sanctions, etc., against Base Post Offices were raised owing to the conditions of work on Field Service.

(a) Amount less than one thousand.

The figures for 1914-15 are worse than those for 1913-14 in respect of the amounts outstanding on account of objections raised in the year under report (12,21 as against 12,02). The outstandings of previous years, however, show some improvement (32 against 36).

Analysis of outstandings relating to 1912-13, and previous years.

9. Out of the 98 items relating to 1912-13 and previous years remaining unadjusted on 31st July 1914, 70 were adjusted during the period under review. Of the balance of 28, which were outstanding on the 31st July 1915, 27 belong to 1912-13 and 1 to 1910-11.

Year.	Province.	No. of items.	Amount (in units of rupees).
1910-11	India	1	210
1912-13	India	10	1,063
	Bombay	1	49
	Bengal	12	5,436
	United Provinces	4	1,254

Under India, the item for 1910-11, as stated in paragraph 24 of my last Report, represents the balance of the amount recoverable from a late Trade Agent at a frontier station: it has since been written off under the orders of the Punjab Government

The items for 1912-13 represent (1) amounts, aggregating Rs. 673, irregularly drawn in January 1913 by a late Accountant of a certain Consulate on account of transit pay and family travelling allowance, which were not sanctioned by the Government of India, and (2) pay of establishment, amounting to Rs 390, not included in the scale of the Delhi Province sanctioned by the Secretary of State. In the case of the former, the amount has been recovered by deduction from the gratuity paid to the officer in January 1916. The latter item has since been adjusted on receipt of the sanction of the Secretary of State.

The item in Bombay represents the balance of an advance drawn by a Deputy Collector to meet the charges for printing certain forms to be supplied to licensed vendors of arms and ammunition. The forms are to be sold as required and the sale-proceeds credited in reduction of the advance.

The 12 items in Bengal, making up a total of Rs 5,436, represent, as stated in paragraph 26 of my last Report, charges incurred without competent sanction in connection with the Bodyguard establishment of His Excellency the Governor. The matter is stated to be still under the consideration of the Government of India.

Out of the 4 items relating to the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, 2, amounting to Rs 1,200, represent a sum misappropriated by a Police Accountant, and referred to in paragraph 26 of my last Report. The Local Government have since passed orders in respect of the amount misappropriated and fresh objections have been raised to effect recovery from the officers concerned.

Analysis of outstandings relating to 1913-14.

10. The total outstandings for 1913-14 were reduced from 12,02 on the 31st July 1914 to 25 on the corresponding date in 1915. In other words, 97·9 per cent. of the objections for 1913-14, outstanding on 31st July 1914, were cleared during the period under review. The balance was made up of 65 items distributed amongst the Provinces as follows :—

Province.	No. of items.	Amount (in thousands).
India	33	14
Madras	1	1
Bombay	5	2
Bengal	11	2
United Provinces	1	4
Punjab	5	1
Bihar and Orissa	3	1
Assam	1	(a)
Post Office	2	(a)
TOTAL	65	25

(a) Amount less than one thousand.

11. Of these items the more important are mentioned below :—

India.—Two items, aggregating Rs. 11,454, are outstanding pending the receipt of detailed accounts from Sir Aurel Stein. Another item of Rs. 1,017, which represents the pay of establishment not included in the sanctioned scale of the Delhi Province, has since been adjusted on receipt of the requisite sanction.

Madras.—The item of Rs. 1,652 represents a part of the loss incurred in certain indigo experiments and has since been adjusted.

Bombay.—The outstandings include a sum of Rs. 1,868, being salary drawn in excess by certain Political Officers. Recovery was held over under instructions from the Local Government pending the receipt of orders from the Secretary of State, which have since been received. The amount has finally been admitted.

Bengal.—The amount relates to small miscellaneous irregularities which were duly reported to the Local Government. Some have since been adjusted and others are under correspondence.

United Provinces of Agra and Oudh.—The item represents the unadjusted balance of the cost of an aeroplane presented by His Highness the Maharaja of Rewah in August 1913. The adjustment has since been settled Punjab.—A sum of Rs 900 was paid to the Zamindars in the Kangra Forest Division on account of Zamindari share of certain revenue and the actual payees' receipts were called for Owing to some administrative difficulties in the way of a strict compliance with audit requirements, the Local Government have since passed orders for the acceptance of the receipts of the Village Headmen, which have been called for.

Bihar and Orissa.—Rs. 400 represent the sum advanced to a contractor from the Kolhan Market Fund in March 1914 for the construction of a well, a bazar shed, and a bridge. After prolonged correspondence, a detailed countersigned bill for Rs 181-2-8 was received in August 1915 and the balance of Rs 218-13-4 has also since been adjusted. The delay in the adjustment of this item was brought to the notice of the Local Government.

12. The objections for 1914-15, outstanding on 31st July 1915, amounted to 12,21 and may be classified as follows :—

Want of sanction	2,72
Want of detailed countersigned bills	2,69
Want of sub-vouchers	2,06
Service payments for recovery	32
Other objections	4,42

The corresponding balance for 1913-14, outstanding on the 31st July 1914, was 12,02. There was thus an increase of 1·6 per cent. as compared with the preceding year

Under 'Want of sanction' the figures were high in Burma (73), in Bihar and Orissa (50), and under Post Office (37). These outstandings, as explained in paragraph 7 above, were due in Burma to heavy expenditure in the Police Department on account of the Kamaing expedition, in Bihar and Orissa to the inclusion of the amounts overdrawn by a Press Superintendent on account of contract contingencies, overtime allowance, and establishment paid at piece rates, and under Post Office to a larger number of objections being unavoidable against the Base Post Offices in Bombay owing to the conditions of work on Field Service.

Under 'Want of detailed countersigned bills' the figures were high against Burma (69), Bihar and Orissa (49), Assam (47), and the Punjab (42). In Burma, 60 relates to the sum drawn by a Deputy Commissioner in February and March 1915 in two sums of 30 each as advances to a mule contractor in connection with the Kamaing expedition. The advances will be deducted from the final bill of the contractor, which is stated to have been received by the Deputy Commissioner concerned.

The amount shown against Bihar and Orissa is chiefly due to heavy drawings for the construction of Police Quarters and for the purchase of materials towards the end of the year, which have since been adjusted.

In Assam, also, heavy drawings in February and March 1915 account for the large outstandings, of which 37 have since been adjusted. In the Punjab the outstandings include (a) 10 drawn by a Deputy Commissioner in February and March in connection with repairs to canals, which were not adjusted until October, and (b) 8 in connection with printing the catalogue of the Punjab Museum, the payee's receipt for which had to be awaited from England

Under 'Want of sub-vouchers' the figures were largest in Bengal (56) and Assam (40). In Bengal, the reason for the outstandings is stated to be that large sums of money are drawn towards the close of the year and that, in spite of reminders, there is often delay in the submission of sub-vouchers and details of expenditure. In Assam also, the items almost entirely relate to the expenditure incurred in March, the bulk of which has since been adjusted.

Under 'Other objections' the figures were high against India (1,18), the Punjab (1,01), Assam (60), and Bengal (48). In India, the outstandings include (a) 30 on account of the cash balance of the Baghdad Treasury, which has been held under suspense, (b) 22 in connection with Sir Aurel Stein's accounts, regarding which the Government of India have directed that settlement must await the officer's return, and (c) 26 on account of exchange account items rejected. In the Punjab, 58 represents a debit raised by the Military Department in connection with the maintenance of the children in the Military Asylum at Sanawar, as mentioned in paragraph 7 above In Assam, the figures include an adjustment of 45 in March (final), mentioned in the same paragraph.

Financial Irregularities.

Drawal of money in advance of requirements with a view to avoid lapses of Budget grants

13. In previous reports attention has been drawn to the tendency of officers to draw money from the treasury, especially in March, before it is required for actual expenditure, and in the period under review many similar cases came to notice. The object aimed at in most cases was to avoid lapses of grants and the trouble of applying for additional grants in the following year. There are even instances in which the drawing officers went so far as to place the amounts drawn in the Postal Savings Bank or in private banks.

Some of the cases are mentioned below; others will be found in paragraph 1 of the Appendix attached to the Report.

North-West Frontier Province

(a) In a certain district, two sums of Rs 119 and Rs. 1,758-1-0, being the unspent balances of Rs. 1,500 and Rs 7,825-11-0 originally drawn from the treasury in March 1906 and March 1907, respectively, for the construction of certain minor works, were irregularly kept in hand for some time and were ultimately paid into the treasury on the 26th October 1908 and 31st March 1909, respectively, for credit to Revenue Deposits, being described as 'Minor's Property.' They were treated as having lapsed to Government on the 31st March 1912, after having remained in deposit for over three years. In January 1914, the amounts were drawn again and credited to a Local Fund called the 'Canal Clearance Fund.' This credit has since been reversed and the money has been credited to Government. The matter was reported by the Accountant General to the Local Administration.

Madras.

(b) In March 1915, an officer of the Industrial Department drew Rs. 39,950 for the purchase of an oil mill and machinery ordered from Europe by a local firm at his request On the 30th August 1915, the officer reported that the oil mill, for which the advance was made, had not up to that date been received.

Bombay.

(c) The Principal of a college drew a sum of Rs. 1,500 during March 1915 for the purchase of apparatus for the college laboratory. The whole amount was refunded into the treasury in June 1915. The Principal stated that the money was drawn under a misapprehension.

Bengal.

(d) The Principal of a college drew Rs. 1,946-10-0 in March 1915 on account of the cost of apparatus to be obtained on indent from England, and lodged it in the Post Office Savings Bank. At the instance of the audit office, the amount with interest was refunded into the treasury in June 1915.

(e) Two sums, aggregating Rs. 2,182-13-0, were drawn by a Magistrate in March 1915 on account of contribution to Chowkidari Panchayets. The money was not disbursed to the parties concerned but kept under Criminal Deposits. The Magistrate explained that the money was drawn to prevent the lapse of grants.

(f) A sum of Rs 5.972 was drawn in several bills in March 1915 in connection with the improvement of Government Estates. Of the above amount, Rs. 1,788 were advanced to contractors in April 1915 and Rs. 738 in June 1915. The Collector explained that, owing to some unavoidable delay in checking the work of the contractors, the disbursement had to be postponed and that the money was not refunded into the treasury as it would be difficult to re-draw it, the sanction of Government having lapsed on the 31st March 1915.

...ited Provinces.

(g) An officer drew a sum of Rs. 878-3-0 on the 31st March 1915 for the purchase of twenty sets of mathematical instruments. He stated that the complete sets of instruments indented for had not been received from the Mathematical Instrument Office, Calcutta, and that, as soon as they were received in full, receipts would be furnished. An enquiry was made as to why payment was made in cash instead of by book adjustment, with the result that the whole amount was refunded on the 10th July 1915.

...har and Orissa.

(h) Two sums of Rs. 500 each were drawn by the Head Master of a Zillah School in March 1915 for the purchase of library books and furniture. Of these, Rs. 820-9-0 were refunded into the treasury in June 1915 and credited as Revenue Deposits. The procedure being irregular, the necessary adjustment was made under instructions from the audit office.

(i) In another case, a Head Master drew Rs. 500 in March 1915 for the purchase of library books under instructions from the Inspector of Schools, but refunded it in full in August 1915.

...ntral Provinces.

(j) An Inspector of Schools drew a sum of Rs. 7,901 in March 1914, for the purchase of combination benches for certain schools, and submitted a payee's receipt. He did not, however, make any actual payment, but credited the sum to his current account in the Bank of Bombay. Actual payments were made nine months after the amount had been drawn from the treasury and fresh payees' receipts were sent in lieu of the one already submitted.

(k) A Medical Officer drew in March 1915 a sum of Rs. 4,174-12-8 on account of the cost of medical instruments and deposited it in a private bank. In reply to a request made by the audit office for the submission of sub-vouchers, the officer stated that the instruments had not yet been received from England. The amount was refunded into the treasury in September 1915 on instructions from the audit office.

(l) A sum of Rs. 1,005 was drawn in March 1914 by an officer of the Medical Department for the purchase of books, appliances, etc., and was lodged with the Banking Department of the Planters' Stores and Agency Company, Limited. Out of this amount, sums aggregating Rs. 153-8-0 were paid in April, Rs. 829-6-6 in November, and Rs 3-15-0 in December 1914. The unspent balance was refunded in December 1914.

(m) Two sums of Rs. 1,200 and Rs. 800 were drawn in March 1915 in connection with the removal of kala azar infected patients in a sub-division, and credited to Revenue Deposits A portion of this amount was withdrawn in June 1915 and subsequently accounted for to the audit office and the balance, Rs. 406-12-9, was withdrawn and refunded to Government in February 1916.

...tempts to ...ade audit ...les.

14. Some cases came to notice in which attempts were made to evade audit rules in order to avoid applying for higher sanction. A few instances are given below :—

...lhi (Delhi).

(a) In the pay bills of an office, permanent patwaris officiating as kanungos were shown as candidates to enable them to draw, without audit objection, the full minimum pay of kanungos. This irregular practice, which is stated to have been in force for a very long time, was brought to the notice of the Local Administration, who sanctioned the write-off of the amounts overdrawn and issued orders on the question of the salary to be drawn in future in such cases.

(b) Charges amounting to Rs. 182, incurred by the Principal of a College during January to March 1914, were not accounted for till May 1914, in order to avoid a reference to Government for sanction to the excess over the contract grant, which would have been necessary if the sum had been included in the accounts of the year 1913-14. Bombay.

(c) A charge of Rs. 90, being the cost of 12 trangers, was sanctioned by a Divisional Superintendent in several items to avoid obtaining the sanction of the Post Master General. Post Office.

(d) With the same intention, charges on account of furniture, etc., aggregating Rs. 131-15-6, were split up into several items and were sanctioned by a Postmaster.

(e) Charges aggregating Rs. 52, on account of furniture required by certain Post Offices, were sanctioned by a Divisional Superintendent in several items.

Insufficient scrutiny of bills by signing or countersigning officers.

15. Instances were noticed in which officers, signing certificates or countersigning bills as controlling authorities, failed to exercise adequate supervision. Too much stress cannot be laid on the necessity for a careful scrutiny by all officers of bills which they are required to sign or countersign, as audit has to rely largely on their countersignature and on the certificates recorded on the bills, for the accuracy of the facts on which claims are based. A few cases are given below.

(a) An undisbursed monthly sum of Rs. 13, drawn from the treasury in April 1912, October 1912, and November 1913, on account of grain compensation allowance due to certain members of the establishment of a District Judge, was refunded into the treasury in June 1914. The District Judge continued to sign the usual disbursement certificate on the pay bills month after month. Bombay.

(b) A Chaplain drew pay for the sanctioned post of a clerk for September, October and November 1914, although the post was vacant during the period. The usual certificate on the pay bill, to the effect that the pay had been actually disbursed to the payee, was signed every month. The amount was refunded in January 1915 on attention being drawn to the disbursement certificate by one of the Chaplain's colleagues. The Chaplain explained that he was under the impression that he was entitled to draw the pay of the post even if it was vacant.

(c) A detail bill for Rs. 6-0-0 was countersigned by a District Judge for Rs. 263-4-0, which amount really represented the balance of grant available. Punjab.

Double claims preferred and paid.

16. Cases were brought to light in which claims were preferred and paid twice. They illustrate the force of the remarks made in the previous paragraph regarding the necessity of careful scrutiny of bills by all officers signing or countersigning them. Several instances are included in paragraph 2 of the Appendix and a few are given below:—

(a) The Government grant of Rs. 226 to a municipality for the quarter ending 31st March 1914 was paid twice, once in March 1914 and again on a duplicate bill in August 1914. The excess payment has been recovered. Bombay.

(b) Under the instructions of an officer, a remittance of Marks 789-40 was made by the Accountant General to a person in Germany on account of stores received from him. The correct value to be remitted was Marks 394-70. The overpayment is stated to be due to duplicate copies of bills having been signed by the officer passing the bills. Steps towards recovery are now impossible owing to the War.

(c) A Remittance Transfer Receipt for Rs. 77-2-0, in favour of a Brigade Major, was paid twice by a Treasury Officer, once on the original and again on a duplicate, which was issued after obtaining from the Treasury Officer a certificate of non-payment of the original. United Provinces.

(d) A reward of Rs. 27 was drawn once on the 8th March 1915 and again on the 9th April 1915. It was only after protracted correspondence that the fact of double payment was established. Burma.

ay in the tlement of ections.

17. A few instances of noticeable delays in the settlement of objections, which occurred during the year under review, are given below.

(a) Abstract contingent bills for Rs. 196-7-0 and Rs. 451-8-0, drawn in December 1913, and for Rs. 41-0-3 drawn in February 1914 by a District Administration Committee, were objected to in the same months by the audit office for want of detailed countersigned bills. The Committee dissolved in May 1914, and in July 1914 the Head Assistant of the Committee came to the audit office with all the audit memoranda that had been issued and left the papers with the remark that he was unable to answer the objections raised, or otherwise dispose of them, as the Committee had already dissolved and no information was available. The matter was reported to the Local Government by a special letter on the 31st October 1914 and reminders were issued on the 7th December 1914 and the 29th January 1915. On the 26th February 1915, the audit office was informed that the matter was under the consideration of the Local Government, who finally sanctioned the write-off of the outstanding amount on the 10th December 1915.

ited Provinces.

(b) A temporary draftsman was entertained from June 1914 without the sanction of Government. The requisite sanction was called for in July 1914. No reply was received to the several reminders issued by the audit office to the Executive and Superintending Engineers concerned. The matter was then reported to the Local Government, who accorded the requisite sanction in February 1916.

(c) An Inspector of Schools drew advances, aggregating Rs. 1,300, to meet his tour charges on seven occasions during the period from June 1914 to January 1915, without accounting for them. The sum of Rs. 1,300 was refunded in one instalment on the 31st March 1915 after the issue of repeated reminders from the audit office and after the irregularity had been brought to the notice of the Director of Public Instruction. A part of the advance was irregularly applied to meet the Inspector's own travelling expenses.

ss to vernment asioned by neglect of nding rules d orders by ponsible cers.

18. The following instances show how the neglect, or non-observance, of standing rules or orders by responsible officers is likely to lead to frauds or losses of Government money.

(a) During the inspection of a certain treasury it was discovered that, on the 8th May 1914, there was a deficiency amounting to Rs. 3,000 in the balance of cash in the hands of the Government Treasurer. The amount was recovered from the Potdar in charge of the cash. The case was enquired into by the Police, but sufficient evidence was not forthcoming to substantiate a criminal charge. In the course of the investigation the following defects in the manner of storing coin were noticed. Bags of uncurrent coins were left lying on an open space on the floor of the strong room near the double lock cage. It is also stated that, by means of a hooked bamboo, it was possible to drag the money bags towards the iron barred door and to take out the money. The instructions in Article 603 (b) (2) and (c) of the Civil Account Code were apparently not observed, and the Executive Engineer, in giving the certificate required by Article 603 (c) of the Code, does not appear to have issued any instructions as to the manner of storing the coin, although it was possible to extract the coin from the strong room in the manner explained.

(b) In order to avoid a lapse of grant, an Engineer drew a sum of Rs. 490 on the 30th March 1915, being the value of a tent, on a bill supported by the stamped receipt of the local agent of a Cawnpore firm. The money was not actually paid, as the tent was not ready for delivery. The sum is stated to have been misappropriated by the office head clerk. Legal proceedings were taken against the latter, who has, however, been acquitted by the sessions court. The amount has not yet been refunded and the matter is said to be under the consideration of the Local Government.

(c) A sum of Rs. 2,091 was drawn on the 30th March 1914, in two instalments of Rs. 1,480 and Rs. 611, by a Superintendent of Police and paid to a contractor for the construction of certain police buildings. The payee's receipts were duly forwarded to the audit office. The buildings were not, however, completed and it was subsequently discovered that the contractor and the materials which he had collected had both disappeared.

(d) When taking over charge of a certain district, a Deputy Commissioner, in counting the stock of stamps under double locks in the treasury, found it incorrect and reported the matter to the audit office, which, on inspection, discovered that there had been a defalcation of Rs. 8,971-2-9 in stamps (mostly ordinary postage), of which Rs. 3,762-7-7 have been recovered, leaving an unrecovered balance of Rs. 5,208-11-2. The loss was mainly the result of defective control and disregard of standing rules by the Treasury Officers, extending over a period of more than three years. The methods by which the embezzlements were made are detailed below :— Burma.

(1) Sales were made direct from the double locks, without being passed through the single lock register, and the proceeds misappropriated.

(2) Sale-proceeds were either not credited at all or were short credited in the cash accounts.

(3) Previous challans were altered and produced in support of subsequent issues of stamps.

The defects in procedure may be summarised as follows:—

(1) Non-observance of the instructions contained in paragraph 16, Appendix K to the Civil Account Code, under which sales must be passed through the single lock register.

(2) Failure on the part of the Treasury Officer (i) to check the stamp registers maintained by the Treasurer and see that the entries required to be made in the double lock register were actually made and that they corresponded with those made in the single lock register, as required by paragraph 17, Appendix K; (ii) to inspect the daily sales and check the correctness of the calculations, vide paragraph 18 of Appendix K; and (iii) to compare and verify the balances shown in the monthly plus and minus memoranda with the balances shown in the stock register of stamps, as required by Article 327 of Civil Account Code.

(3) Allowing the Treasurer to have free access to challans and registers maintained in the accounts department.

The case also reveals the fact that the half-yearly verifications of stamps made under paragraph 34 of Appendix K, during the period from May 1911 to July 1914, were perfunctory and inadequate.

(e) A bill for Rs. 250, which was returned countersigned by an Inspector of Schools, was intercepted by a peon attached to a school, who cashed it on the 21st August and misappropriated the proceeds. The bill was cashed without the recipient's signature. The Accountant of the treasury noticed the omission at the time of despatching the monthly accounts to the audit office, but, concluding that it was a mere oversight, entered the words 'received payment' above the signature of the drawer of the bill. The peon was found guilty and sentenced to two years' rigorous imprisonment. About Rs. 50 were recovered from the peon and the balance was ordered to be recovered from the Accountant. The case indicates the necessity of careful scrutiny in treasuries of the bills presented for payment. Bihar and (

(f) A portion of the sale-proceeds of an animal, amounting to Rs. 517-4-11, was, against the provisions of Article 1 of Civil Account Code, kept in the hands of an officer to be eventually spent on improvements to the station. The money was stolen from his office safe after it had been there for more than ten months. Assam.

19. The following cases, involving losses to Government, indicate the necessity for great care and circumspection in entering into, or sanctioning, arrangements which affect the pecuniary interests of Government. Other loss Governme of the district for the repayment of the surplus sale-proceeds, but his request was refused. Again in 1907, the party sent a petition to the Collector for a reconsideration of the case, and the then Collector ordered a refund of Rs. 1,410-8-5 to him, which were paid in August 1908. In 1911, the matter came to the notice of the Local Government, who held that the action of the Collector in making the refund was entirely unwarranted and ordered a suit to be filed against the party for the recovery of the amount. The Court gave a decree for Rs. 1,250-8-9 in favour of Government, but, as the party was unable to pay, the amount was written-off by Government.

(b) At the instance of an indigo expert, the Agricultural Department advanced, with the sanction of the Local Government, a sum of Rs. 9,976-4-6 to a local firm for carrying on certain experiments in connection with the development of the indigo industry. An agreement was executed between the firm and the expert on the one hand, and Government on the other, to the effect that the adjustment of the advance was to be made either out of the net sale-proceeds of the indigo produced or by recovery from the expert should the former prove insufficient. When the draft agreement was sent to the Government Solicitor for scrutiny, that officer pointed out that there was no provision in the draft directing the expert to deposit security to meet any liability towards Government for the whole or portion of the advance. The Local Government decided to accept the personal security of the expert as sufficient, relying on his statement that he owned an indigo factory in Northern India and had just arranged to purchase 19 indigo factories in or near Bimlipatam and Vizianagram. Ultimately, a net sum of Rs. 1,302-1-1 only was realised from the sale-proceeds of the indigo produced, leaving a balance of Rs 8,674-3-5 as irrecoverable. The expert died, and the firm, not having undertaken any liability on account of the experiment, the amount was written-off by the Local Government.

Comparison with 1913-14.

21. It will be observed that, taking India as a whole, the percentage of objections to the total expenditure in 1914-15 was greater than that in 1913-14 by 2. There were increases in India, Madras, Bombay, and Bengal. The increase in India occurred in the Delhi Province and was due mainly to larger outlay on works during the first six months of the year under review, to numerous purchases of materials from firms outside Delhi, which were placed under objection for want of sanction and of payees' receipts, to the purchase locally of European stores, and to a large sum having been debited to Advances pending adjustment. In Madras, the increase was due chiefly to expenditure incurred without estimate on the acquisition of sites for play-grounds for certain educational institutions, mentioned in paragraph 26 below, and in connection with the moving of the General Hospital to a new site, to expenditure in excess of grant under suspense, and to expenditure on the construction of an Engineering College. In Bombay, the opening of four new Executive Districts accounted for the increase. Greater unvouched outlay was responsible for the increase in Bengal. On the other hand, there was a substantial improvement in the Simla Imperial Sub-Division and in Assam. In the former, the improvement was due to less expenditure having been incurred without estimate and grant, and in the latter to a decrease in the amount of unvouched expenditure, in consequence of the action of the Local Administration in impressing on disbursing officers the necessity of submitting vouchers punctually to audit.

Comparison with 1913-14.

23 The percentage for all India exceeded that of the preceding year by 2. There were increases in India, Madras, Bombay, and the Central Provinces. The large increase in India occurred in Baluchistan and was mainly due to expenditure incurred on the Khushdil Khan Improvement scheme in excess of the sanctioned estimates and allotment, to expenditure incurred on the Surkhab Project without sanctioned estimates, and to an increase in unvouched outlay and in outstandings against contractors. In Madras, expenditure incurred without sanctioned estimates on the reconstruction of a portion of the Bezwada Head Works (1,01) and in connection with flood damages to channels in the Tinnevelly Division (25) and excesses (2,40) over the sanctioned estimates for tools and plant of the Tholudur and Mopad Projects contributed mainly to the increase. Heavy expenditure on works in excess of estimates and appropriations accounted for the increase in Bombay. In the Central Provinces, the increase was mainly the result of the practice, referred to in paragraph 26 below, of incurring expenditure against general sanctions. On the other hand, there was noticeable improvement in the United Provinces, due to sanctions having been accorded to the project estimates for certain works. It will be observed that in India and Bengal more than half of the expenditure incurred was placed under objection.

Percentage of works started without estimates to total number of works started during the year.

24. The following statement shows separately, under the Buildings and Roads and Irrigation Branches, the percentage of works started without detailed sanctioned estimates. The figures have been calculated with reference to about 20 per cent. of the divisions in most of the provinces. The corresponding figures for the previous year are given for purposes of comparison.

25. It will be observed that a very high percentage of works continues to be started without detailed sanctioned estimates in most of the provinces. In Bombay half, and in Bihar and Orissa more than half, the works were so started in the Irrigation Branch. As compared with the previous year, the increase was most noticeable in Burma and Central India in the Buildings and Roads Branch, and in India, Madras, Bengal and Burma in the Irrigation Branch. On the other hand, there was an improvement in the Delhi Province and Assam in the Buildings and Roads Branch, and in the North-West Frontier Province in the Irrigation Branch.

The rule in paragraph 1922 of the Public Works Department Code, to the effect that the commencement of the execution of Public Works shall not be definitely authorised by any authority whatever unless a properly detailed design and estimate have been prepared and approved by competent authority, came under the special consideration of the Government of India during the year. With a view to provide for a relaxation of this rule in exceptional cases and subject to certain conditions, new rules have been framed and introduced into the Public Works Department Code (vide paragraphs 1922 A to C).

It is of importance that action should be taken by Administrative authorities to ensure the more strict observance in future of the Code rules on the subject.

Comparison with 1913-14.

As compared with the preceding year, the balance for the whole of India shows a substantial improvement of 13,76, which occurred in India, Bengal, the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, the Punjab, Burma, Bihar and Orissa, and Assam. Greater promptitude in dealing with expenditure under objection in the audit offices and closer attention on the part of the Executive to the settlement of objections contributed in some degree to the improvement in most of these provinces. There were, however, special reasons which were responsible for the most noticeable decreases in India (5,04), the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh (7,75), and the Punjab (13,02). In India, the excesses over estimates for works connected with the Temporary Works Project at Delhi ([illegible]) were cleared in September 1914 on receipt of the orders of the Government of India passing the excesses; in the United Provinces, the project estimates for the Head-works of the Bhimgoda Weir and Ghaggar Canal, and the [illegible] in the Medical College project were sanctioned; and in the Punjab, an item of [illegible] relating to the King Edward Memorial Division was cleared on receipt of the Secretary of State's sanction.

There were, on the other hand, increases in Bombay (11,71), the Central Provinces ([illegible]), Madras ([illegible]), and the North-West Frontier Province (83).

The increase in Bombay was due to an excess of 13,89 over the estimate sanctioned for canal excavations of the Nira Right Bank Canal. Estimates amounting to about 12,18 have since been sanctioned by the Local Government and the Executive Engineer states that the remaining estimates will be submitted for sanction shortly.

In the Central Provinces, the increase occurred principally in the Irrigation Branch (8,24) under 'Want of estimate' and 'Excess over estimate,' and was due to the practice obtaining in the Eastern Irrigation Circle of incurring expenditure against general sanctioned estimates of Irrigation projects instead of against separate detailed estimates for individual works comprised therein. This practice is now reported to have been stopped by the Local Administration and a material improvement may be expected.

In Madras, the increase occurred chiefly under 'No estimate' on account of the acquisition of lands for play-grounds for certain educational institutions in the city of Madras (1,37), and under 'Excess over estimate' in connection with the Tholudur project (1,68). In regard to the former, it is stated that estimates for all the works were sent to the Director of Public Instruction on the 1st November 1915 with a view to obtaining the sanction of Government, which is still awaited, and as regards the latter, the Local Government have explained that a revised estimate for tools and plant, required for the project, is under their consideration and will be forwarded to the Government of India as soon as possible.

In the North-West Frontier Province, the increase occurred in the Irrigation Branch (90) and was mainly due to expenditure in excess of estimate having been incurred on excavating the Malakand tunnel (82). Special reports were addressed to the Local Administration, who stated that a fourth revised estimate for the tunnel would be sanctioned as soon as the second revised estimate of the canal, which was under preparation, had been submitted to the Government of India and sanctioned by the Secretary of State.

Analysis of outstandings relating to 1912-13 and previous years.

28. Out of the 146 items relating to 1912-13 and previous years remaining unadjusted on the 31st July 1914, 141 were adjusted during the period under review. Of the balance of 5, which were outstanding on the 31st July 1915, 2 relate to 1912-13 and 1 each to 1907-08, 1910-11 and 1911-12.

The following statement shows the amounts of these outstandings and the provinces to which they relate :—

The item for 1907-08 in the Punjab, as stated in paragraph 37 of my last Report, represents rent due from two tenants of shops at Khanpur and the Shahdara Boat bridge, against whom decrees have been obtained. The amount due from one is being recovered by monthly instalments of Rs. 10. In the other case, the property of the tenant was attached but could not be sold owing to an objection by a third party.

In Bombay, the items represent outlay held under objection for want of estimate on the construction of a certain bridle path, mentioned in paragraph 42 (e) of the Appropriation Report for 1912-13. The Local Government ordered in May 1915 that no further expenditure should be incurred on the work until fair plans and estimates had been sanctioned. The Executive Engineer stated in November 1915 that he had submitted the plans and estimates to the Superintending Engineer.

The item in Madras relates to the acquisition of a site for the new Paper Currency Office building. The delay in regularizing the expenditure is due to the non-submission of a consolidated estimate for the new Currency building by the Local Government to the Government of India.

Financial Irregularities.

35. As in the case of the Civil Department, certain classes of financial irregularities are of constant occurrence. Some typical cases are given below, while others will be found in the Appendix attached.

Irregular action with view to avoid lapses of grants.

36. In the following instances irregular action was resorted to with a view to avoiding lapses of Budget grants. It is a common practice either (a) to make at the end of the year advance or anticipatory payments prior to the actual execution of works or receipt of materials, or (b) to effect fictitious stock adjustments, or transfers between individual works. The Government of India have issued strict orders on this subject and have inserted an explicit rule in the Public Works Department Code (paragraph 1111A) prohibiting fictitious adjustments.

Bombay.

(a) It came to notice in a certain Division that amounts were charged against works in March 1914 in connection with the collection of materials. No payments were, however, actually made in that month, but the amounts were held in deposit for future disbursement.

(b) A contractor was paid in March 1913 a sum of Rs. 7,500 for burnt brick concrete on a running account bill. The measurement book showed 75,000 c. ft. of concrete without any details. The quantity intended to be obtained appears to have been entered in the measurement book, billed for, and paid without actual measurement. The final bill, prepared in September 1914, disclosed an overpayment of Rs. 2,183 to the contractor.

(c) A cheque for Rs. 290-7-0 was drawn on the 31st March 1914 in favour of a firm. The final bill was prepared and a cheque was drawn prior to the contractor's acceptance of the bill. The contractor refused the cheque and returned the bill unaccepted as he disputed the measurements. It remained unpaid and was finally cancelled on the 1st July 1914. A fresh cheque was drawn and paid to the contractor in January 1915 on his subsequent acceptance of the bill.

(d) Steel beams were ordered from a firm in Bombay by wire on the 20th March 1914, and the firm was asked to despatch the beams before the 31st March. The firm submitted a bill for Rs. 3,460-9-0 on the 23rd March 1914. The bill was sent by the Executive Engineer on the 31st March 1914 to the Sub-Divisional Officer for verification of the materials, etc., and a Remittance Transfer Receipt for the amount of the bill was obtained on that date. The beams were not received until April and the bill was returned by the Sub-Divisional Officer on the 7th May together with the measurement book. The Remittance Transfer Receipt, although obtained on the 31st March, was not despatched to the firm until the 12th May 1914.

(e) Rs. 612-8-0, representing the value of 70 casks of cement, which had been debited to the work 'Constructing new Vernacular School', were written back by debit to 'Constructing new Custom House' in the accounts of March 1914. The amount was again written back to the debit of the Vernacular School early in the next year. The Executive Engineer admitted that the adjustment was made to avoid a lapse of grant.

(f) A cheque for Rs. 810-6-9 was drawn on the 31st March 1915 in favour of a Calcutta firm for materials not actually received, and another cheque for Rs. 1,485-8-0 was drawn on the same date in favour of another firm for materials of which only a small portion had been received. Both cheques were held back pending receipt of the materials and were subsequently cancelled under the orders of the Superintending Engineer.

(g) A sum of Rs. 6,864-5-9, being the cost of 469·36 tons of coal shewn at site of the work 'Dredging Lower Kumar,' was adjusted by credit to the work and debit to 'Acquiring land and cutting a boat dock, etc.,' at a different place, although no dredging work had been done at the latter place. The adjustment was reversed in the following year.

(h) On the 31st March 1914, a District Engineer issued a cheque on the treasury for Rs. 527 in order to obtain a Remittance Transfer Receipt in favour of a firm in payment of a lathe. The receipt of the lathe was recorded in the measurement book on the 9th June 1914 and the Remittance Transfer Receipt was forwarded to the firm on the 10th June 1914.

(i) A sum of Rs. 403, being the cost of 200 pipes, was debited in March 1911 to the estimate 'Raising and metalling Hardoi-Sitapur Road.' The pipes were, however, not used on that work, but their value was written back to several works during succeeding years, apparently to avoid lapses of grants. The pipes were borne on the materials-at-site accounts of the works to which they were charged from time to time.

(j) An Executive Engineer made a payment on the 31st March 1913 of Rs. 1,050, the cost of 200 sleepers, and also made the necessary entries in the measurement book, although the sleepers had not been actually received. 40 sleepers only were actually required for the work, and the supplier sent them to the site of the work in June 1913. The remaining 160 sleepers were received some time afterwards and were transferred to another work and issued to a contractor. Recovery of the value from the latter was not, however, made until March 1914, i.e., a year after the payment had actually been made.

(k) On the report of a Sub-Divisional Officer on the 26th March 1914 that certain materials could not arrive at the site before the 31st March 1914, an Executive Engineer, with the permission of the Superintending Engineer, paid, on the 31st March 1914, Rs 15,257-1-10 as an advance to a certain Company for the supply of timber and iron. Again, on the 30th March 1914, the Sub-Divisional Officer reported that, if some tiles, which were expected to arrive on the 10th April 1915, were not paid for during the year, there would be a heavy lapse. Under the Superintending Engineer's telegraphic instructions, the sum of Rs. 4,794-14-0 was accordingly paid on the 31st March 1914. It was stated that these sums were paid as advances under paragraph 779 of the Public Works Department Code.

Assam.

(l) A sum of Rs. 11,195 was debited to two works in 1913-14, as representing the value of boulders issued from stock. In 1914-15, a sum of Rs. 8,992 was credited to the same works, on account of the value of boulders retransferred to stock. The Executive Engineer stated that the boulders were not carted to the site of the work at all during 1913-14. The adjustment in 1913-14 was made to avoid a lapse of grant and that in 1914-15 to avoid an excess over grant.

Manipulation of accounts to avoid audit objections.

37. Some instances of manipulation of accounts, made for the purpose of avoiding audit objections or of evading financial rules, are given below :—

North-West Frontier Province.

(a) A sum of Rs. 671-10-0, being the value of work done by daily labour in connection with a silt clearance estimate and debited originally to that estimate, was written back in March 1914 to another work, when it was found that the estimate of the former work had been exceeded.

Bombay.

(b) In a certain Division, measurements relating to the construction of a chaplain's residence were entered in a measurement book but subsequently cancelled. The same measurements were then entered in another book as relating to the construction of a new school in a different station. The Assistant Engineer admitted that the measurements in question were originally cancelled and subsequently charged off to the latter work, under instructions from the Executive Engineer, with a view to avoiding an excess over sanctioned allotment.

(c) In a certain Division, two original works, (a) construction of a residence for an Executive Engineer, and (b) construction of a Sub-Judge's Court, were in progress at the same station. After the buildings had been practically completed, writes-back of large amounts, without any corresponding transfers of quantities, were made from one work to another in order to remove an excess over the sanctioned estimate. The Executive Engineer explained that the bricks for both buildings were stacked together and used as required on either building and that it was found, after completion of the work, that the estimate for the Sub-Judge's Court was able to bear a larger proportion of the expenditure.

United Provinces.

(d) Two peons were employed temporarily without sanction as members of the office establishment of a sub-division, from 1st August 1913 up to the end of February 1914. Sanction to the employment of one peon only was afterwards accorded. A sum of Rs. 37, paid to the other peon, was disallowed in audit. The Sub-Divisional Officer charged the amount to works and remitted it in cash into the treasury in order to satisfy the audit objection. In support of the debit to works, he obtained a receipt from the peon for Rs. 30 on a work establishment bill and for Rs. 7 on a hand receipt

Postponement of liabilities to evade audit objections.

38. In the following instances, payments of liabilities due by Government were postponed with the object of avoiding audit objections, in contravention of the rules on the subject (Civil Account Code, Articles 161 and 162, and Public Works Department Code, paragraph 1291)

United Provinces.

(a) Three hundred iron tree guards were supplied for the maintenance of avenues at Rs. 4-4-0 each. The number was reduced in March 1914 from 300 to 275 in both bill and measurement book, to avoid an excess of Rs. 101 over the estimate. The balance was paid in October 1914.

(b) In a certain Division, the value of road metal actually supplied by a contractor amounted to Rs. 447-1-11, while the balance available in the estimate was Rs. 386 only. The quantity was reduced by 953 cubic feet, and the amount of the bill, which was paid in March 1914, was altered to Rs. 370-14-1. The difference was eventually paid in August 1914.

Discrepancies between measurement books and travelling allowance journals of subordinates.

39. In several cases, discrepancies were noticed between the dates of measurements recorded by subordinates in their measurement books and the entries in their travelling allowance bills. These discrepancies are ordinarily explained to be due to clerical errors, or to the entries in the measurement books being copies of measurements originally recorded elsewhere or taken by somebody else. They were common in the United Provinces and Bombay and to some extent in the Punjab. As the measurement book is the basis of payments to contractors, a scrupulous observance of the rules on the subject of its upkeep is essential and should be insisted upon.

Pay of regular establishments charged to works to avoid higher sanction.

40. In several cases, which are mentioned in the Appendix, the pay of men employed on the regular establishment was charged to works in order to avoid the necessity for obtaining higher sanction.

Expenditure of Government money in excess, or in anticipation of, depositor's contribution.

41. In the following instances, expenditure was incurred from public funds in excess, or in anticipation, of the depositor's contribution.

Bombay.

(a) In Bombay, expenditure of about Rs 87,870 was incurred during 1914-15 on ninety-two contribution works in anticipation of the receipt of contribution. The outstandings have since been recovered with the exception of a sum of Rs. 20,706, relating to a municipal water supply work, which, together with interest at 4 per cent. from the 1st April 1915 on outlay incurred to the end of March 1915, has been ordered by the Local Government to be recovered in instalments. Advances of Government money on account of private works are open to considerable objection and a strict observance of the rule contained in paragraph 864, Clause IV of the Public Works Department Code, should be insisted upon.

Punjab.

(b) In sanctioning the estimates of three contribution works for lining water courses in October 1912, it was expressly ordered that no expenditure on the works should be incurred without the necessary contributions being first realized. The works were, however, completed in October and November 1913, although a sum of Rs. 1,333 still remained to be recovered from the Zamindars concerned. The outstanding was specially reported to the Local Government in September 1914. It is stated to have been recovered in the year 1915-16, with the exception of a sum of Rs. 269-2-0, of which the greater part is due from the Amritsar Bank, which is under liquidation.

Burma.

(c) In two cases of contribution works, the expenditure exceeded the contributions by Rs. 26,842 and Rs. 15,542, respectively. The excess was brought to the notice of the Superintending Engineer in the monthly Objectionable Items Statement and to the Local Government through special reports. The Executive Engineer explained, with regard to the first work, that the matter had been brought to the notice of the Superintending Engineer at an early stage. As regards the second case, the Local Government were informed and the estimate was sanctioned in order to cover the outlay incurred. The Executive Engineer, however, continued to incur expenditure in contravention both of code rules and the strict orders of Government.

Non-execution of agreements prior to the commencement of works.

42. Some cases came to notice in which agreements in the prescribed forms were not obtained from contractors, or were not sanctioned by competent authority, prior to the commencement of works. Too much stress cannot be laid on the necessity for strictly conforming with the code rules on the subject, in order to prevent litigation and possible losses to Government.

Madras.

(a) There were two important cases of this kind in Madras, but, as they are still sub judice, it is advisable not to describe them in detail.

Bengal.

(b) Expenditure to the extent of Rs. 27,360 was incurred up to the end of January 1915 on the construction of a Police Station against an estimate of Rs. 33,651, although no agreement had been sanctioned. The first payment to the contractor was made in March 1914.

(c) The first payments to the contractors in connection with the construction of a Police Hospital were made long before the acceptance of their tenders.

Expenditure not on a bonâ fide public object.

43. In the following cases expenditure, incurred for the benefit of public servants, was irregularly charged to Government. This is a serious irregularity and is difficult of detection in audit, as reliance has to be placed on the facts furnished by responsible officers.

United Provinces.

(a) In a Canal Division, three inferior servants were employed on the planting and watering of trees in the grounds attached to the residence of the Executive Engineer, the pay of the establishment being charged to Imperial funds under 42.—M. and R.—M.—Plantations.

(b) In another Canal Division, the wages of a labourer, employed on planting trees in the compound of the residence of an Executive Engineer, were debited to an Annual Repairs Estimate—M.—Plantations.

Payments work not d

44. In the following case, payment appears to have been made without any work having been done.

Burma.

In December 1914, Rs. 991-6-0 were paid on a voucher to a contractor by a Sub-Divisional Officer for constructing stables and cooly huts. Of this amount, Rs. 138-2-2 were deducted from a subsequent voucher. The Executive Engineer explained that the amount had been paid to the contractor in March 1914, although the work had not been done.

Losses to G ernment.

45. A few cases are given below, in which the exercise of greater care, or circumspection, would apparently have obviated losses to Government.

Madras.

(a) The Government quarters of a medical officer, whose salary was Rs. 400 a month, were sub-let to a private person from the 28th October 1914 to the 23rd February 1915 and to an Inspector of Schools, whose salary was Rs. 900 a month, from the 24th February 1915 to the 23rd August 1915. The normal rent of the building was Rs. 79 a month. Rent was, however, actually recovered at the rate of Rs. 40 a month, though the house was in the actual occupation of persons from whom a higher rent was recoverable.

(b) It was found, at local inspections of Divisional Offices, that it was not uncommon for materials to be issued to contractors at their book value, while the contractors were paid, for labour and materials, at consolidated rates which were based on higher rates for the same materials. In other words, contractors paid to Government amounts based on the book value of materials issued to them and received larger amounts from Government for the same materials.

(c) A loss to Government was caused owing to an Executive Engineer's indent on the Public Works Stores, Madras, for five tins of golden spindle oil and cylinder oil having been erroneously copied and issued as for five 'tons.' A large portion of the oil had to be specially purchased to comply with the indent. Out of a total of 1,245 gallons received, only 20 gallons were required for use on the work. Of the surplus of 1,225 gallons, 712 gallons were returned to the Public Works Stores, Madras, while the remaining 513 gallons were said to have been lost by leakage, the oil having been despatched by the Public Works Stores in leaky barrels. The loss on this transaction amounted to Rs. 691, Rs. 422 being the loss by leakage of the oil and Rs. 269 the extra cost incurred owing to the mistake in the indent. It is not known whether the 712 gallons returned to the Public Works Stores are likely to be required for early use.

(d) Materials of the value of over Rs. 88,000 were originally collected for the construction of a bridge, which work, it is stated, was subsequently abandoned for administrative reasons Of the above sum, the value of cement alone was about Rs. 46,000. All the cement remained at site unused for three years after the work itself had been abandoned and cement worth about Rs. 9,950 was written off in 1913 as useless owing to depreciation. The value of the balance has been transferred to other works, but there are still materials worth Rs. 7,632 left unused at site. These consist of rough stones and cut stones, and the Executive Engineer reports that they will fetch no bidders if auctioned and that they will also have to be written off the accounts as further loss. The Superintending Engineer has, however, suggested, and the Local Government have approved of the suggestion, that attempts should be made to find works somewhere in the division on which the materials may be utilised.

Bombay.

(e) A sum of Rs. 1,296 was overpaid to a contractor, owing to one of his bills having been wrongly prepared at the rates provided in the revised estimate for the work, instead of at the lower rates agreed upon. It is stated that the contractor refuses to refund the excess and demands payment at the revised estimate rates for the whole work done. The over-payment is also stated to be not recoverable from the contractor's security of Rs. 1,500 in promissory notes, as these have not been endorsed to the Executive Engineer.

(f) In a certain Division, a shortage of tools and plant, amounting approximately to Rs. 1,238-12-0, was discovered by a new store-keeper in the course of taking over charge of stores. No count of tools and plant had been carried out during the years 1912 and 1913, as required by paragraph 1215 of the Public Works Department Code, Volume I. If the annual verification prescribed by the code had been carried out, responsibility for the shortage could probably have been fixed and some recovery effected.

(g) A special inspection of the accounts of a Public Works subordinate, who was in charge of an Irrigation work, revealed several irregularities which had resulted in a shortage of stock to the value of about Rs. 9,925.

46. In previous reports, attention has been drawn to the delay which is often allowed to occur in the settlement of objections raised in audit. There is still considerable room for improvement in this respect. A few instances are quoted below :—

	Rs.
(a) Constructing a Bridge	12,489

	Rs.
1914-15	2,759

Expenditure on the work first appeared in September 1913 and was reported in the Objectionable Items Statement for that month. By the end of June 1914, the expenditure had amounted to Rs. 12,386. A special report was made to Government in August 1914 and again in December 1914, June 1915, and November 1915. The item was included in the periodical Objectionable Items Statements for the periods ending 31st December 1914 and 31st March 1915, but it was not till January 1916 that Government intimated that the Superintending Engineer had sanctioned an estimate for Rs. 12,596.

	Rs.
(b) Preliminary expenses of surveying a canal . . .	19,876

	Rs.
1912-13	3,632

Expenditure on the work first appeared in December 1912 and was reported in the Objectionable Items Statement for that month. On further expenditure being incurred, a report was made to the Superintending Engineer. A report was also made to the Local Government in the periodical Objections Statement, which was submitted in March 1913. The Local Government stated that the Superintending Engineer had submitted an estimate in July 1913 and that they had returned it for further report. Meanwhile, the Local Government had ordered a revised recapitulation to be made for the whole project. The detailed estimate for the 'Survey' also was under correspondence between the Superintending Engineer and Government, and it was not submitted to Government till June 1914. The revised recapitulation was sanctioned by Government in June 1914, and they directed that, pending the preparation of, and sanction to, the revised estimate, the recapitulation statement should be admitted for audit purposes. The objection continued to be reported to Government in the periodical Objectionable Items Statements. The Superintending Engineer was specially addressed in May 1915, and he stated that the revised plans in rough had been approved by the Chief Engineer and that the fair estimate would be submitted shortly. A special report was made to Government in October 1915, who stated in January 1916 that a reference had been made to the Superintending Engineer and that his reply was being considered. The objection was again entered in the periodical Objectionable Items Statement for the period ending 31st March 1915, submitted in October 1915, and the Local Government called upon the Superintending Engineer to submit a detailed estimate at once.

The requisite sanction to the estimate had not been received in the audit office on the 9th March 1916.

(c) Improving a Road	20,436

	Rs.

Expenditure on the work first appeared in November 1913 and was reported in the Objectionable Items Statement for that month. The rough plans and estimates were submitted to the Superintending Engineer in March 1914 and were forwarded by him to the Local Government in April 1914. The estimates passed several times between the Executive Engineer, the Superintending Engineer and the Local Government, and in May 1915 the Local Government sanctioned a preliminary estimate for Rs. 10,400. The expenditure, which continued under objection, was reported to Government in the periodical Objectionable Items Statements for the periods ending 31st December 1913, 31st March 1914, 31st December 1914, and 31st March 1915, and was also included in the monthly Objectionable Items Statements sent to the Superintending Engineer. At the end of August 1914, the expenditure had reached Rs. 19,630, and a special report was made to the Local Government in October 1914. Another special report was made in October 1915, to which the Local Government replied that the Superintending Engineer had informed them that he would submit the whole estimate on receipt from the Executive Engineer. The estimate for the whole work was submitted by the Executive Engineer in December 1915, and the orders of the Local Government are still awaited.

	Rs.
(d) Construction of a Tank	35,018

Central Prov.

The work was started in January 1913 and expenditure, without a sanctioned estimate, was incurred as follows :—

	Rs.
1912-13	20,507
1914-15	7,754

The objection was specially reported to the Local Administration in February 1914, April 1914, August 1914, December 1914 and February 1915, but the estimate was not finally sanctioned till the 25th October 1915.

Railways.

Percentag objections total expe ture : Com parison wi 1913-1914.

47. The total expenditure of the year, including suspense, was 48,60,56, out of which 2,31,51 were placed under objection. The percentage is 4·76 as against 6·75 in 1913-14, thus showing a substantial improvement, which was due to smaller amounts having been placed under objection on account of excesses over appropriation, and to the entire establishment charges of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway having been placed under objection in the preceding year, for want of formal sanction.

Outstandi balance o 31st July 1915 : Com parison w 1913-1914.

48. The following statement shows the balances of the several classes of objections, raised up to the 31st March 1915 but remaining unadjusted on the 31st July 1915 The corresponding figures of the preceding year are also given for purposes of comparison :—

Heads of objection.	Balance on 31st July 1915.		Balance on 31st July 1914.		Increase + or Decrease −

The total sum under objection under all heads of account on the 31st July 1915 was 1,96,88, as compared with 1,98,28 in the preceding year. There was thus a net reduction of 1,40. There were, however, increases of 15,43, 23,47 and 11,81 under the heads 'Want of estimate,' 'Excess over estimate' and 'Miscellaneous irregularities.' These are explained as follows :—

Want of Estimate.—(a) North-Western Railway (12,11), due to the delay in the submission of the project estimate of the Laki-Pezu Tank Railway and to delay in sanctioning the estimate for the acquisition of land for the Mandra-Bhaun Railway; and (b) Eastern Bengal Railway (2,74), due to five works having been undertaken without estimates, of which the estimate for one, amounting to 2,14, has since been submitted.

Excess over Estimate.—The chief causes of excess are as follows :—

(a) Great Indian Peninsula Railway (7,81). This is contributed to by six works, of which the estimates for two are under preparation while, in the case of the remaining four, the revised estimates and completion reports have been submitted for the sanction of the Railway Board.

(b) Burma Railways (5,39). The excesses relate principally to the Southern Shan States Railway, where a revised completion estimate for the first two divisions has been called for.

(c) Eastern Bengal Railway (2,85). Excesses occur over the estimates for the Sara-Santahar conversion and for remodelling the goods and passenger yards at Naihati. A revised estimate for the former work and a completion report for the latter have already been submitted.

Miscellaneous Irregularities.—The Great Indian Peninsula Railway accounts for the major portion (8,54) of the excess, most of which is held under 'Suspense' for want of allocation.

49. In the following statement the outstandings are classified according to the years to which they relate :—

Analysis of outstandi relating t 1912-13 an previous y

The following statement shows the amounts of the outstandings still unadjusted and the railways to which they relate :—

Railways.	No. of items.	Amount.
Assam-Bengal	7	31
Bombay, Baroda and Central India	19	2,69
Burma	18	6,91
Eastern Bengal	2	63
East Indian	7	1,97

Lucknow Bareilly	6	14
North-Western	6	4,14
Madras and Southern Mahratta	3	14
Tirhoot	8	63
TOTAL	89	30,15

The following are the details of the larger outstandings :—

Bombay, Baroda and Central India.—This includes Queen's Road goods yard, Delhi (1,27). The work was proceeded with under the authority of the Railway Board. The acceptance by the East Indian Railway of its share of the cost, as brought out in the final revised estimate, will remove the objection.

Burma.—The objections relate chiefly to the Southern Shan States Railway under the heads 'Preliminary Expenses' and 'Rolling Stock.' The objection under the former is under reference to the Railway Board, and a revised estimate for the latter has been submitted for sanction.

East Indian.—Some of the items are in course of adjustment and the remainder will be regularized on revised estimates or completion reports.

Great Indian Peninsula.—The principal items are—

(i) Land for Victoria Terminus (3,97). The question is under correspondence with the Municipal Commissioners, Bombay.

(ii) Relaying on District No. I (3,12). The objection will be cleared by adjustments between Capital and Revenue.

(iii) Joint Station expenses at Delhi (1,10) and Muttra (43). The former awaits settlement of the agreement with the East Indian Railway. The latter is under correspondence and steps have been taken to effect an early clearance.

North-Western.—The amount under objection is mainly accounted for by Laki-Pezu Tank Railway (3,89), the project estimate of which is under preparation.

52. Out of the 917 items relating to 1913-14 outstanding on the 31st July 1914, 734 were adjusted by the 31st July 1915. Particulars of the balance are given in the following statement :—

Assam-Bengal.—All the items under objection under 'Excess over estimate' are covered by administrative sanction. The amount under objection owing to 'Excess over appropriation' has since been cleared.

Bengal-Nagpur.—The outstanding occurs chiefly on the Bokharo-Ramgarh Extension, for which a revised estimate is under preparation.

Bombay, Baroda and Central India.—The principal item is Relaying on Bulsar Division (2,28), which will be cleared by credits for returned materials.

Burma.—This pertains mainly to the Southern Shan States Railway. The Railway Board have called for a revised estimate.

Eastern Bengal.—The major portion of the amount under objection is accounted for by the following items :—

(i) Sara Santahar broad gauge construction (14,02). A revised estimate has been submitted for the Railway Board's sanction.

(ii) Remodelling Naihati yard (4,28). The completion report has been submitted to the Railway Board for sanction.

Great Indian Peninsula.—Estimates for 3 works have been submitted for sanction and the other has been called for.

The principal items under the other heads are :—

(vi) Joint station expenses, Delhi (55). This is pending settlement of the agreement with the East Indian Railway.

Lucknow Bareilly.—The larger portion of the amount under objection falls under 'Excess over appropriation' and 'Miscellaneous irregularities.' The former is due to the excess over the allotment for Joint Debenture Stock, for which sanction to reappropriate has been applied for, and to an excess over the grant for working expenses, which has since been sanctioned. The outstandings under the latter head are due chiefly to (i) advances from the Rohilkhand and Kumaon Railway Company's revenue for expenditure on State Capital works in excess of allotment, (ii) transfer of surplus materials from the Ganges Bridge to Open Line, and (iii) a sum of 75 claimed from the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway on account of 50 per cent. of the earnings of the Balamau-Sitapur Chord, which is under dispute.

North-Western.—The principal items are :—

(i) Laki-Pezu Tank Railway (8,36). The project estimate is under preparation.

(ii) Land for the Mandra Bhaun Railway (2,34). The estimate has since been sanctioned.

(iii) Renewal of 19 'L' Class engines (1,91). The greater portion of the excess will be cleared by credits for released material.

(iv) Flood damages, Jullundur Doab Railway (1,59). An estimate has been submitted for the sanction of the Railway Board.

Madras and Southern Mahratta.—The principal item under 'Want of estimate' is for junction arrangements, Tenali (23), the estimate for which has been submitted for sanction.

Under 'Excess over estimate', 32 items, aggregating 77, are covered by administrative sanction. The remaining 9 items are in course of regularization.

South Indian.—Of the 8 items under objection for 'Want of estimate,' it is stated that estimates for 7 will be sanctioned shortly. A revised estimate for 32 for the remaining item has been submitted for the sanction of the Railway Board.

Under 'Excess over estimate', the objections are due to the enhanced cost of English materials and will be regularised on completion reports.

Financial Irregularities.

Frauds and Misappropriation of funds.

54. The following more important cases are brought to notice :—

(a) North-Western Railway.—Embezzlement at an Out-agency.—From the 28th May 1914 to the end of August 1914, no coaching or goods returns and no cash remittances were sent in to audit in spite of repeated calls and the matter was reported to the traffic authorities. The receipt of some cash remittance notes in September 1914 aroused suspicion. On comparison of these with the consolidated treasury receipts, it came to light that collections were not being regularly paid into the Government Treasury by the Agency clerk and that portions of these collections were being withheld. The short remittances traced were recovered from the Out-agent's bills. A Travelling Inspector of Accounts was then sent to expedite the despatch of the accounts and to undertake an inspection of the Out-agency's books. The Out-agent's clerk decamped two days before the arrival of the Inspector. The result of the inspection disclosed a serious state of affairs. The accounts were found to be in confusion, duplicate books were in use, incomplete registers were found, invoices and original receipts had been torn out and apparently destroyed, and consignments received as 'To pay' were accounted for as 'Paid' and outward 'Paid' as 'To pay.' Reference to the local octroi office also showed that certain goods received and delivered had not been accounted for. An up-to-date account was prepared, resulting in Rs. 1,743-1-9, the amount misappropriated, being recovered from the contractor.

(b) Office of a District Traffic Superintendent.—A very serious and ingenious series of embezzlements, carried out by a clerk in the office of a District Traffic Superintendent, came to light during the year. The menial establishment in the District is very large and fluctuates considerably both in numbers and in the individuals. Substitutes and temporarily employed men have constantly to be discharged and, in order to avoid the delay of sending their bills to Headquarters for pre-audit, a system exists under which the bills are paid from an imprest held by the local Cashier for that purpose and subsequently come under post audit as part of the Imprest Accounts. One of the District Office clerks took advantage of this arrangement. He prepared false bills purporting to be for menials discharged and, after getting them passed through the establishment section of the office, or having himself forged the head establishment clerk's initials, submitted them to the District officer, or one of his Assistants, for signature. After the officer's signature had been obtained, he presented himself at the cash office with a confederate whom, as a member of the District Traffic Superintendent's office, he identified as being the rightful payee. This continued from September 1911 to December 1914, when an accident brought the fraud to light.

In the course of the enquiry made into the matter, the following defects of procedure and supervision in the District office were noticed :—

(i) The complete failure in the District office to check, or test, the staff pay bills with the station attendance registers or muster rolls.

(ii) The passing of fictitious bills both by the establishment section and the District officer. No discharge papers were ever submitted or called for. Had this obvious and necessary course been taken, the fraud, even allowing for the failure to check the muster rolls, would have been at once exposed.

(iii) The faulty system of identifying payees and witnessing payments.

The details of this fraud, which led to an embezzlement of some Rs. 40,000, were placed before the Agent. The matter is still under the disposal of the local authorities. Steps were at once taken to remedy the defects which alone rendered the fraud possible The clerk concerned in the embezzlement was convicted and sentenced to two years' rigorous imprisonment.

(c) East Indian Railway—a Workshop Fraud Case.—In the course of inspection in March 1914, the Works Manager of a workshop noticed that some of the contractors of the Signal shop appeared to be making unusual profits and he checked some of the requisitions, which had been dealt with in the Signal shop, with the counterfoil requisitions issued by other shops. He found that the original requisitions had been tampered with, as evidenced by traces of extensive erasures and numerous alterations of figures in respect of quantity, dimensions and rates, and that certain contractors had received payments in excess of the amounts actually due to them. Criminal cases were instituted against two of the contractors and their clerk. On information being received from the Locomotive Superintendent, an Audit Inspector was deputed to take up the investigation and it was found that certain other contractors, in addition to those already prosecuted, had made fraudulent alterations in the dimensions, quantity and rates of the work, in the genuine requisitions, in order to enhance the amount of the bills. These men were also made over to the police for prosecution by the Locomotive Department. The Audit Inspector also discovered that other and more audacious forgeries had been committed by the fabrication of entirely false requisitions, on which the signature of the Foreman had been forged and payment obtained. Altogether eight contractors and their clerk were implicated.

The principal culprit was the clerk; it was he who altered the requisitions and carried out the forgeries. He committed suicide shortly after proceedings were instituted. Charges were framed against the eight contractors, who received sentences varying from one year and six months to four years and six months rigorous imprisonment.

The enquiries into this case showed a want of supervision and carelessness in the shop. This has been remedied and the Foreman responsible has been discharged.

Manipulation of Accounts.

(d) North-Western Railway.—In March 1912, an Executive Engineer purchased locally, through a contractor, eternite tiles to the value of Rs. 1,200 without obtaining sanction. The tiles were used on a work in place of Mangalore tiles provided for in the estimate and an excess over the estimate was thus occasioned. In order to avoid objection to this excess, the Executive Engineer shortly after wrote back the charge from the estimate for the work under Capital to ordinary Revenue maintenance, it being alleged that the charges had been wrongly allocated in the first instance. Subsequently, a revised estimate was prepared, providing for eternite tiles, and this was sanctioned by the Railway Board. The entry of the cost of the tiles was then restored in February 1914, the reason again assigned being that the charges had previously been wrongly allocated. The whole case disclosed a series of irregularities, namely, (i) the improper purchase of European stores without authority; (ii) fictitious adjustments to obscure the excess over the estimate; and finally (iii) the course adopted, with the object of covering the irregularity, of paying for the tiles through a contractor, instead of purchasing them direct and arranging for the payment of the bill through the Audit Office in the ordinary way.

(e) An Executive Engineer, with a view to bringing the outlay on a work in progress since 1910-11 within the sanctioned estimate, wrote back a sum of Rs. 1,444 from the Revenue account of the work to the debit of ordinary maintenance, it being alleged that the expenditure had been wrongly allocated. The write-back was challenged by audit. The Executive Engineer admitted the irregularity of the adjustment and the excess was explained in the completion report as attributable to high labour rates.

Army.

55. The total expenditure audited during the year under review amounted to 23,27,08, of which 1,62,29 were placed under objection. This high percentage, which amounts to 6·97 against 2·63 in the preceding year, is entirely due to conditions caused by the War.

Percentage of objections to total expenditure: Comparison with 1913-14.

There has been a very large increase in the amount of expenditure audited, which includes large payments debitable to the Imperial Government. Moreover, the special conditions prevailing, such as the departure of troops to field service at short notice, contributed largely to the amount under objection.

Analysis of Outstanding Objections.

The reasons for the outstandings are explained below:—

Analysis of outstandings.

1910-11.—A small item of Rs. 344 is outstanding in the Supply Circle pending settlement with the Railway authorities; it has been referred for the orders of the Government of India.

1911-12.—A sum of 3, outstanding in the 6th (Poona) Division, represents the balance still remaining unadjusted out of advances made by the Assistant Overseer, Poona Grass Farm, on account of harvesting operations. The amount is being recovered in instalments.

1912-13.—Of a sum of 21 outstanding, 19, pertaining to the 6th (Poona) Division, represent the loss sustained by the State owing to the failure of a contractor. Legal steps were taken for the recovery of the amount through the Court of the District Judge, Poona, who has intimated that the case is on the sine die list The balance of 2, pertaining to the 7th (Meerut) Division, represents extra expenditure incurred on account of supplies made under departmental agency, owing to the failure of certain contractors. The amount has since been adjusted.

1913-14.—Of a sum of 20 outstanding, 13, pertaining to the 9th (Secunderabad) Division, represent the loss sustained by the State on account of the failure of a contractor; the amount has since been adjusted. The remaining items are of small amount.

1914-15.—Of a sum of 1,15,99 outstanding for the current year, 14,14 have since been adjusted, 20,16 are outstanding owing to want of vouchers or other details, 79,36 are under recovery, and 2,33 are awaiting Government sanction.

The delay in the settlement of these outstandings is due mainly to the increase of work owing to the War and the withdrawal of experienced clerks for field service. Special instructions have been issued from time to time to all Controllers with a view to the expenditure under objection being reduced to the lowest possible limit.

Financial Irregularities.

58. The following instances are brought to notice :—

(1) In 3 cases, traders' fees amounting to Rs. 6,868 were drawn by certain Officers Commanding, although no traders had actually been entertained. The amounts were subsequently refunded.

(2) A sum of Rs. 17-8-9, drawn by a certain officer on account of subsistence allowance to rejected recruits, was objected to for want of a certificate from the Recruiting Officer in support of the grant of the allowance to the men. After prolonged correspondence it was discovered that the amount had been misappropriated by a Duffadar, from whom it has been recovered.

(3) A sum of Rs 7,000 was drawn by an Army Commander in excess of his immediate requirements and deposited by him in a Presidency Bank, in contravention of Article 703, Civil Account Code, Volume I.

(4) A sum of Rs. 88-2-0, which was drawn by the Superintendent of a factory on account of books, in his contingent bill for December 1914, was not disbursed till August 1915.

Telegraph.

59. The expenditure of the year under review was 1,47,29, of which 4,13 were placed under objection.

Percentage of objections to expenditure: Comparison with 1913-14.

62. Under 47—Military Works, the total expenditure incurred during the year under review was 1,49,41, of which 39,99 were placed under objection, showing a percentage of 26·8 as against 21·3 in the preceding year. The increase was mainly due (a) to expenditure connected with Territorial Regiments, for which the sanction of the Secretary of State was required and has since been received, (b) to outlay on the new cantonment at Delhi, (c) to heavy unvouched outlay in Bombay and Delhi, and (d) to excess of detailed, over plinth area, estimates in the case of certain other works. Under 47-A—Special Defences, the percentage of objections to the total expenditure is 28·7 as against 25·5 in the preceding year, the total expenditure during the year under review being 2,04, out of which 59 were placed under objection.

Analysis of outstandings according to years.

65 Out of 31 items relating to 1912-13 and previous years, which were utstanding on the 31st July 1914, 20 were adjusted during the period under eview.

One item, under 'Miscellaneous irregularities', represents a sum of 11 dvanced in March 1912 and February 1913 to an Officer Commanding a olunteer Rifle Corps for constructing an Armoury and Sergeant Instructor's uarters, which is outstanding pending the receipt of a certificate of completion of the work. It is explained that the commencement of the work has been delayed pending the result of an application made to the civil authorities for an additional grant.

The outstandings for 1913-14 and 1914-15 relate to several works, some of which have been completed and some are still in progress. 2,23 of the outstanding balance have since been sanctioned by the Secretary of State and 1,05 relate to War expenditure incurred in Karachi without estimates.

[Percent]age of works started without estimates to total number started during 1914-15.

66. It has been roughly estimated that the percentage of Military Works started during the year without detailed sanctioned estimates was 32·75 as against 33·76 in the preceding year. This estimate is based on statistics for 8 districts selected at random.

Financial Irregularities.

Irregular action with a view to avoid lapses of grants.

67. Several cases, in which irregular procedure was resorted to with a view to avoiding lapses of grants, came to notice during the year. The same methods were adopted as those mentioned in paragraph 36 above. Cheques were drawn and Remittance Transfer Receipts were obtained prior to the actual receipt of materials, and irregular stock adjustments were effected. It was observed that disbursing officers not infrequently sign the certificate of verification of materials, prior to their actual receipt from the persons or firms concerned. Some instances illustrative of the irregularities are given below :—

Military Works.

(a) In a certain district, stock to the value of Rs. 2,814 was issued to a work in March 1914. The whole of the materials were, however, written back to other works during April to June 1914.

(b) A sum of Rs. 1,769 was paid for trusses on the 21st March 1914 on a bill verified by a Sub-Divisional Officer on the 30th March 1914, whereas the trusses were not actually despatched from Karachi till after the 14th April 1914.

(c) A Remittance Transfer Receipt for Rs. 4,060 was obtained on the 30th March 1915 for certain stores which arrived on the 2nd April 1915. The Remittance Transfer Receipt was despatched on the 22nd April 1915. The stores, although not received till April 1915, were accounted for in the returns of March 1915.

(d) A Remittance Transfer Receipt for Rs. 852-1-4 was obtained on the 31st March 1914 in favour of a certain firm and was kept in the cash chest till the 5th May 1914.

(e) Remittance Transfer Receipts for Rs. 1,395-6-0 were obtained from the treasury on the 30th March 1914 for payment for certain stores, which did not arrive until the 9th and 21st May 1914.

(f) Two cheques for Rs. 1,636-4-0 and Rs. 172-1-0 were drawn by an Assistant Commanding Royal Engineer on the 17th March 1915 and the 22nd March 1915, respectively, in favour of a contractor and were kept in the cash chest for nearly 3 months until the contractor accepted payment on the 12th June 1915.

(g) During the inspection of a certain district by an accounts officer, on the 16th June 1914, the following Remittance Transfer Receipts were found lying in the cash chest :—

(i) Dated 30th March 1914 for Rs. 4,549-14-10.

(iii) Dated 31st March 1914 for Rs. 1,386-14-1.

In these three cases, the actual receipts of the payees were given on the 4th March 1915, 4th July 1914 and 7th July 1914, respectively. The delay in the first case is said to be due to the fact that the Remittance Transfer Receipt was not made over to the firm concerned until nearly a year later, as they had failed to complete the supply of the road metal in payment of which the Remittance Transfer Receipt had been drawn.

(h) Remittance Transfer Receipts, in payment of three bills aggregating Rs. 8,017, were drawn in March 1914 and were kept in the Assistant Commanding Royal Engineer's cash chest in anticipation of the receipt of certain stores. The stores were received in April 1914, after which the Remittance Transfer Receipts were despatched.

(i) In a certain district, Remittance Transfer Receipts for Rs. 1,505 were obtained from the treasury on the 30th March 1914, to pay for certain articles of barrack furniture, and were sent to the Assistant Commanding Royal Engineer of another district for disbursement to the suppliers. The bills were verified by the Barrack Master of the former district on the 31st March 1914. The articles were, however, not actually received till different dates in April and May 1914 and the Remittance Transfer Receipts were not made over to the firm till the 12th May 1914.

(j) In one district, no less than 22 Remittance Transfer Receipts for Rs. 6,172-5-11 were obtained in March 1915 and kept in the cash chest, though the stores were not received till April 1915. Moreover, the stores were accounted for in the store returns as having been received in March 1915.

(k) A sum of Rs. 1,128-12-0 was charged off in the cash book on the 24th March 1915 on account of teak planks, which were not, however, despatched by the supplier till the 8th April and the 12th May 1915. A Remittance Transfer Receipt for the amount was sent to the Sub-Divisional Officer concerned on the 31st March 1915 with instructions to keep it back till the supply was completed.

(l) A sum of Rs. 2,600 was paid on the 22nd March 1915 for pile logs, the measurements of which were taken only on the 20th April 1915.

(m) A Remittance Transfer Receipt was obtained from the treasury on the 30th March 1915 in settlement of 3 bills of a contractor, 2 of which were final, amounting to Rs. 902-14-9. The Remittance Transfer Receipt was despatched on the 6th April 1915. The Treasury Officer was subsequently asked to withhold payment, and payment was not again authorised until the 28th May 1915. The Assistant Commanding Royal Engineer admitted the irregularity and stated that, after the Remittance Transfer Receipt had been drawn, he inspected the work personally and, as he was dissatisfied with it, he withheld payment.

(n) A sum of Rs. 15,000 was paid to an Electric Supply and Tramways Company on the 29th March 1915 in part payment for work done in providing electric lighting in a Station Hospital. No detailed bill for this amount had been received in the audit office up to the 1st February 1916.

Manipulations: how frauds are facilitated thereby.

(o) In a certain district, it was found that fraudulent manipulations of stock and materials-at-site accounts were systematically made, resulting in serious deficiencies of stock amounting approximately to Rs. 8,200. The case, which primâ facie indicates considerable negligence and laxity of supervision on the part of the local officers, has been reported to the Director General. The following transactions, detected during the investigation, afford striking examples of how losses may be caused by irregular adjustments:—

(i) Materials costing about Rs. 305-0-0 were shown as transferred from stock to an estimate for constructing certain quarters, in the accounts for March 1914, to utilize the allotment for the work. The materials were not borne on the site accounts of the work, but were charged off as direct issues. They never actually left the store-keeper's yard nor were they indented for by the Sub-Divisional Officer in charge of the work. They were, however, not forthcoming when stock was verified.

(ii) In the materials-at-site accounts of a church for the month of July 1914, 22 barrels of Portland cement were shown as having been issued to certain factory buildings on an indent, which did not, however, contain the necessary entry. The value of the cement was debited, not to the materials-at-site, but to sub-heads of the estimate. The entry was subsequently struck out in pencil, but the balances were not corrected, nor was the value of the material re-adjusted. The material itself was eventually not forthcoming.

Percentage of objections to total expenditure.

68. The percentage which the expenditure placed under objection during 1914-15, viz., 49, bears to the total expenditure of the year, viz., 36,90, is 1·33, as against ·38 in the preceding year.

Analysis of Outstanding Objections.

Outstanding balance.

69. The following statement shows the balances of objections raised up to the 31st March 1915, but remaining unadjusted on the 31st July 1915, classified according to the years to which they relate:—

The comparatively high balance for 1914-15 is due mainly to the War.

March Expenditure.

70. In paragraph 70 of last year's Report, I referred briefly to the heavy expenditure that takes place in the Public Works Department in the month of March and to the circular which the Government of India had issued on the subject. In view of the importance of this question, it appears advisable to describe briefly the present position and the various steps taken to put a stop to the rush of expenditure, sometimes wasteful and unnecessary, that is apt to occur at the close of each year.

The adoption of the following measures has been suggested by the Government of India to Local Governments:—

(a) Promptitude in the payment of work done in previous months.

(b) Improvement in the procedure hitherto followed for making provision in the Budget estimate for Public Works expenditure in the following respects:—

(i) To make no provision in the Budget estimate for any work of importance, unless the work has been administratively sanctioned and unless the detailed plans and estimates have already been sanctioned, or are so advanced as to ensure that they will be sanctioned before the commencement of the financial year.

(ii) The maintenance of a register of projects, which have duly received administrative or technical sanctions, for the purpose of drawing up an adequate programme of expenditure.

(iii) Communication of a list of works, proposed to be included in the Budget, to Superintending Engineers in advance, in order to enable them to make timely preliminary arrangements for their commencement.

(iv) The discontinuance of the custom of providing in the Budget for a reserve of a considerable amount for unforeseen demands, and the substitution in its place of a system of treating the allotment for some of the larger works as a reserve, or of providing a minus reserve in the Budget and making overallotments to individual works which can be withdrawn in March, if necessary.

(c) Special scrutiny of revised estimates, with the object of reducing any excessive proportion of the outlay of the year allocated to the month of March.

(d) Avoidance of delays in making final allotments of funds at the end of the year.

(e) Insistence on timely surrenders of funds which cannot be utilized within the year without excessive pressure.

(f) Payment for work done in March ordinarily to be made in the month of April.

The several Local Governments and Administrations have issued orders to their officers generally upon the lines indicated above. The Punjab Government, however, considered that the proposed remedies would have little effect in the Irrigation Branch of that province, as heavy expenditure during January to March is unavoidable, chiefly in view of the fact that labour, both local and trans-frontier, is available only during those months, and that the bulk of the maintenance work has also to be pushed forward then, as the canals cannot be closed during any other period, owing to climatic conditions and the necessities of the crops. The suggestion of withholding payments for work done in March until April was also considered to be impracticable in that province, as the labourers ordinarily leave work in March and demand prompt payment. The latter suggestion was also not adopted in the Buildings and Roads Branch of the United Provinces, in view of the great difficulty of making provision for incomplete works in the ensuing year in cases where the demands are not reported in time to admit of their inclusion in the Budget. In Burma, no instructions have yet been issued by the Local Government, who are awaiting the orders of the Government of India on a draft circular submitted for their approval. An important feature of the proposals made by the Burma Government is the inclusion of a lump sum provision in the Budget to cover lapses in the preceding year. I consider that the orders issued by the Local Governments on the subject are, on the whole, sufficient and, if duly enforced, will result in improved conditions.

71. I append below a statement showing the percentages which the expenditure incurred in March 1915 and the amount of cheques issued during the last three days of the same month, in each province, bear to the total expenditure during the year 1914-15 and during March 1915, respectively :—

—	Percentage of total Public Works expenditure in March to total expenditure of the year 1914-15.	Percentage of cheques issued during last three days of March to the expenditure of that month.
India { Delhi	18	17
India { Baluchistan, etc.	18	25

It will be seen that the percentages in the majority of audit circles are still higher than they should be. In fact, several Accountants General report that there has been no appreciable improvement in spite of the issue of stringent orders by the Local Governments. It is true that in certain cases these orders issued comparatively late in the year and that their full effect will not be felt till later. In Bihar and Orissa, the high percentage has been ascribed partly to the want of a properly prepared programme of works at the beginning of the year and partly to the fact that, as the province has only recently been constituted, the conditions were scarcely normal. The Local Government anticipate a substantial improvement in the next year. The high percentage in Bengal is said to be due to the instructions issued by the Local Government not having been sufficiently closely attended to by disbursing officers.

The practice of incurring unnecessarily heavy expenditure in March has been in vogue in the Public Works Department for a long time and has developed into an accepted custom. A systematic insistence on the observance of the orders already issued will be necessary before the practice can be finally eradicated.

The necessity for keeping this expenditure well within control can best be exemplified by a recapitulation of the classes of irregularities which came to notice during the year, and which were principally due to the rush of expenditure in March and to the illegitimate expedients adopted for avoiding lapses:—

(a) Unreal payments, i.e., those charged off in the accounts but not actually made at the time to the parties concerned. A common device adopted for this purpose is to draw cheques and obtain Remittance Transfer Receipts in anticipation of actual requirements—paragraphs 36 (a), (c), (d), (f) and (h), 67(d), (f), (g), (h) and (k) and Appendix, paragraphs 3 (a) and (i).

(b) Advance or anticipatory payments, i.e., those made prior to the actual receipt of materials or execution of works—paragraphs 36 (d), (f), (h), and (k), 67 (b), (c), (e) and (i) and Appendix, paragraphs 3(a), (c), (d), (e) and (f).

(c) Fictitious stock issues—paragraphs 36 (l) and 67 (a).

(d) Fictitious adjustments between the accounts of individual works—paragraphs 36(e), (g), (i) and (j) and Appendix, paragraphs 3 (g) and (h).

These are all serious matters, and the number of cases brought to light still gives cause for anxiety; there should, therefore, be no relaxation of the pressure brought by Local Governments and Administrations on their executive officers, till this class of irregularity has been finally abandoned and the expenditure in March has been brought within normal limits.

Disciplinary Action.

72. In paragraphs 34 and 47 of my last Report I commented upon the necessity for disciplinary action to be taken by Local Governments and other administrative authorities with a view to putting a stop to certain classes of financial irregularities that have been prevalent for many years past. This view has recently been endorsed by the Secretary of State, and I have no doubt that Local Governments are fully alive to their responsibilities in the matter, but at the same time, although there has been a slight improvement in some provinces, there is no evidence that the volume of irregularities has appreciably decreased. The calling of attention to irregularities and the constant issue of warnings will never, I fear, have the desired effect; whereas, if disciplinary action is taken in a few cases, a marked improvement may be expected.

APPROPRIATION AUDIT.

75 The excesses were due for the most part, either to unexpected heavy expenditure in the closing months of the year, when it was too late to obtain sanction for the required additional funds, or to adjustments made in the accounts for March final which were not foreseen. The more important excesses, which occurred under special circumstances, are explained below:—

Explan for exc

In India (excluding Baluchistan) the adjustments under 6—Stamps, 14—Interest on other obligations (Railways), 35—Construction of Protective Irrigation Works, 36—Reduction or Avoidance of Debt, and 38—State Railways—Interest on Debt, are made after the close of the year, and the excesses under these heads could not be regularized during the year. The excess under 6—Stamps (2,10) was due to less recoveries for stamps supplied to Madras, Bengal, and the United Provinces; under 14—Interest on other obligations (Railways) (8,21) to the adjustment of 8,52 on account of interest on the undrawn balance of capital deposited by the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway Company, for which no provision was made in the Budget; under 35—Construction of Protective Irrigation Works (43) chiefly to the provision for probable savings not having been fully realised; under 36—Reduction or Avoidance of Debt (2,68) to a larger amount being available for adjustment under this head after meeting charges for direct famine relief, construction of protective Railways and Irrigation works, and for provincial appropriations for reduction or avoidance of debt, in accordance with the arrangements described in paragraphs 49 to 54 of the Financial Statement for 1907-08; and under 38—State Railways—Interest on Debt (1,05,53) to the adjustment of interest in respect of the Bengal-Nagpur Railway under this head instead of under 38—Interest on Advances and 38—Interest on Capital deposited by Companies, and to the rate of interest being higher than that adopted in the Budget. The excess of 29 under 19 B—Law and Justice—Jails was due chiefly to increased expenditure in March 1915 for commissariat supplies in connection with convict charges at Port Blair, which was not fully anticipated. Under 30—Stationery and Printing, the excess was due to non-realization of the probable savings of 60 entered in the Central Press Budget. Under 32—Miscellaneous, the excess was due chiefly to the remission of takavi loans in Ajmer, for which the Local Administration applied for additional funds in the following official year.

The excess of 7,37 under 38—State Railways—Share of surplus profits, etc., occurred mainly under the Burma Railway (Main Line) as the result of increased net earnings, under the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway owing to the interim payment of interest, for the half-year ended 30th September 1914, on the Company's preferred Capital and on additional advances made to the Company on Capital account, for which no provision was made in the Budget estimate, and under the Nagda Muttra Railway, where the increase was due to the share of net earnings payable to the Jaipur Durbar having largely exceeded the Budget provision. Under 41—Miscellaneous Railway expenditure, the excess occurred in the auxiliary account of the Accountant General, Railways.

Under 46—Army, the excesses were generally due to the revision of the normal cost estimate of forces in the field and to re-adjustments in connection with War expenditure, which were not fully anticipated when the revised estimate was framed.

Under 46 A —Marine, the excess was mainly due to the presence on duty of a larger number of officers and men in consequence of the War, and to the adjustment made, in the accounts of March Final 1915, of the value of coal left in stock after the cessation of the Arms Traffic operations.

Under 48—State Railways—Construction, the excess occurred mainly in the stores account of the Eastern Bengal and East Indian Railways, and was chiefly due, in the former case, to larger purchases of sleepers and miscellaneous stores for purposes of stock, and, in the latter, to expenditure on additions to rolling stock in course of construction being kept in suspense pending completion.

The adjustments under 13—Interest on ordinary debt and 42—Irrigation—Interest on debt are made after the close of the year, and the excesses in almost all the provinces under these heads were not fully anticipated. Under the latter head, the excesses were due chiefly to the rate of interest being higher than that adopted in the Budget.

As regards the excess of 17 under 45—Civil Works (P. W. D.) in Coorg, it appears that the Local Administration sanctioned a reappropriation of 14 from 22—Education to 45—Civil Works in March 1915, but this could not be accepted as the sanction, which was received in the audit office in April 1915, involved a transfer of grant from one major head to another and required the confirmation of the Government of India.

GENERAL REMARKS.

76. The following remarks are not confined to the year under review, but refer also to the period from the end of 1914-15 up to the date of issue of this Report.

77. A number of important questions have been under consideration, the more noteworthy of which are mentioned below.

78. The following changes of classification have been introduced :—

(a) Contributions from Imperial to Provincial and vice versâ have hitherto been adjusted through the Land Revenue head, an unscientific method which tended to obscure the real share of Imperial and Provincial Land Revenue under the provincial settlements It has been decided to confine the Land Revenue transactions to their proper sphere and to show adjustments under a separate head 'Transfers between Imperial and Provincial Revenues.'

(b) The heads Post Office and Telegraph, which were formerly separate, have been amalgamated in consequence of the amalgamation of the administration of the two Departments

(c) Agricultural receipts and expenditure are now recorded under separate major heads XXIA and 26A-Agriculture, in view of the importance of agricultural development.

(d) The procedure hitherto followed for the adjustment of the profit or loss on account of exchange has been simplified. The actual gain or loss by exchange on remittances between India and England is now shown as a credit or debit under 'Exchange' in the Revenue accounts without regard to the amount of net expenditure in England for which remittances from India may be necessary. The profit or loss arising on remittances for the Gold Standard Reserve is, however, credited or debited to the Reserve itself. The head 'Exchange on Remittance Account' has consequently been abolished

A point in connection with the work in Civil Audit offices, which I found to require attention, is the necessity for relieving the senior officers in each office, as far as possible, of purely routine work, in order to give them time to deal effectively with their more important duties; steps are being taken to improve matters in this direction.

The powers recently conferred on Audit Officers by Article 989, Civil Account Code, to waive audit objections concerning petty items, have, as a rule, been insufficiently exercised. I have specially drawn the attention of Audit Officers to the matter and a decided improvement may be expected.

Particular attention was devoted by me to the question as to how far objections issued as the result of audit are scrutinized by responsible officers. Unnecessary, meticulous, or badly expressed objections not only bring discredit on audit and give rise to reasonable irritation, but also cause an increase of work in both audit and executive offices. The position hitherto has not been altogether satisfactory, but special instructions on the subject are now under issue.

Inspection by Deputy Auditors General.

80. The work of inspection and test audit by Civil Deputy Auditors General has now been brought up to date, the following offices having been inspected during the year 1915-16.

Office of the Accountant General, United Provinces of Agra and Oudh.
Do. do. do. Madras.
Do. Comptroller, Assam.
Do. do. Central Provinces.
Do. Deputy Accountant General, Posts and Telegraph, Madras.
Do. do. do. do. do. do. Nagpur.
Do. do. do. do. do. do. Calcutta.
Currency Office, Madras.
Do., Calcutta.
Public Debt Office, Madras.
Government Account Department of the Bank of Madras.

The result has proved so far satisfactory that no serious cases of failure of audit have been detected and, while defects have been brought to notice, the reports show that the majority of these offices are in an efficient state.

81. The Deputy Accountant General, Railways, during 1915-16, inspected the offices of the Chief Auditors and Examiners of the Assam-Bengal, and the Rohilkhand and Kumaon Railways, all of which were reported to be in a satisfactory condition. The offices of the Chief Auditor and the Examiner, East Indian Railway, were also inspected during the year, but the reports dealing with these inspections have not yet been received. The Account Offices of the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway were under inspection at the close of the year.

82. On the Military side, the two Military Deputy Auditors General, whose appointments were created with effect from the 1st April 1914, inspected the accounts of the 2nd (Rawalpindi) and the 4th (Quetta) Divisions and carried out a test-audit of the accounts of the Divisional disbursing offices of those divisions and of the 6th (Poona) Division. Many defects of minor importance are reported to have been brought to notice, but the detailed examination of the Inspection Reports has been held over by the Military Accountant General on account of the pressure of work caused by the War. In December 1914, one Military Deputy Auditor General was diverted from his ordinary inspection duties for the supervision of War accounts. Later, owing to the pressure of work in the Military Account offices occasioned by the War, it was decided to suspend for a time inspection work by the Military Deputy Auditors General. They have subsequently been employed on inspecting the depôt accounts, in which there had been some confusion.

83. The accounts of twenty-one Government Presses were test-audited and inspected by the Examiner of Press Accounts and his staff during the year 1915-16, and were found to be generally in a satisfactory condition.

84. The Auditor of Custom House Accounts in India has hitherto been mainly engaged in re-organizing the system of accounts in force in the Custom Houses.

85. The system of inspection of treasuries by the officers of the Accounts Department, referred to in paragraph 81 of my last Report, is now in force in all provinces. I look on the system as an important innovation, which is likely to prove of value both to Executive officers and to the Audit Department. In addition to the centralized audit work performed at headquarters, the duties of the Audit Department now include the local inspection of Public Works Divisional offices and treasuries, as well as the test audit of the accounts of local bodies, wards estates, etc., which is carried out by the Examiners of Local Fund Accounts. These outside audits and inspections, when properly developed, will tend to vitalize the Department by infusing a more vigorous and practical spirit and should result in a substantial improvement in the tone and character of its work. More harmonious relations between the Audit Department and the Executive are to be hoped for and the inspections themselves will undoubtedly form a valuable educative system to both the clerks and gazetted officers employed upon them. The best method of developing the scheme has engaged the attention of myself and my officers. Mr. V. C. Scott O'Connor, Accountant General, Bihar and Orissa, has recently forwarded a valuable memorandum, with detailed manuals, on the subject, which are being circulated to other Audit Officers.

Changes of Rules and Procedure.

86. The following steps were taken to strengthen audit and to place it on a sounder basis :—

(a) Formerly, questions of interpretation of rules in the Civil Service Regulations and other authorised Codes, except the Civil Account Code, were in cases of doubt referred by the Accountants General direct to the Government of India. This procedure has been changed and the Government of India have issued orders that all questions of interpretation of financial rules in any authorised Code should be referred to the Comptroller and Auditor General in the first instance.

(b) In order to ensure that all corrections to the financial rules in the various Codes issued under the authority of the Government of India have received the sanction of the Secretary of State when necessary, it has been arranged that all orders of a financial bearing, which involve corrections to existing rules, should be scrutinised by the Comptroller and Auditor General before issue. In the case of the State Railway Codes, the Accountant General, Railways, has been authorized to examine the sufficiency of the sanctions in each case, and to refer all doubtful and important cases to the Comptroller and Auditor General.

(c) In order to enable the Comptroller and Auditor General to keep in close touch with pending questions and decisions, or with discussions of policy on matters with which the Audit Department is concerned, it has been arranged with the Government of India that spare copies of all despatches received from the Secretary of State, which relate in any way to matters of audit or account, should be sent informally to him as soon as they are received. Audit officers have also been instructed to refer to the Comptroller and Auditor General any cases in which they feel doubtful whether the orders issued by the Government of India correctly reproduce those of the Secretary of State.

(d) The procedure to be followed by Audit officers in cases which do not involve an infringement of any specific rule or order, but which nevertheless indicate that the financial interests of Government have not been sufficiently safeguarded, as, for instance, cases of primâ facie extravagant or avoidable expenditure, has been definitely settled after discussion with the Government of India and codified [Note to Article 732 (b) of the Civil Account Code].

(e) Detailed Manuals have been prepared for the guidance of Deputy Auditors General, laying down the procedure to be followed and the points to be specially looked into by them during their inspection of Civil (including Public Works) and Postal Account Offices, Currency and Public Debt Offices.

(f) The question of the procedure to be adopted in order to enable audit offices to watch that remissions or assignments of land revenue, which require the sanction of the Secretary of State under the rules in the Audit Resolution, have duly received that sanction, has been taken up and is under consideration

P. W. Accounts.

87. The scheme of Public Works Accounts to be finally adopted as a result of the amalgamation of the Civil and Public Works Accounts Departments, referred to in paragraph 72 of the last Report, was further examined in consultation with the Government of India. Proposals have been formulated and circulated to Local Governments for an expression of their views.

As a result of the amalgamation, cases relating to the Public Works Accounts forms, hitherto dealt with in the Public Works Department of the Government of India, are now disposed of by the Comptroller and Auditor General.

Simplification of Accounts Audit processes.

88. The examination of the suggestions contained in Mr. Heseltine's Report on the reduction of work in Civil Account Offices, referred to in paragraph 74 of last year's Report, was proceeded with and is nearing completion. Orders have already been issued on several points. The Government of India have been addressed regarding certain suggestions, while a few others are still under consideration.

89. The more important of the changes in rules and procedure already introduced or under contemplation, including those in Mr. Heseltine's Report, are briefly referred to below.

(a) The procedure prescribed for the verification of services and the issue of pension payment orders has been considerably simplified, and pensions are now calculated to the nearest anna The whole of the service claimed by an applicant is not now verified, but only so much of it as is necessary to entitle him to the pension claimed Audit officers have been empowered, with the approval of the Secretary of State, to waive, when dealing with pension applications, recovery of any over-payment due to the incorrect grant of leave as well as to the incorrect calculation of leave allowances. The submission of a fresh statement of services, in addition to the statement prepared for preliminary verification, has been dispensed with. Treasury officers have been authorised to renew pension payment orders in certain cases. Audit officers have also been empowered to issue pension payment orders in certain cases without formal sanction to the pensions. Proposals are under consideration for discontinuing the practice of checking the admissibility of leave granted to non-gazetted officers throughout their service at the time of certifying to their claims to pension, for dispensing with the maintenance of service books for inferior servants and abolishing the detailed verification of their pension applications in audit offices, and for relaxing the restrictions imposed by the present rules on the pay and allowances to be drawn by pensioned inferior servants and low paid police officials on re-employment. It is hoped that these measures will result in a decrease of unnecessary work and correspondence and will accelerate the disposal of pension applications and the payment of pensions.

(b) The possibility of simplifying the travelling allowance rules and the audit procedure connected therewith has been considered. The rules regarding the grant of family travelling allowance to non-gazetted officers on transfer have been modified. Proposals for the simplification of the present elaborate rules for journeys by sea or river, and for journeys made for attending courts, are under consideration. Conveyance hire is to be treated as a contingent charge, while certain superfluous checks exercised in audit offices in regard to the audit of travelling allowance bills have been discontinued.

(c) The procedure to be followed in the preparation and audit of salary and establishment bills has been thoroughly examined. The revision of the audit register of gazetted officers' salary bills, the omission of the names of all inferior servants and of certain classes of superior servants from establishment bills, the simplification of the form of the absentee statement, the exclusion of Sundays from the calculation of joining time, and the settlement of the procedure for the assessment of income tax in salary and establishment bills, may be mentioned among the changes introduced. The simplification of the procedure at present followed in the audit of pay and allowances of certain non-gazetted officers, who are treated as gazetted for audit purposes, and the improvement of the form of the audit register of non-gazetted establishments, borne on a provincial scale, are also under consideration.

(d) Appendix C. to the Civil Budget Estimate has been abolished, as have also the abstracts accompanying annual returns of establishments. The submission of proposition statements in certain cases has been discontinued.

(e) The enhancement of the limit up to which sub-vouchers are required to be submitted to audit from Rs. 10 to Rs. 25, constitutes the most important change made in the audit of contingent expenditure.

(f) Among other miscellaneous changes introduced, which tend to a reduction of work in audit offices, may be mentioned (i) the simplification of the procedure prescribed for the record and compilation of transfer entries and for the issue and the payment of Supply Bills and Remittance Transfer Receipts, (ii) the discontinuance of quarterly reviews of objections and of the audit of departmental cheques, advances, loans and certain other classes of vouchers which merely require formal audit, (iii) the discontinuance of the preparation of office copies of audit notes in the Public Works Branches of several audit offices, and (iv) the substitution of a percentage audit in the case of deposit repayment vouchers.

(g) The question of the improvement of initial audit is one of importance and, with this object in view, steps are being taken to reallocate the work in civil audit offices.

(h) The amendment made to paragraph 1922 of the Public Works Department Code, in order to allow expenditure to be incurred in certain cases prior to the sanction of competent authority to complete detailed estimates, has already been referred to in paragraph 25 of this Report. In addition to this, the suitability of the entire procedure followed in the Public Works Department as regards sanction to estimates, both original and revised, and the submission of completion reports, etc., was thoroughly reviewed from the financial point of view and a few alterations have been proposed.

(i) The introduction of a revised procedure for the Exchange and Central Adjusting Accounts, with a view to accelerating adjustments and decreasing outstandings, the practicability of effecting a reduction in the number of detailed heads in the classified accounts, and the question of the apportionment of the charges for the Public Works Establishment among the several Public Works Major heads of account, are questions which have all been under consideration, but have not yet been finally decided.

(j) In order to simplify work in account offices in connection with the accounting of the General Provident Fund transactions, it has been decided, with the approval of the Secretary of State, that depositors should pay fixed rates of subscription in whole rupees throughout the year.

Railway Accounts. Clearing House.

90 The scheme for the abolition of a double check of the Traffic accounts interchanged by Railways, referred to in paragraph 78 of my last Report, has worked satisfactorily on the Railways on which it was introduced and orders have been issued for its permanent adoption. Under the procedure introduced, the forwarding Railway alone is responsible for a complete audit of the accounts and the receiving Railway merely applies a test audit to safe-guard its own interests. Almost all the important Railways have accepted the scheme.

Workshop Accounts.

91. A Committee was appointed to investigate the system of Workshop Accounts in State Railways and to compile a Manual of Workshop Accounts with an Appendix of Forms. The Committee have submitted their Report, which is now under the consideration of the Accountant General, Railways Adjustments between Capital and Revenue.

92 Definite rules have been made by the Railway Board to regulate the adjustments between Capital and Revenue on account of issues of stores. The main feature of the new rules is that debits to works on account of stores issued from stock will be made at the time the material is actually placed on the work and not at the time of issue of the stores from the Depôt.

Traffic Audit.

93. Proposals for the simplification of the procedure followed at present in certain sections of the Traffic Audit Department of the State Railway Account Offices, resulting in a reduction of the establishments employed, have been made by the Accountant General, Railways, and have been sanctioned by the Government of India.

Early closing of Railway Accounts.

94. One of the direct results of the deliberations of the conference held in India in January 1912, under the presidency of Lord Inchcape, was the adoption by Indian Railway companies, with effect from April 1913, of the official, instead of as formerly the calendar, year in the preparation of their half-yearly capital and revenue accounts In consequence of this change and in order to comply with the request of the Railway companies that due regard should be paid to the dates fixed for the consideration of the half-yearly accounts at their share-holders' meetings, and also with a view to punctual payment to the companies of their shares of surplus profits under their contracts, it was decided that the accounts of individual lines for the two halves of the official year should be closed, the 1st half year on the 10th November and the 2nd half year, or the final accounts for the year, on the 10th May of the year following. every effort being made to bring into these accounts all assets and liabilities relating to the respective periods As the accounts of a year for individual lines were formerly closed about the middle of July of the year following, and supplementary accounts, if necessary, were submitted at later dates, it was feared that the advance of about two months or more in their closure would be likely to result in large outstandings being thrown forward for final adjustment in the accounts of the following year The advance in date was, however, permitted tentatively for two years and steps were taken to accelerate adjust-ments as far as possible. The results have proved satisfactory and the closure of the final accounts of the individual railways on the 10th May of the following year has now been adopted finally.

Finance and Revenue Accounts.

95 The question of simplification of the Railway portion of the Finance and Revenue Accounts has been under consideration and final proposals on the subject will be submitted shortly.

Miscellaneous.

Recruitment for the Department.

96. A standard system of recruitment has been adopted for the Depart-ment The normal recruitment in each year has been fixed at 6, but, in order to secure regularity of annual recruitment as far as possible, it has been decided, with the approval of the Secretary of State, to adopt, when necessary, the method of spreading the supply of considerable deficiencies or the removal of excesses over a period of three years, subject to the condition that the addi-tion to the normal recruitment figure or deduction therefrom, made for the purpose of mitigating unevenness of recruitment, shall not exceed 50 per cent. of that figure.

Amalgamation of the Civil and Public Works Accounts establishments.

97. Revised proposals regarding the amalgamation of the Civil and Public Works Accounts establishments in accounts offices have been submitted to the Government of India.

Military Accounts.

98. The office of the Controller, Military Supply Accounts, was inspected by a specially selected officer and, as a result of his suggestions, the work done in certain sections of the office has been simplified and some saving of establishment has been effected. At the suggestion of the Civil Deputy Auditor General, the check exercised in the Controller's office over the authorised proportions in indents for stores accounted for in the equipment ledgers was discontinued, as it involved avoidable duplication of work. This has resulted in a small reduction of establishment.

Extension of the Divisional Disbursing Office System.

The Divisional Disbursing Office system, which applied only to British Troops and to Supply and Transport expenditure, was extended in 1914-15 to the payment of Indian Troops, Staff, and Departmental Officers and establishments, excluding those in the payment of the Senior Controller of Military Supply Accounts. This system, which, under normal peace conditions, was expected to materially simplify accounts and audit procedure, has been interfered with in consequence of the War.

Reduction in the scope of audit of British Troops accounts.

In January 1915, sanction was accorded as a temporary measure to a reduction in audit, but here too, owing to the War and to the transfer on field service of the major portion of the regular British units, it has not been possible to effect any reduction of establishment.

Divisional basis account organisation.

The circle accounts and audit system has been displaced by a Divisional system with a Controller in charge of each Division, who submits accounts, etc., direct to the Comptroller General, the Controller of Currency, and the Military Accountant General. Two Military Deputy Auditors General were appointed to conduct a more effective test-audit of the accounts and a closer examination of the work generally of the Divisional Audit and Disbursing Offices.

War Accounts.

99. A very heavy strain has been imposed upon the staff of account offices throughout India owing to the heavy additional work necessitated by the War. During the year 1914-15, six expeditionary forces were despatched from India overseas, each with the necessary gazetted and clerical account staff. The Military Account offices in India were thus to a large extent denuded of a considerable portion of their expert establishment and had to be reconstructed by means of additional recruitment and drafts from civil and other account offices.

The office of the Controller of Military Accounts, 6th (Poona) Division, was first constituted as the Central Account office for the compilation of all War receipts and expenditure, the transactions occurring in other Divisions and in the Supply Circle being passed on to him after being finally audited. In order to assist in meeting the additional work thus thrown on this office, the Military Deputy Auditor General, Northern Army, was diverted from his ordinary inspection duties in December 1914 and was placed in administrative charge of all field accounts and estimates.

The withdrawal of officers and trained staff for field service and the substitution of untrained men, the exchange of territorial battalions for regular troops, the payment of family allotments for troops on service, extra recruitment in India and claims for pension and wound and injury gratuities, caused by heavy casualties in the field, all contributed to form so heavy a strain upon the resources of the department that considerable temporary arrears resulted.

At the end of 1914-15, it was decided that special responsibility for the accounting and audit of War expenditure should devolve on me and, in May 1915, Mr. B. N. Mitra, C.I.E., was, at my request, appointed to the newly created office of Central War Controller. It was found necessary to lay down explicit instructions regarding the incidence of the expenditure and to recast and readjust the expenditure already incurred. This was a formidable task, but was carried out with great ability by Mr. Mitra and it is in a great measure due to his zeal and energy that matters have now been put on a more satisfactory footing.

Cost of Au

100. It is not an unusual comment in India that the amount spent by Government on audit is to a great extent wasted and that the loss to Government prevented by audit is insignificant. The figures in the statement below may be of interest in this connection. They do not pretend to accuracy, as they have necessarily to be based to some extent on estimates as to the proportion of the work in the several offices which is devoted to accounting as distinct from audit. They give, however, a rough indication, apart from the moral effect, of the extent to which the audit staff pay their own way. The figures shown against the Provinces relate to the year 1914-15, those shown against Posts and Telegraphs, Military Works and Railways to 1912-13, and those shown against the Army and Marine Departments to 1913-14.

Action t on previ Reports.

101. All items brought to notice in the Appropriation Report for the year 1912-13 have been settled, with the exception of those recorded in paragraphs 42 (e) and 54. In the former case, which relates to Bombay and which has been outstanding since January 1911, an expenditure of Rs. 21,850 has been incurred up to the end of July 1915 without detailed sanctioned estimates. The Local Government informed me in February 1916 that fair plans and estimates were still awaited from the Superintending Engineer concerned and that they had issued orders to the effect that no further expenditure was to be incurred on the work until sanction to the estimates had been accorded. As regards paragraph 54, the Government of India in the Marine Department stated in January 1916 that the question of adopting suitable remedial measures with a view to preventing the recurrence of similar financial irregularities was still under investigation.

With a few exceptions, the items relating to the Appropriation Report of 1913-14 have also been settled.

R. A. GAMBLE,

The 4th May 1916. Comptroller and Auditor General.

Appendix.

Details of further cases referred to in paragraphs 13, 16, 35 and 40 of the Report.

Civil Department.

1. (a) A Head Master of a training school drew, in March 1915, a sum of Rs. 314 on account of utensils required for the hostel attached to the institution. The officer was asked to forward the payee's receipts in May 1915. On his stating that the articles had not then been purchased, he was required to refund at once the amount into the treasury, and this was done in June 1915.

Drawal of money in advance of requirements with a view to avoid lapse of Budget grant. Madras.

(b) An officer drew a sum of Rs. 1,500 on the 31st March 1915 to pay a bill for the erection of racks in his office, but the actual payment was not made till the 27th July 1915. Bengal.

(c) A Magistrate drew a sum of Rs. 375 in March 1915 on account of ferry charges, etc., and kept it in the treasury as a valuable for safe custody.

(d) Two sums, one of Rs. 3,087-3-1 and the other of Rs. 7,520-7-4, representing compensation for land acquired for public purposes, were withdrawn from the treasury on the 30th March 1915 and kept under Revenue Deposits. Such money can be kept under Revenue Deposits only when parties are called on to receive payment, but do not appear or apply for a reference to the Civil Court. In this case the parties were called upon to receive payment of the awards on or before the 12th April 1915 only. The money appears, therefore, to have been drawn solely to prevent a lapse of grant.

(e) A Township Officer drew an agricultural advance of Rs. 800 in September 1914, but, as there was no applicant for the loans, left the money with the Bailiff. It was refunded in April 1915. Burma.

(f) An Excise reward of Rs. 100 was drawn in February 1915, but was not actually disbursed till the 8th July 1915. The delay was stated to be due to the fault of a head clerk, who was subsequently removed from service for this and other faults.

(g) A Deputy Commissioner drew Rs. 2,700 in February 1915 for the purchase of an elephant. The Accountant General reported on the 28th January 1916 that the elephant had not yet been purchased and that the officer had been instructed to refund the money into the treasury. The money has since been refunded. Bihar and Orissa.

(h) A Head Master of a Zillah School drew Rs. 500 on the 16th March 1915 for the purchase of books and refunded the amount into the treasury on the 23rd July 1915.

(i) A sum of Rs. 549 was drawn by a Deputy Commissioner on the 31st March 1915 for the purchase of furniture. Sub-vouchers were not received until June and July 1915. The Deputy Commissioner explained that the sanctioned re-appropriation statement was received in his office on the evening of the 31st March 1915 and that the money had to be drawn for payment as the contract had already been given. Sanction to the purchase of the furniture was not, however, received till the 1st May 1915. Central Provinces.

(j) A Deputy Inspector of Schools drew, in March 1915, a sum of Rs. 190 for the construction of quarters for a vernacular school The payees' receipts, which are dated 28th September 1915, were furnished in October 1915. Assam.

2. (a) An Assistant Surgeon drew a sum of Rs. 65-12-0 on account of travelling allowance for the same journey, once in October 1914 and again in December 1914. Both the bills were countersigned by the Civil Surgeon.

Double claims preferred and paid. Bombay.

(b) Certain deposits amounting to Rs. 109, already repaid by a Sub-Judge in 1913 and 1914, were again repaid in March 1915. The over-payment was explained to be due to the fact that the payments made in 1913 and 1914 had not been noted in the original deposit registers.

(c) An Assistant Superintendent of Police drew the cost of railing a horse twice, once in June 1914 and again in September 1914. Punjab.

(d) An officer claimed travelling allowance twice for a journey performed by him on the 19th March 1915 from Lyallpur to Narwala Farm and back, once on the 26th April 1915 and again on the 1st May 1915.

(f) A Civil Surgeon claimed Rs. 17-8-0 twice on account of travelling allowance for a journey made by him on the 3rd March 1915, once on the 17th March 1915 and again on the 10th April 1915.

In the last four cases, the bills were duly countersigned by controlling officers.

Public Works Department.

3. (a) A sum of Rs. 849, being the value of corrugated-iron sheets required by an Executive Engineer and ordered from a firm in Calcutta, was adjusted by the Executive Engineer in his accounts for March 1915 by debit to the work and credit to 'deposits.' Materials were received from the firm only in April 1915 and payment was made in May 1915. The Executive Engineer admitted that the adjustment was made for the express purpose of working out the grant allotted to the work.

Irregular action with a view to avoid lapse of grants. Madras.

(b) A sum of Rs. 500 was written back from the work 'Constructing Public Works Department Offices' to 'Extension of Court buildings' in the accounts of March 1913 Final, as the allotment of the former work had been exceeded. The adjustment was reversed in the following year.

(c) In a certain Division, a Remittance Transfer Receipt was obtained from the treasury on the 27th March 1915, in favour of a firm in payment of a bill for Rs. 211-7-6, and was despatched to the firm on the 31st March 1915. The articles paid for were, however, not received in the Division till the 10th April 1915.

(d) A cheque for Rs. 789-12-0 was drawn on the 30th March 1915 in payment of two bills for Rs 392-0-0 and Rs. 397-12-0, dated 26th March 1915. The railway receipts show that the consignments were actually received on the 3rd and 7th April respectively. The Remittance Transfer Receipts were obtained on the 8th April 1915.

(e) A cheque for Rs. 170-0-0 was drawn on the 30th March 1915 in payment of a bill for durries supplied. The durries were actually received on the 15th April 1915.

(f) A sum of Rs. 4,954-0-0 was paid on the 30th March 1914 to contractors in advance of the receipt of materials, apparently with a view to utilizing the Budget grant.

(g) In a certain case, it came to notice that the actual quantity of metal collected in March 1914 had not been charged to the several estimates according to the quantity required for the respective roads, but had been charged off to the different roads to the extent of the funds available.

(h) In March 1914, Rs. 7,500 were drawn for dismantling and erecting and modernizing certain police buildings. In the succeeding year, the amount was credited to the estimates of these works and debited to another estimate.

(i) In a certain Division, with a view to avoiding a lapse of grant, a Remittance Transfer Receipt for Rs. 4,404-2-5 was obtained on the 29th March 1915, in favour of a firm, for the supply of rolled steel beams, but was not actually sent to the firm till the end of May 1915, as the materials were not ready for delivery in March 1915.

4. (a) In a certain district, a bill for Rs. 862-3-0, for wood supplied on a maintenance estimate, was reduced to Rs. 848-10-0, and the amount of wood originally shown as supplied was altered so as to keep the total charges on the work within the allotment for the year.

(b) A sum of Rs. 227 debited to the work 'maintenance of provincial roads' was written back to another work to avoid an excess over the allotment for the former work.

(c) A sum of Rs. 320-14-10, debited in June 1913 to the estimate 'Annual repair to Hamirpur Lake Distributaries', was written back in March 1914 to another estimate to avoid an excess over the grant of the former work.

(d) Expenditure on motor caution signals, incurred in September 1913 without a sanctioned estimate, was misclassified and charged to 'Maintenance IA.—Local Roads.' It was written back to the correct estimate in March 1914.

(e) A sum of Rs. 251-8-6, being the value of mild steel sections purchased in March 1914 expressly for a work, was debited to 'stock' to avoid an excess over the allotment and was written back in April 1914 to the work.

(f) A sum of Rs. 5,650-9-7, due from an auctioneer on account of the sale-proceeds of old materials, which were auctioned between the 26th April and the 1st May 1915, was adjusted in the supplementary accounts of March 1915 by credit to an annual repair estimate and debit to miscellaneous advances pending recovery. The Executive Engineer explained that the adjustment was made in the accounts for March 1915 supplementary, as the materials in question were set aside for sale in February 1915 and the estimate provided for a credit on this account.

(g) A sum of Rs. 244, spent in May 1914 on the work 'Putting crates in Kho River', was charged to 'Annual Repairs--Nagina Canal' and written back to the proper work in August 1914 after the estimate had been sanctioned.

(h) Sums of Rs. 1,625-7-11 and Rs. 2,543-0-0, incurred on the works 'Constructing Masonry Reservoir at the Alfred Park pumping station' and 'Running the oil plant' respectively, were debited to a maintenance estimate pending sanction to estimates and allotment of funds. Similarly, a sum of Rs. 778-14-5, expended on special repairs to Government House, was charged to the annual repair estimate pending sanction.

(i) In the case of a work 'Constructing a bridge, estimate Rs. 1,461', which was practically completed in March 1914, the final bill of the contractor having been paid in that month, it was found that the adjustment of the value of certain stock materials issued to the work, amounting to Rs. 140-15-0, had been postponed to the next year to avoid an excess over the allotment. It was also found that the contractor was paid finally when the work done by him was in an incomplete state.

(j) A sum of Rs. 36, correctly debited in the first instance to the maintenance estimate of a Public Works Department building, was written back to contingencies in December 1914 to avoid an excess over the maintenance estimate.

5. (a) Certain items amounting to Rs. 98-6-1, in a bill paid in March 1914, were scored out by a Sub-Divisional Officer to avoid an excess over the sanctioned allotment. The amount was paid in April 1914.

(b) Certain items, amounting to Rs. 15-0-6, were expunged from a bill paid in March 1914 for an annual repair estimate to avoid an excess over allotment, and it was ordered that the work should be paid for during the year 1914-15.

(b) A daroga and a mistry charged to works were employed in the office as a tracer and a clerk, respectively.

(c) A clerk on Rs. 25 a month, whose pay was charged to works, was employed to assist the store-keeper.

(d) The pay of a calculator employed in the office was charged to works.

In the above cases, the men concerned were subsequently brought on to the regular establishment with the sanction of the Local Government.

(e) A work agent on Rs. 25 a month, whose pay was charged to a work, was employed as a clerk in the District Surveyor's office.

(f) A Surveyor on Rs. 60 a month, employed on general duties, was treated as a member of the works establishment and his pay was debited to certain maintenance works on which he was not employed.

(g) In a District Office, the pay of a man admittedly employed on clerical duties was charged to works.

(h) The pay of a tracer was irregularly charged to works.

(i) The pay of an officiating chaprasi, in excess of the sanctioned scale, was charged to works.

(j) In a certain Division, it had been the practice for several years to employ clerks in the Sub-Divisional offices and to charge them to maintenance estimates as 'work mistries' There were several transfers of Sub-Divisional Officers, and in each transfer report a negative reply was given to the question 'Is any man employed in the Sub-Division whose pay is charged to works, but who is not solely employed on the work to which his pay is debited?'

7. (a) In a certain Division, lime costing Rs. 185 was supplied to a contractor, but no receipt was obtained from him nor was the value recovered in cash or from bills. The amount became irrecoverable and was written off under the orders of the Chief Engineer.

(b) Cement costing Rs. 706 was purchased for a work in June 1914 from a Calcutta firm, and the railway freight paid on the consignment amounted to Rs. 757. The cement cost much more than if a local purchase had been made.

(c) Materials to the value of Rs. 1,675-14-7 were issued to a contractor by a Sub-Divisional Officer from time to time for a certain work, but the contractor's final bill, including the value of materials supplied, amounted to Rs. 1,338-13-2 only. There was thus a loss of Rs. 337-1-5, which was written-off under the orders of the Local Government, as there was no prospect of recovering the money from the contractor.

(d) An Executive Engineer accepted in November 1913 from a ryot, in payment of certain dues, a cheque for Rs. 358 on a private Bank, which went into liquidation before the cheque could be cashed.

Assam.

(e) A residence for an officer of the Revenue Department was completed in July 1913 and the building was occupied in November 1913. The completion report of the work was received in the audit office only in April 1915. The claim for rent for the period from the 1st November 1913 to date was made by the Public Works Department in January 1915. The Local Administration ordered that arrears of rent for 6 months only prior to June 1915 should be recovered from the occupant. There was thus a loss of rent from November 1913 to December 1914.

REPORT OF THE PATENT OFFICE.

The following report on the working of the Patent Office during the calendar year 1915 is published for general information.

No. 2233-P., dated Calcutta, the 3rd April 1916.

From—H. G. GRAVES, Esq., Controller of Patents and Designs,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY.

I HAVE the honour to submit, for the information of the Government of India, the Annual Report of the Patent Office during the calendar year 1915.

2. The office at 1, Council House Street, Calcutta, has been in my charge during this year.

3. The effect of the war has been very marked during the year on the number but has not materially affected the nature of inventions. The number of applications for patents fell from 705 in 1913 to 588 last year and to 445 in 1915, a decrease of practically one-third. The income of the office, however, largely depends on continuance fees paid to keep in force patents of which the number granted has grown from year to year, so that the reduction in application and sealing fees is largely compensated and the total reduction is only R2,400 as compared with 1913 (R69,760 instead of R72,159 in 1913 and R73,159 in 1914).

4. Under the existing Act, 1775 patents have been sealed on the 2,416 applications made under section 3 and all of these were in force on December 31st 1915. Of the 148 patents converted under section 81, sixty-six have been allowed to cease and there are 1,147 existing exclusive privileges remaining under the Inventions and Designs Act, 1888. Five patents which had been allowed to lapse were restored under Section 16 of the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, or the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary) Rules 1915 and are included in the numbers given above. Three applications for the extension of the patent term were refused.

5. One hundred and forty-eight applications have become void through non-acceptance within the statutory period of 15 months or 7·8 per cent. of the 1878 applications received up to 15 months before the end of the year under consideration. The provisions of the Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary) Rules will, however, enable some of them again to be taken into consideration.

6. Oppositions to the grant of a patent were entered in three cases, all of which were decided in favour of the applicants. Last year five oppositions were entered and four cases were decided. two in favour of the applicant, two against and one was held in suspense as the applicant is an enemy subject. Altogether 19 oppositions have been dealt with under the 1911 Act.

7. Amendments of specifications before or after sealing of the patent were desired in 4 cases, of which 3 were allowed without alteration.

8. No appeal has been made to the Governor-General in Council from the decision of the Controller during the year. Altogether there have been 6 appeals, in which the decision was supported thrice, reversed once and varied twice. The latter were concerned with the date to be given to a series of divided applications and the addition of Rule 12(4) was made to provide for future cases. During the year recourse was had to it in one case.

9. Renewal fees have been paid in 853 cases during the year, while the cessation of 578 exclusive privileges was notified. One exclusive privilege, granted an extension of seven years, beyond the normal 14 years, has been maintained in force since 1893. The following table shows the number of applications made and the number of exclusive privileges or patents obtained in respect of them which are now in force or maintainable in respect of the years 1915-1901, but a number of patents have yet to be sealed in respect of 1914 and 1915:—

Number of applications	445	588	705	678	807
Number alive	137	438	590	606	526
Date of application.	1910.	1909.	1908.	1907.	1906.
Number of applications	667	695	551	615	620
Number alive	224	141	82	96	78
Date of application.	1905.	1904.	1903.	1902.	1901.
Number of applications	586	552	536	524	496
Number alive	54	42	21	18	12

It must, however, be remembered that under the repealed Inventions and Designs Act, 1888, the exclusive privilege did not accrue until the specification was filed, in some cases two years later than the date of application. Also a period of three months' grace is obtainable for the payment of continuance fees so that the figures given above include certain cases as alive at December 31 which will in reality only be notified as lapsed within the following three months. As regards 1914 and 1915, the figures show the number of patents sealed on the applications up to date. As eighteen months or more are allowed for sealing, these figures will be increased next year.

10. Applications have been made in 38 cases for entries of assignments, etc., on the Register of Patents, but there were none for entries on the Register of Designs.

11. Specifications as soon as they are printed are distributed to 26 centres scattered throughout India (see appended list). They may be consulted together with the other publications of this office free of charge, and copies are on sale at uniform price of eight annas each. Some 2,000 specifications of inventions are in this way available, and the number will increase year by year. Copies of the specifications received from the United Kingdom Patent Office are also open to public inspection at the Patent Office, 1, Council House Street Calcutta; the Record Office, Bombay, and the Connemara Library, Madras.

12. Designs are registered under Part II of the Act at a fee of three rupees in classes 1 to 6 and 16 and of eight annas in classes 7 to 15. The number of applications to register fell off as compared with the previous year, details being shown in the following table. Twenty-nine applications for extension of the term of copyright in design were also allowed. These will probably become more numerous next year. By far the larger proportion comes from the Calico Printers' Association, Limited, of Manchester and relate to printed designs for textiles but the number of indigenous designs presented for registration is growing.

TOTAL	56	1	11	8	8	2	1	4	2	...	2	1	2,810	14	396	7	105	3,12

The table is of interest as reflecting the scanty use of wall papers (class 7) in this country.

13. Enemy Matters.—Applications for patents by enemy subjects are permitted but as rule are held in suspense, and the sealing of patents on their applications is not affected for the present. Patents in existence are, however, renewable at the option of the holder, even if he be an enemy, as it is not considered desirable that the property therein should be destroyed. It can however be alienated or utilised for the benefit of the public on application.

Provision for these proceedings is made by—

(A) License to pay Patents and Designs fees under the Trading with the Enemy Proclamation, dated the 9th January 1915.

(B) The Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary Rules), Act, 1915 (Act VI of 1915). Received the assent of the Governor-General on the 22nd March 1915.

(C) Indian Patents and Designs (Temporary) Rules 1915. Made by publication in the Gazette of India, dated 1st May 1915.

In their main lines, the License, Act and Rules follow the practice in the United Kingdom. They enable the Controller to deal with patents held by enemy subjects and remove disabilities under which any person may suffer in respect of patents or designs owing to the present state of war.

Six applications to avoid or suspend seven Patents have been filed and an order has been made in all cases granting a license. Also as stated in paragraph 4 patents have been restored after a temporary cessation and in many instances a delay of a few days over the times prescribed by the main Act, when it was due to postal irregularities, has been condoned.

14. New Rules.—In addition to the new temporary rules mentioned in the last paragraph additions to the main rules have been made so as to give greater control over the payment of fees and to provide for antedating of applications on divisional applications when the original specification contained more than one invention. Slight modifications in the forms were also made. These amended rules were made by publication in the Gazette of India, dated 31st July 1915.

15. A Patent Office Hand-Book containing all these Acts, Rules and Instructions was in the press at the end of the year and has since been issued at the price of one rupee.

16. The work of the office has progressed satisfactorily and has been kept up to date during the year. The annual and quarterly numbers of the "Patent Office Journal" have been issued as usual.

17. A consolidated subject matter index of inventions from 1900 to 1911 with a chronological list from 1905 to 1911 has also been published at the price of three rupees. This volume is in continuation of a previous one covering the period 1900 to 1904 which is still on sale at two rupees. These publications replace in part the earlier annuals which are now out of print.

18. The usual tables are appended.

ORGANISATION.

No. 503.—The following despatch from General Sir John Nixon, K.C.B., A.-D.-C., General, on the operations of Indian Expeditionary Force "D" in Mesopotamia for the period from the beginning of October 1915 to the date he relinquished command of the Force is published for general information.

No. 168-11-O., dated the 17th January 1916.

To—The Chief of the General Staff, Army Headquarters, India.

I have the honour to forward a report on the operations in Mesopotamia during the months of October, November and December 1915.

2. In my last despatch I described events up to October 5th. On that date the Turkish Army under Nur-ed-Din, which had been defeated at Kut-al-Amarah, had reached a previously prepared position astride the Tigris at Ctesiphon, where it received reinforcements; and our advanced troops under Major-General Townshend reached Aziziyah (30 miles east of Ctesiphon).

3. During the next six weeks, reinforcements, supplies, and transport animals were brought up to Kut and Azisiyah preparatory to a further advance up the Tigris. These preliminary movements were inevitably slow on account of the difficulties of navigation during the low-water season which delayed the passage of shipping.

4. Throughout this period of preparation frequent skirmishes took place with the enemy, who had pushed out advanced detachments to Zeur and Kutunie, 7 and 14 miles, respectively, above Aziziyah.

5. The cavalry brigade and one infantry brigade advanced from Aziziyah on 11th November and occupied Kutunie without opposition.

On the 18th November General Townshend had concentrated the whole of his force and the shipping at Kutunie.

6. On the 19th November the advance was continued, moving by both banks of the river, and Zeur was occupied. The enemy's advanced troops withdrew towards Ctesiphon after offering slight opposition. On 20th November the force on the left bank reached Lajj (9 miles from Ctesiphon); the shipping and the right bank detachment arrived on the 21st, the latter crossing the river and joining the main body on the left bank.

7. The Turkish position at Ctesiphon lay astride the Tigris covering the approach to Baghdad, which is situated some 18 miles to the north-west. The defences had been under construction for some months. They consisted of an extensive system of entrenchments forming two main positions. On the right bank the front position extended from the river for about three miles in a south-west direction, the second line trenches lying some five miles further upstream. On the left bank a continuous line of entrenchments and redoubts stretched from the river for six miles to the north-east, the left flank terminating in a large redoubt. On this bank the second line was about two miles behind the front position and parallel to it for three miles from the Tigris, thence it turned northwards to the Dialah river. Close to the Tigris, on the left bank and midway between the two defensive lines, was situated the Arch of Ctesiphon—a prominent landmark.

A mile in rear of the second line of trenches a bridge of boats connected the two wings of the Turkish army. Further in rear, the Dialah river near its junction with the Tigris was bridged at two points and entrenchments commanded the crossings.

During General Townshend's concentration at Aziziyah accurate information had been obtained by aerial observation regarding the position of the Turkish defences.

8. The officers employed on these reconnaissances displayed the same intrepidity and devotion to duty that has been commented on in previous despatches. Unfortunately during the actual period of the battle at Ctesiphon a series of accidents deprived the Royal Flying Corps of several officers and machines. Among those forced to descend within the enemy's lines was Major H. L. Reilly, a Flight Commander of exceptional ability who has much distinguished service to his credit.

9. It was reported that the enemy had over 13,000 regular troops and 38 guns in the Ctesiphon position. There were reports of the early arrival of further reinforcements. Though information on this point was indefinite and lacked confirmation, it was advisable that there should be no delay in attacking and defeating Nur-ed-Din before the arrival of possible reinforcements.

10. General Townshend, after a night march from Lajj on 21st-22nd November, attacked the hostile position on the left bank at the centre and on the north-east flank. A severe fight lasted throughout the day, resulting in the capture of the front position and more than 1,300 prisoners.

Our troops pressed on and penetrated to the second line, capturing eight guns and establishing themselves in the enemy's trenches. Here they were subjected to heavy counter-attacks by fresh troops. The captured guns changed hands several times. Finally, they had to be abandoned, as shortly before nightfall it was found necessary, owing to diminished numbers, to order the withdrawal of our troops from the forward positions, to which they had penetrated, back to the first position.

11. On the 23rd November our troops were reorganised in the position they had captured, and the work of collecting the numerous casualties was continued.

Owing to heavy losses in killed and wounded it was inadvisable to renew the offensive.

There is no doubt that the Turkish troops who had fought on the previous day were in no condition to resume the fight. The battle-field was littered with their killed and wounded and many of the trenches were choked with dead. The 45th Turkish Division, which had held the front trenches, was practically destroyed. But reinforcements came up and heavy attacks were made all along General Townshend's line throughout the night 23rd-24th November. These were repulsed and the enemy must have lost heavily.

12. On the 24th November, wounded and prisoners were evacuated from Ctesiphon to Lajj, where the shipping flotilla was banked in ; and General Townshend consolidated the position he had taken up on the battle-field. His left flank, which had been near the Ctesiphon Arch, in advance of the main position, moved back into the general alignment. Owing to the interruption of a water channel which had supplied the trenches on the north-east flank, our troops there suffered from want of water ; so the right flank was brought nearer the river. This movement was successfully effected under the cover of an offensive movement pushed out from the centre of the position. The enemy displayed little activity throughout this day, except for shell fire. Most of this came from guns on the right bank which prevented the steamers advancing upstream from Lajj.

13. On the 25th November the remainder of the wounded were sent back to Lajj. Up to this time it appeared from hostile movements to their rear—reported by air reconnaissance—that the Turks contemplated a retirement from their remaining positions. But they received some fresh reinforcements on the 25th. During the afternoon large columns were seen advancing down the left bank and also inland, as if to turn our right flank, while hostile cavalry threatened our rear.

14. General Townshend was nine miles from his shipping and source of supplies at Lajj, faced by superior forces of fresh troops. He decided to avoid an engagement, and, under cover of night, withdrew to Lajj.

Here he remained during the 26th.

15. A position so far from bases of supply, with a vulnerable line of communication along the winding shallow river, was unfavourable for defence. It was necessary to withdraw further downstream to a more secure locality until conditions might enable a resumption of the offensive.

16. General Townshend withdrew unmolested during the night of 27th-28th to Aziziyah.

On the 29th the cavalry brigade, under Brigadier-General Roberts, east of Kutunie engaged and drove back the enemy's advanced mounted troops, who were attacking a stranded gunboat. The 14th Hussars and the 7th (Hariana) Lancers made a successful charge. Some 140 casualties were inflicted on the enemy.

17. On the morning of the 30th, continuing the retirement, the main force halted at Umm-at-Tubal, a mixed brigade under Major-General Sir C. Melliss pushing on towards Kut to deal with hostile mounted troops which had interrupted the passage of steamers at Chubibat, about 25 miles below Kut.

18. The troops had to remain at Umm-at-Tubal, as the ships were in difficulties in shoal water in this vicinity, and the enemy's whole force came up during the night. They attacked in great strength at daylight on the 1st December.

A fierce fight ensued, the Turks losing heavily from our artillery fire at a range of 2,500 yards. General Townshend took advantage of a successful counter-attack, made by the cavalry brigade against a column which attempted to envelop his right flank, to break off the fight and retire by echelons of brigades. This was carried out in perfect order under a heavy shell fire, and by midday the enemy had been shaken off. General Townshend reports that it was entirely due to the splendid steadiness of the troops and to the excellence of his Brigadiers that he was able to repulse the enemy's determined attacks and extricate his force from the difficult situation in which it was placed.

30th Infantry Brigade,

1-5th Hants (Howitzer) Battery, R. F. A. and the 16th Cavalry, which had been despatched to Chubibat on the morning of 30th November, was recalled on the night of 30th November-1st December. This brigade marched 80 miles in three days including the battle of December 1st. At the end of it their valour and discipline was in no way diminished and their losses did not include a single prisoner.

19. After a march of 30 miles, Shadi was reached on the night of 1st-2nd December and on the morning of 3rd December General Townshend was installed at Kut-al-Amarah, where, it was decided, his retirement should end.

From November 22nd to November 25th the gunboats from positions below Bustan (two miles east of Ctesiphon) were engaged against hostile artillery, particularly against concealed guns on the right bank which prevented ships from moving above Bustan.

21. During the retreat from Ctesiphon to Kut the gunboats under Captain Nunn, D.S.O., Senior Naval Officer, rendered valuable services in protecting the steamers and barges and in assisting when they grounded. The Naval gunboats were employed at this work day and night, frequently under fire from snipers on both banks.

Owing to numerous loops and twists in the course of the river, it was impossible for the flotilla to remain in touch with the troops during the retirement.

22. On the evening of the 28th November, " Shaitan" went aground about eight miles above Aziziyah and could not be refloated. Throughout November 29th, " Firefly " and " Shushan " salved " Shaitan's " guns and stores under heavy sniping from both banks, until the situation was relieved in the afternoon by the action of the cavalry brigade which has already been referred to.

The hull of " Shaitan " eventually had to be abandoned as the Turks opened fire with guns on the ships which had remained behind.

23. On the occasion of the Turkish attack on the morning of December 1st at Umm-at-Tubal, " Firefly " and " Comet " made good practice with lyddite at a large body of Turks at a range of 3,000 yards. The ships came under a heavy and accurate shell fire, and, at 7 A.M., a shell penetrated the boiler of " Firefly " disabling her. H. M. S. " Comet " (Captain Nunn) took " Firefly " in tow and, in endeavouring to turn in the narrow river, both ships took the ground. " Firefly " was got clear and sent drifting downstream ; but " Comet " would not move from the bank, against which she had been wedged by " Firefly".

24. "Sumana " came up and made several unsuccessful attempts to drag " Comet " off the bank. The enemy's fire increased in intensity ; they brought up several field guns to short range ; the ships were surrounded by Turkish troops and fired on at a range of 50 yards. " Comet " and " Firefly " were badly damaged and on fire. They were abandoned after the guns had been rendered useless and the crews were taken on board " Sumana", which succeeded in effecting her escape.

Subsequently "Sumana " did most valuable work in salving shipping which had got into difficulties further downstream.

25. Throughout these operations Captain Nunn, Lieutenant Eddis, who was wounded, and all officers and men of the Naval flotilla behaved with great coolness and bravery under most trying circumstances.

26. The valour of the troops who fought under General Townshend at the battle of Ctesiphon is beyond praise. The 6th Division exhibited the same dauntless courage and self-sacrifice in the attack that has distinguished it throughout the campaign in Mesopotamia.

The dash with which the Indian troops (enlisted from all parts of India) have attacked a stubborn foe in well entrenched positions, I attribute largely to the confidence with which they have been inspired by the British battalions of the force.

When forced by greatly superior numbers to act on the defensive, and during the retreat to Kut under the most trying conditions, the troops responded to the calls made on them with admirable discipline and steadiness.

They proved themselves to be soldiers of the finest quality.

27. These fine troops were most ably commanded by Major-General C. V. F. Townshend, C.B., D.S.O. I have a very high opinion indeed of this officer's capabilities as a commander of troops in the field. He was tried very highly, not only at the battle of Ctesiphon, but more especially during the retirement that ensued. Untiring, resourceful and even more cheerful as the outlook grew darker, he possesses, in my opinion, very special qualifications as a commander.

He is imperturbable under the heaviest fire and his judgment is undisturbed.

28. With great regret, I have been forced, by reasons of ill-health, to resign the command of the British Forces in Mesopotamia—an appointment I have had the honour of holding during the past nine months.

In order to complete the record of events during my period in command, I will now give a brief narrative of the operations on the Tigris from the time that General Townshend's force reached Kut-al-Amarah on December 3rd until the date of my departure from Mesopotamia.

29. When General Townshend reached Kut on December 3rd, measures were taken to withstand a seige until the arrival of relief from reinforcements which were coming from over-seas.

Defences were improved. Shipping was despatched to Basrah, evacuating the sick and wounded, and also the Turkish prisoners (1,350 were captured at Ctesiphon and all were safely brought away in the retreat).

The armed tug "Sumana" was the only vessel left at Kut.

The cavalry brigade and a convoy of transport animals were marched down to Ali-al-Gharbi, before the enemy could effect an investment.

The cavalry left on December 6th. On that day the enemy closed on the northern front and by December 7th the investment of Kut was complete.

30. The cavalry at Ali-al-Gharbi was reinforced with infantry and guns from Basrah. Behind this advanced detachment, a force under the command of Major-General F. J. Aylmer, V.C., was collected on the line Amarah—Ali-al-Gharbi, for the relief of Kut as soon as its concentration was completed.

31. The entrenched camp at Kut is contained in a "U" shaped loop of the Tigris; the town stands at the most southerly end of the peninsula so formed. The northern defences are some 3,200 yards from the town; the peninsula is about a mile in width.

A detached post was established at a small village on the right bank of the river opposite Kut. East of the town was a bridge of boats, covered by a bridge-head detachment on the right bank.

32. On December 8th, the enemy carried out a heavy bombardment from three sides, and Nur-ed-Din Pasha called upon General Townshend to surrender.

33. On December 9th, our detachment on the right bank, covering the bridge, was forced to retire before a heavy attack. The enemy occupied the right bank at the bridge-head.

During the night December 9th-10th, the bridge was successfully demolished by a party gallantly led by Lieutenant A. B. Matthews, R.E., and Lieutenant R. T. Sweet, 2-7th Gurkha Rifles.

34. During the following days Kut was subjected to a continuous bombardment and several attacks were beaten off. The enemy's losses were heavy, especially in the abortive attacks on December 12th, when, it is estimated, their casualties amounted to 1,000.

35. Operations were then conducted on the lines of regular siege warfare. A redoubt at the north-east corner of the defences became the special objective of Turkish shell fire and sapping operations.

36. On the night of December 14th-15th a successful sortie was made against trenches facing the detached post on the right bank, and, on the night December 17th-18th, two sorties, from the redoubt previously referred to, cleared the enemy's nearest trenches. About thirty Turks were bayonetted and ten were captured.

37. Heavy fire was concentrated on the redoubt during the night December 23rd-24th and throughout the 24th. The parapet was breached and the Turks effected an entrance, but they were driven out by a counter-attack, leaving 200 dead behind. Attacks were renewed later, and throughout the night of December 24th-25th, a fierce struggle took place around the redoubt. The enemy again effected a lodgment, but by morning they had been ejected and the assault was finally defeated.

38. No decisive attacks have been attempted by the Turks since their failure at Christmas, which, it is reported, cost them about 2,000 casualties.

39. On December 28th, a movement of troops, which was continued for several days, took place from the Turkish main camp (six miles above Kut), to Shaikh Saad, which had been occupied by enemy mounted troops for some time.

40. On January 4th, General Aylmer's leading troops, under Major-General Younghusband, advanced from Ali-al-Gharbi towards Shaikh Saad, moving by both banks.

General Younghusband's column got in touch with the enemy on the morning of January 6th. The Turks were entrenched astride the Tigris, three and a half miles east of Shaikh Saad. An attempt to turn the Turkish right flank did not succeed owing to the presence of hostile cavalry and Arabs in superior force on this flank.

41. General Aylmer arrived on the morning of January 7th with the remainder of his force and ordered a general attack; Major-General Younghusband commanding on the left bank, and Major-General Kemball on the right bank.

Very heavy fighting lasted throughout the day. By evening the enemy's trenches on the right bank had been captured and some 600 prisoners and two guns taken.

On the left bank our troops were entrenched opposite the enemy who still held their positions on that bank. Attempts to turn their left flank had been checked by counter enveloping movements from the north.

42. The troops were very fatigued next day and little progress was made.

On January 9th, the Turks were forced to abandon their remaining positions and retired upstream, followed by General Aylmer's force. But heavy rain now fell, making the alluvial soil of the roads almost impassable, and prevented active operations for the next two days. It is estimated that the enemy's losses during the three days' fighting at Shaikh Saad amounted to 4,500.

43. The enemy fell back about ten miles, to the Wadi,—a tributary which joins the Tigris on the left bank. They took up a new position behind the Wadi and on the right bank of the Tigris, opposite the mouth of the Wadi.

44. General Aylmer concentrated his whole force on the left bank and attacked the Wadi position on the 13th. After hard fighting the Turks were driven out on the 14th and retired five miles further west and entrenched across a defile bounded on the north by a marsh and on the south by the Tigris. They were followed to this position by General Aylmer's force.

45. Throughout these operations the weather was very bad. The heavy rain and high wind caused great discomfort to the troops and made movement by land and by river most difficult. Up to January 17th there was no improvement in the weather and active operations were at a standstill.

46. As, owing to ill-health, I am about to relinquish command of Indian Expeditionary Force " D ", I desire to place on record my warm appreciation of the able and devoted assistance afforded me by the staff at General Headquarters and officers of the various Administrative Services and Departments.

I wish specially to bring forward the names of the following officers who have rendered very valuable services :—

Major-General G. V. Kemball has proved himself to be a very gallant officer and has the true offensive spirit. As a commander of troops in the field I consider him to be a leader of great ability and power.

I am indebted to Major-General M. Cowper for the assistance which his knowledge of administrative staff work and organisation has afforded me.

Major (Temporary Lieutenant-Colonel) W. H. Beach is at all times a hard-working, capable and thoroughly reliable Staff officer whose services have been invaluable to me. As head of the Intelligence Branch he has shown exceptional powers of insight and organisation.

Major (Temporary Lieutenant-Colonel) H. R. Hopwood has performed his important duties in a highly satisfactory manner. He is thoroughly capable and full of tact and resource, in fact possesses all the qualities that go to make a good Staff officer.

Major R. A. Cassels has in the field proved himself to be a bold and resourceful Staff officer, and the manner in which he has acquitted himself of duties falling to hand outside the ordinary scope of his work is highly satisfactory and of value to the State.

Major W C. Croly, R.A.M.C., has been in medical charge of the Staff at General Headquarters and has shown himself always the right man in the right place, and to have taken the keenest interest in his work and care of those whom he had in charge.

To my Personal staff I am under great obligations for their willing and able assistance in quarters, on the march, and in the fight, and I draw attention to the recommendations for rewards which I have already made :—

Captain L. G. Williams.

Captain E. J. Nixon.

Lieutenant G. B. Walker.

The Medical Services have had to face very trying and unusual conditions. On more than one occasion the number and severity of the casualties have thrown the greatest strain on them, but the organisation and efficiency of the arrangements have ensured as speedy an evacuation of the wounded as the means placed at their disposal permitted. In this connection I wish to bring forward the name of Surgeon-General H. G. Hathaway.

The work of the Royal Engineers has been excellently carried out under the able direction of Brigadier-General J. C. Rimington, and I take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the valuable assistance rendered by this branch of the service as a whole.

The British General Hospital has throughout been in the charge of Lieutenant-Colonel D. J. Collins, R.A.M.C., whose zeal, energy and organising power have rendered it a model hospital of its kind. Credit is also due to Lieutenant-Colonel G. B. Irvine, I.M.S., for his devoted and careful supervision of the Indian General Hospital.

I have before expressed my indebtedness to Major-General K. S. Davison and his staff and I must now do so again for their able and efficient management of the lines of communication under the most difficult and trying circumstances. In Captain J. C. Macrae he has a good and able Staff Officer.

It must be remembered that, as a port, Basrah has no facilities for the discharge of stores or the disembarkation of troops and animals. The officers of the Royal Indian Marine consequently have had no easy task in improvising wharves and berths, and dealing with the large number of transports which have recently arrived and have had to be unloaded with the utmost expedition. They have, nevertheless, overcome these many difficulties and the greatest credit is due to them for what they have accomplished.

The officers and crews of the Tigris steamers belonging to Messrs. Lynch Brothers and of the other river craft have always displayed gallantry of a high order in bringing their ships on, often under heavy fire, and it is not too much to say that without this assistance, and the indefatigable manner in which they have worked, the movements of troops and supplies would not have been possible.

I cannot praise too highly the work done by the Telegraph and Postal Departments, the state of completeness of which has done much to promote the general efficiency of the force.

All demands made on the Telegraph Department have been rapidly and effectively met at the cost of much hard labour under trying conditions and at great personal risk, which reflects the greatest credit on Mr. L. Bagshawe and the important department over which he presides.

The exigencies of field service have thrown a great strain on the Postal Department but owing to the hard work done and the excellent organisation built up by Mr. E. Clerici and his staff the results have been most satisfactory.

Finally, I am very grateful to Lieutenant-Colonel Sir P. Z. Cox for his able co-operation and willing assistance. The force has largely profited by his deep knowledge of local conditions and peoples, and by the tact and bold resource which he has displayed in all he has undertaken.

The names of the following officers, all of whom have performed good service, are brought to the notice of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief:—

Booth, Brevet Major F.
Branson, Captain L. H.
Dick, Major R. N.
Duffy, Deputy Commissary and Captain T. A.

In every case in which an entry is corrected under this rule, intimation thereof shall (if practicable), be communicated, within one week from the date of the correction being made, to the person who gave the notice of the birth or death.

18. When an error in substance in any entry of a birth or death in a register of births or register of deaths is asserted to have been made, the Registrar may correct the error, in manner prescribed in section 28 of the Act, on application made in writing, and signed in the presence of two witnesses attesting the signature, by any person authorized under section 20 or 21, as the case may be, to give notice of the birth or death to which the entry relates :

Provided that the Registrar is satisfied that the application is well founded and that he places on record a memorandum of the evidence on which his opinion is based.

An appeal against an order of a Registrar under this rule refusing to correct an asserted error in an entry in a register shall lie to the Registrar General, who may, in his discretion, either confirm the order of the Registrar, or direct him to correct the error.

Provided that soldiers and non-commissioned officers of His Majesty's regular forces, all seamen, and such persons in indigent circumstances as satisfy the Registrar-General of their inability to meet the fees, shall be exempted from the payment of any fees, when the same are payable to a Registrar-General or a Government servant who is not a Minister of Religion.

21. Every Registrar-General and every Registrar who is a Government servant and not a Minister of Religion shall keep a register in the form set forth in Schedule M of all fees realised under these rules, and shall forward such fees at the end of each month to the nearest treasury to be credited to Government. ORGANISATION.

No. 503.—The following despatch from General Sir John Nixon, K.C.B., A.-D.-C., General, on the operations of Indian Expeditionary Force "D" in Mesopotamia for the period from the beginning of October 1915 to the date he relinquished command of the Force is published for general information.

No. 168 11-O., dated the 17th January 1916.

To—The Chief of the General Staff, Army Headquarters, India.

I have the honour to forward a report on the operations in Mesopotamia during the months of October, November and December 1915.

2. In my last despatch I described events up to October 5th. On that date the Turkish Army under Nur-ed-Din, which had been defeated at Kut-al-Amarah, had reached a previously prepared position astride the Tigris at Ctesiphon, where it received reinforcements ; and our advanced troops under Major-General Townshend reached Aziziyah (30 miles east of Ctesiphon).

3. During the next six weeks, reinforcements, supplies, and transport animals were brought up to Kut and Aziziyah preparatory to a further advance up the Tigris. These preliminary movements were inevitably slow on account of the difficulties of navigation during the low-water season which delayed the passage of shipping.

4. Throughout this period of preparation frequent skirmishes took place with the enemy, who had pushed out advanced detachments to Zeur and Kutunie, 7 and 14 miles, respectively, above Aziziyah.

5. The cavalry brigade and one infantry brigade advanced from Aziziyah on 11th November and occupied Kutunie without opposition.

On the 18th November General Townshend had concentrated the whole of his force and the shipping at Kutunie.

6. On the 19th November the advance was continued, moving by both banks of the river, and Zeur was occupied. The enemy's advanced troops withdrew towards Ctesiphon after offering slight opposition. On 20th November the force on the left bank reached Lajj (9 miles from Ctesiphon); the shipping and the right bank detachment arrived on the 21st, the latter crossing the river and joining the main body on the left bank.

7. The Turkish position at Ctesiphon lay astride the Tigris covering the approach to Baghdad, which is situated some 18 miles to the north-west. The defences had been under construction for some months. They consisted of an extensive system of entrenchments forming two main positions. On the right bank the front position extended from the river for about three miles in a south-west direction, the second line trenches lying some five miles further upstream. On the left bank a continuous line of entrenchments and redoubts stretched from the river for six miles to the north-east, the left flank terminating in a large redoubt. On this bank the second line was about two miles behind the front position and parallel to it for three miles from the Tigris, thence it turned northwards to the Dialah river. Close to the Tigris, on the left bank and midway between the two defensive lines, was situated the Arch of Ctesiphon—a prominent landmark.

A mile in rear of the second line of trenches a bridge of boats connected the two wings of the Turkish army. Further in rear, the Dialah river near its junction with the Tigris was bridged at two points and entrenchments commanded the crossings.

During General Townshend's concentration at Aziziyah accurate information had been obtained by aerial observation regarding the position of the Turkish defences.

8 The officers employed on these reconnaissances displayed the same intrepidity and devotion to duty that has been commented on in previous despatches. Unfortunately during the actual period of the battle at Ctesiphon a series of accidents deprived the Royal Flying Corps of several officers and machines. Among those forced to descend within the enemy's lines was Major H. L Reilly, a Flight Commander of exceptional ability who has much distinguished service to his credit.

9. It was reported that the enemy had over 13,000 regular troops and 38 guns in the Ctesiphon position. There were reports of the early arrival of further reinforcements. Though information on this point was indefinite and lacked confirmation, it was advisable that there should be no delay in attacking and defeating Nur-ed-Din before the arrival of possible reinforcements.

10. General Townshend, after a night march from Lajj on 21st-22nd November, attacked the hostile position on the left bank at the centre and on the north-east flank. A severe fight lasted throughout the day, resulting in the capture of the front position and more than 1,300 prisoners

Our troops pressed on and penetrated to the second line, capturing eight guns and establishing themselves in the enemy's trenches. Here they were subjected to heavy counter-attacks by fresh troops. The captured guns changed hands several times. Finally, they had to be abandoned, as shortly before nightfall it was found necessary, owing to diminished numbers, to order the withdrawal of our troops from the forward positions, to which they had penetrated, back to the first position.

11. On the 23rd November our troops were reorganised in the position they had captured, and the work of collecting the numerous casualties was continued.

Owing to heavy losses in killed and wounded it was inadvisable to renew the offensive.

There is no doubt that the Turkish troops who had fought on the previous day were in no condition to resume the fight. The battle-field was littered with their killed and wounded and many of the trenches were choked with dead. The 45th Turkish Division, which had held the front trenches, was practically destroyed. But reinforcements came up and heavy attacks were made all along General Townshend's line throughout the night 23rd-24th November. These were repulsed and the enemy must have lost heavily.

12. On the 24th November, wounded and prisoners were evacuated from Ctesiphon to Lajj, where the shipping flotilla was banked in; and General Townshend consolidated the position he had taken up on the battle-field. His left flank, which had been near the Ctesiphon Arch, in advance of the main position, moved back into the general alignment. Owing to the interruption of a water channel which had supplied the trenches on the north-east flank, our troops there suffered from want of water; so the right flank was brought nearer the river. This movement was successfully effected under the cover of an offensive movement pushed out from the centre of the position. The enemy displayed little activity throughout this day, except for shell fire. Most of this came from guns on the right bank which prevented the steamers advancing upstream from Lajj.

13. On the 25th November the remainder of the wounded were sent back to Lajj. Up to this time it appeared from hostile movements to their rear—reported by air reconnaissance—that the Turks contemplated a retirement from their remaining positions But they received some fresh reinforcements on the 25th. During the afternoon large columns were seen advancing down the left bank and also inland, as if to turn our right flank, while hostile cavalry threatened our rear.

14. General Townshend was nine miles from his shipping and source of supplies at Lajj, faced by superior forces of fresh troops. He decided to avoid an engagement, and, under cover of night, withdrew to Lajj.

Here he remained during the 26th.

15. A position so far from bases of supply, with a vulnerable line of communication along the winding shallow river, was unfavourable for defence. It was necessary to withdraw further downstream to a more secure locality until conditions might enable a resumption of the offensive.

16. General Townshend withdrew unmolested during the night of 27th-28th to Aziziyah.

On the 29th the cavalry brigade, under Brigadier-General Roberts, east of Kutunie engaged and drove back the enemy's advanced mounted troops, who were attacking a stranded gunboat. The 14th Hussars and the 7th (Hariana) Lancers made a successful charge. Some 140 casualties were inflicted on the enemy.

17. On the morning of the 30th, continuing the retirement, the main force halted at Umm-at-Tubal, a mixed brigade under Major-General Sir C. Melliss pushing on towards Kut to deal with hostile mounted troops which had interrupted the passage of steamers at Chubibat, about 25 miles below Kut.

18. The troops had to remain at Umm-at-Tubal, as the ships were in difficulties in shoal water in this vicinity, and the enemy's whole force came up during the night. They attacked in great strength at daylight on the 1st December.

A fierce fight ensued, the Turks losing heavily from our artillery fire at a range of 2,500 yards. General Townshend took advantage of a successful counter-attack, made by the cavalry brigade against a column which attempted to envelop his right flank, to break off the fight and retire by echelons of brigades. This was carried out in perfect order under a heavy shell fire, and by midday the enemy had been shaken off. General Townshend reports that it was entirely due to the splendid steadiness of the troops and to the excellence of his Brigadiers that he was able to repulse the enemy's determined attacks and extricate his force from the difficult situation in which it was placed.

30th Infantry Brigade,
1-5th Hants (Howitzer) Battery, R. F. A. and the 16th Cavalry,
which had been despatched to Chubibat on the morning of 30th November, was recalled on the night of 30th November-1st December. This brigade marched 80 miles in three days including the battle of December 1st. At the end of it their valour and discipline was in no way diminished and their losses did not include a single prisoner.

19. After a march of 30 miles, Shadi was reached on the night of 1st-2nd December and on the morning of 3rd December General Townshend was installed at Kut-al-Amarah, where, it was decided, his retirement should end.

20. The Naval flotilla on the Tigris operated on the left flank of the troops throughout the operations that have been described.

From November 22nd to November 25th the gunboats from positions below Bustan (two miles east of Ctesiphon) were engaged against hostile artillery, particularly against concealed guns on the right bank which prevented ships from moving above Bustan.

21. During the retreat from Ctesiphon to Kut the gunboats under Captain Nunn, D.S.O., Senior Naval Officer, rendered valuable services in protecting the steamers and barges and in assisting when they grounded. The Naval gunboats were employed at this work day and night, frequently under fire from snipers on both banks.

Owing to numerous loops and twists in the course of the river, it was impossible for the flotilla to remain in touch with the troops during the retirement.

22. On the evening of the 28th November, "Shaitan" went aground about eight miles above Aziziyah and could not be refloated. Throughout November 29th, "Firefly" and "Shushan" salved "Shaitan's" guns and stores under heavy sniping from both banks, until the situation was relieved in the afternoon by the action of the cavalry brigade which has already been referred to.

The hull of "Shaitan" eventually had to be abandoned as the Turks opened fire with guns on the ships which had remained behind.

23. On the occasion of the Turkish attack on the morning of December 1st at Umm-at-Tubal, "Firefly" and "Comet" made good practice with lyddite at a large body of Turks at a range of 3,000 yards. The ships came under a heavy and accurate shell fire, and, at 7 A.M., a shell penetrated the boiler of "Firefly" disabling her. H. M. S. "Comet" (Captain Nunn) took "Firefly" in tow and, in endeavouring to turn in the narrow river, both ships took the ground. "Firefly" was got clear and sent drifting downstream; but "Comet" would not move from the bank, against which she had been wedged by "Firefly".

24. "Sumana" came up and made several unsuccessful attempts to drag "Comet" off the bank. The enemy's fire increased in intensity; they brought up several field guns to short range; the ships were surrounded by Turkish troops and fired on at a range of 50 yards. "Comet" and "Firefly" were badly damaged and on fire. They were abandoned after the guns had been rendered useless and the crews were taken on board "Sumana", which succeeded in effecting her escape.

Subsequently "Sumana" did most valuable work in salving shipping which had got into difficulties further downstream.

25. Throughout these operations Captain Nunn, Lieutenant Eddis, who was wounded, and all officers and men of the Naval flotilla behaved with great coolness and bravery under most trying circumstances.

26. The valour of the troops who fought under General Townshend at the battle of Ctesiphon is beyond praise. The 6th Division exhibited the same dauntless courage and self-sacrifice in the attack that has distinguished it throughout the campaign in Mesopotamia.

The dash with which the Indian troops (enlisted from all parts of India) have attacked a stubborn foe in well entrenched positions, I attribute largely to the confidence with which they have been inspired by the British battalions of the force.

When forced by greatly superior numbers to act on the defensive, and during the retreat to Kut under the most trying conditions, the troops responded to the calls made on them with admirable discipline and steadiness.

They proved themselves to be soldiers of the finest quality.

27. These fine troops were most ably commanded by Major-General C. V. F. Townshend, C.B., D.S.O. I have a very high opinion indeed of this officer's capabilities as a commander of troops in the field. He was tried very highly, not only at the battle of Ctesiphon, but more especially during the retirement that ensued. Untiring, resourceful and even more cheerful as the outlook grew darker, he possesses, in my opinion, very special qualifications as a commander.

He is imperturbable under the heaviest fire and his judgment is undisturbed.

28. With great regret, I have been forced, by reasons of ill-health, to resign the command of the British Forces in Mesopotamia—an appointment I have had the honour of holding during the past nine months.

In order to complete the record of events during my period in command, I will now give a brief narrative of the operations on the Tigris from the time that General Townshend's force reached Kut-al-Amarah on December 3rd until the date of my departure from Mesopotamia.

29. When General Townshend reached Kut on December 3rd, measures were taken to withstand a siege until the arrival of relief from reinforcements which were coming from over-seas.

Defences were improved. Shipping was despatched to Basrah, evacuating the sick and wounded, and also the Turkish prisoners (1,350 were captured at Ctesiphon and all were safely brought away in the retreat).

The armed tug "Sumana" was the only vessel left at Kut.

The cavalry brigade and a convoy of transport animals were marched down to Ali-al-Gharbi, before the enemy could effect an investment.

The cavalry left on December 6th. On that day the enemy closed on the northern front and by December 7th the investment of Kut was complete.

30. The cavalry at Ali-al-Gharbi was reinforced with infantry and guns from Basrah. Behind this advanced detachment, a force under the command of Major-General F. J. Aylmer, V.C., was collected on the line Amarah—Ali-al-Gharbi, for the relief of Kut as soon as its concentration was completed

31. The entrenched camp at Kut is contained in a "U" shaped loop of the Tigris; the town stands at the most southerly end of the peninsula so formed. The northern defences are some 3,200 yards from the town; the peninsula is about a mile in width.

A detached post was established at a small village on the right bank of the river opposite Kut. East of the town was a bridge of boats, covered by a bridge-head detachment on the right bank.

32. On December 8th, the enemy carried out a heavy bombardment from three sides, and Nur-ed-Din Pasha called upon General Townshend to surrender.

33. On December 9th, our detachment on the right bank, covering the bridge, was forced to retire before a heavy attack. The enemy occupied the right bank at the bridge head.

During the night December 9th-10th, the bridge was successfully demolished by a party gallantly led by Lieutenant A. B. Matthews, R.E., and Lieutenant R. T. Sweet, 2-7th Gurkha Rifles.

34. During the following days Kut was subjected to a continuous bombardment and several attacks were beaten off. The enemy's losses were heavy, especially in the abortive attacks on December 12th, when, it is estimated, their casualties amounted to 1,000.

35. Operations were then conducted on the lines of regular siege warfare. A redoubt at the north-east corner of the defences became the special objective of Turkish shell fire and sapping operations.

36. On the night of December 14th-15th a successful sortie was made against trenches facing the detached post on the right bank, and, on the night December 17th-18th, two sorties, from the redoubt previously referred to, cleared the enemy's nearest trenches. About thirty Turks were bayonetted and ten were captured.

37. Heavy fire was concentrated on the redoubt during the night December 23rd-24th and throughout the 24th. The parapet was breached and the Turks effected an entrance, but they were driven out by a counter-attack, leaving 200 dead behind. Attacks were renewed later, and throughout the night of December 24th-25th, a fierce struggle took place around the redoubt. The enemy again effected a lodgment, but by morning they had been ejected and the assault was finally defeated.

38. No decisive attacks have been attempted by the Turks since their failure at Christmas, which, it is reported, cost them about 2,000 casualties.

39. On December 28th, a movement of troops, which was continued for several days, took place from the Turkish main camp (six miles above Kut), to Shaikh Saad, which had been occupied by enemy mounted troops for some time.

40. On January 4th, General Aylmer's leading troops, under Major-General Younghusband, advanced from Ali-al-Gharbi towards Shaikh Saad, moving by both banks.

General Younghusband's column got in touch with the enemy on the morning of January 6th. The Turks were entrenched astride the Tigris, three and a half miles east of Shaikh Saad. An attempt to turn the Turkish right flank did not succeed owing to the presence of hostile cavalry and Arabs in superior force on this flank.

41. General Aylmer arrived on the morning of January 7th with the remainder of his force and ordered a general attack; Major-General Younghusband commanding on the left bank, and Major General Kemball on the right bank.

Very heavy fighting lasted throughout the day. By evening the enemy's trenches on the right bank had been captured and some 600 prisoners and two guns taken.

On the left bank our troops were entrenched opposite the enemy who still held their positions on that bank. Attempts to turn their left flank had been checked by counter enveloping movements from the north.

42. The troops were very fatigued next day and little progress was made.

On January 9th, the Turks were forced to abandon their remaining positions and retired upstream, followed by General Aylmer's force. But heavy rain now fell, making the alluvial soil of the roads almost impassable, and prevented active operations for the next two days. It is estimated that the enemy's losses during the three days' fighting at Shaikh Saad amounted to 4,500.

43. The enemy fell back about ten miles, to the Wadi,—a tributary which joins the Tigris on the left bank. They took up a new position behind the Wadi and on the right bank of the Tigris, opposite the mouth of the Wadi.

44. General Aylmer concentrated his whole force on the left bank and attacked the Wadi position on the 13th. After hard fighting the Turks were driven out on the 14th and retired five miles further west and entrenched across a defile bounded on the north by a marsh and on the south by the Tigris. They were followed to this position by General Aylmer's force.

45. Throughout these operations the weather was very bad. The heavy rain and high wind caused great discomfort to the troops and made movement by land and by river most difficult. Up to January 17th there was no improvement in the weather and active operations were at a standstill.

46. As, owing to ill-health, I am about to relinquish command of Indian Expeditionary Force "D", I desire to place on record my warm appreciation of the able and devoted assistance afforded me by the staff at General Headquarters and officers of the various Administrative Services and Departments.

I wish specially to bring forward the names of the following officers who have rendered very valuable services :—

Major-General G. V. Kemball has proved himself to be a very gallant officer and has the true offensive spirit. As a commander of troops in the field I consider him to be a leader of great ability and power.

I am indebted to Major-General M. Cowper for the assistance which his knowledge of administrative staff work and organisation has afforded me.

Major (Temporary Lieutenant-Colonel) W. H. Beach is at all times a hard-working, capable and thoroughly reliable Staff officer whose services have been invaluable to me. As head of the Intelligence Branch he has shown exceptional powers of insight and organisation.

Major (Temporary Lieutenant-Colonel) H. R. Hopwood has performed his important duties in a highly satisfactory manner. He is thoroughly capable and full of tact and resource, in fact possesses all the qualities that go to make a good Staff officer.

Major R. A. Cassels has in the field proved himself to be a bold and resourceful Staff officer, and the manner in which he has acquitted himself of duties falling to hand outside the ordinary scope of his work is highly satisfactory and of value to the State.

Major W. C. Croly, R.A.M.C., has been in medical charge of the Staff at General Headquarters and has shown himself always the right man in the right place, and to have taken the keenest interest in his work and care of those whom he had in charge.

To my Personal staff I am under great obligations for their willing and able assistance in quarters, on the march, and in the fight, and I draw attention to the recommendations for rewards which I have already made :—

Captain L. G. Williams.

Lieutenant G. B. Walker.

The Medical Services have had to face very trying and unusual conditions. On more than one occasion the number and severity of the casualties have thrown the greatest strain on them, but the organisation and efficiency of the arrangements have ensured as speedy an evacuation of the wounded as the means placed at their disposal permitted. In this connection I wish to bring forward the name of Surgeon-General H. G. Hathaway.

The work of the Royal Engineers has been excellently carried out under the able direction of Brigadier-General J. C. Rimington, and I take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the valuable assistance rendered by this branch of the service as a whole.

The British General Hospital has throughout been in the charge of Lieutenant-Colonel D. J. Collins, R.A.M.C., whose zeal, energy and organising power have rendered it a model hospital of its kind. Credit is also due to Lieutenant-Colonel G. B. Irvine, I.M.S., for his devoted and careful supervision of the Indian General Hospital.

I have before expressed my indebtedness to Major-General K. S. Davison and his staff and I must now do so again for their able and efficient management of the lines of communication under the most difficult and trying circumstances. In Captain J. C. Macrae he has a good and able Staff officer.

It must be remembered that, as a port, Basrah has no facilities for the discharge of stores or the disembarkation of troops and animals. The officers of the Royal Indian Marine consequently have had no easy task in improvising wharves and berths, and dealing with the large number of transports which have recently arrived and have had to be unloaded with the utmost expedition. They have, nevertheless, overcome these many difficulties and the greatest credit is due to them for what they have accomplished.

The officers and crews of the Tigris steamers belonging to Messrs. Lynch Brothers and of the other river craft have always displayed gallantry of a high order in bringing their ships on, often under heavy fire, and it is not too much to say that without this assistance, and the indefatigable manner in which they have worked, the movements of troops and supplies would not have been possible.

I cannot praise too highly the work done by the Telegraph and Postal Departments, the state of completeness of which has done much to promote the general efficiency of the force.

All demands made on the Telegraph Department have been rapidly and effectively met at the cost of much hard labour under trying conditions and at great personal risk, which reflects the greatest credit on Mr. L. Bagshawe and the important department over which he presides.

The exigencies of field service have thrown a great strain on the Postal Department but owing to the hard work done and the excellent organisation built up by Mr. E. Clerici and his staff the results have been most satisfactory.

Finally, I am very grateful to Lieutenant-Colonel Sir P. Z. Cox for his able co-operation and willing assistance. The force has largely profited by his deep knowledge of local conditions and peoples, and by the tact and bold resource which he has displayed in all he has undertaken.

The names of the following officers, all of whom have performed good service, are brought to the notice of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief:—

Booth, Brevet Major F.
Branson, Captain L. H.
Dick, Major R. N.
Duffy, Deputy Commissary and Captain T. A.
Goad, Lieutenant C. R., R. I. M.
Greenstreet, Major C. B. L.
Gribbon, Major W. H.
Hamilton, Captain W. H., I.M.S.
Huddleston, Commander (Temporary Captain) W. B.
Kinch, Lieutenant A. G., R. I. M.
Marsh, Lieutenant B. C., R. I. M.
More, Captain J. C.
Mowat, Captain J. S.
Parsley, 2nd-Lieutenant W. C.
Queripel, Major (Temporary Lieutenant Colonel) L. H.
Shah, Lieutenant A. S.
Thompson, Captain R. C.
Whittall, Captain G. E.
Winter, Major (Temporary Lieutenant-Colonel) C. B.

47. As soon as postal communication is established with General Townshend, I have no doubt that he will have further names to bring to notice.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN NIXON, General,

INDIAN ORDER OF MERIT.

No. 524.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to sanction the following promotion in, and admissions to, the Military Division of the Indian Order of Merit for very conspicuous gallantry in Mesopotamia:—

For promotion to the 1st Class of the Order.

(1) No. 1230 2nd Class Sub-Assistant Surgeon Pargan Singh, I.O.M., I.S.M.D. For very great gallantry and devotion to duty in attending wounded of his own and other regiments, both Indian and British, under a heavy fire in the action of Shaikh Sa'ad on the 7th-8th January 1916.

For admission to the 2nd Class of the Order.

(2) No. 1179 Havildar Karanbahadur Khattri, 1st Battalion, 9th Gurkha Rifles. For very conspicuous gallantry on the 19th January 1916, during the attack on an Arab village. He brought his machine gun into action with the front line and opened covering fire on the enemy who were lining the left bank of the Tigris 500 yards distant, with such dash as to assist in keeping down their fire. He so enabled our firing line to establish itself in hasty trenches. His gun was put out of action, but he repaired it under fire showing the greatest disregard of danger. This non-commissioned officer has on several occasions in France showed the same dash in handling his machine gun.

(3) No. 1810 Naik Prem Singh, 51st Sikhs (Frontier Force). For display of great personal gallantry and for cheerful execution of duty under great hardships. While with the Brigade Signal Section, though wounded early on the 6th January 1916, he continued to carry out his duties imparting cheerfulness amongst his men, all being without food during the two successive days including the action of Shaikh-Sa'ad.

(4) No. 1842 Lance-Naik Jawand Singh, 51st Sikhs (Frontier Force). For great gallantry and perseverance when in command of a cable laying party on the night of the 6th-7th January 1916. For two hours he searched for the regiment forming the right flank to link up to headquarters, working under heavy fire and on a line which could only be explained approximately, and fully knowing he was liable to meet an enemy position en route. This eventually occurred and in his efforts to remove one of his party, who was wounded, he himself was hit. He, however, sent back word by the third man of his party that the line must be laid on a bearing which eventually realised.

(5) No. 1116 Sepoy Khan Zaman, 51st Sikhs (Frontier Force). For very great gallantry on 7th January 1916 at Shaikh Sa'ad in bringing up ammunition from the rear to the most forward trench of all. Throughout his progress from the rear there was no cover available. On arrival at the forward trench which was less than 100 yards from the enemy he personally saw that his company was replenished with ammunition and later himself brought up water and fresh supplies to the regiment. This sepoy had also to be restrained from making a premature dash before the final assault.

(6) Jemadar Chanan Singh, 53rd Sikhs (Frontier Force). At all the actions in January 1916 in which the 28th (Frontier Force) Brigade was engaged this Machine Gun Jemadar behaved with the greatest dash and gallantry, and, though wounded, continued directing the fire of his guns with skill, coolness and effect.

(7) No. 3112 Havildar Shinghar Singh, 53rd Sikhs (Frontier Force). At the action of Fort Chibibat on the 13th January 1916, he led his section with very conspicuous gallantry during the advance, and after being very severely wounded and being unable to move, he sat up encouraging his men and directing their movements until he was removed by the regimental first aid.

(8) No. 2973 Havildar Fateh Muhammad, 53rd Sikhs (Frontier Force). At the action of Shaikh Sa'ad on the 6th and 7th January 1916, this non-commissioned officer was very specially conspicuous for the gallantry with which he led his section in the advance and assault, and for the coolness and resource with which he handled his men.

(9) No. 3573 Naik Kehar Singh, 53rd Sikhs (Frontier Force). This non-commissioned officer was placed in charge of a party of the Brigade Signalling Section in what was almost a forlorn hope. It was essential to get a line out to a flank position but the enemy's fire was so hot that two attempts had failed. This non-commissioned officer was chosen to lead the third attempt and though himself wounded succeeded in getting the line through to its destination by sheer pluck and ingenuity. This occurred at Shaikh Sa'ad on the 6th and 7th January 1916.

(10) Jemadar Chanda Singh, 51st Sikhs (Frontier Force). For a display of great courage and endurance throughout the engagements of the 7th, 13th and 21st January 1916, when he exhibited indifference to personal danger, and ability and thoroughness in the execution of his duties. He was slightly wounded on the 13th January, but made no mention of the fact, and when left in charge of a portion of the line collected scattered details, strengthened his position and submitted a report on the situation to Brigade Headquarters. On the 21st he was severely wounded while leading his men with very conspicuous gallantry, but refused to be taken away till all the wounded British officers had been taken away. His conduct throughout has the special commendation of his successive Commanding Officers.

(11) Jemadar Khwaja Muhammad, 56th Punjabi Rifles (Frontier Force). At the action at Fort Chibibat on the 13th January 1916, this Indian officer led his men in the most gallant manner, and during the night when all ranks were worn out with fatigue and when only personal encouragement could make the men realise the urgency of the work, he completed some arduous entrenchments under fire.

(12) No. 1600 Naik Allah Ditta, 56th Punjabi Rifles (Frontier Force). During all the actions in which the 28th (Frontier Force) Brigade have been engaged, this non-commissioned officer has commanded the regimental scouts. He has shown throughout the finest personal courage and resource in independent reconnaissance and has performed his duties with the greatest ability.

(13) No. 2184 Sepoy Jetha Singh, 56th Punjabi Rifles (Frontier Force). At the action of Shaikh Sa'ad on the 6th and 7th January 1916, this man was severely wounded in the arm during the advance. After his wound had been bound up he refused to wait for the stretcher bearers, but took his place again in the next rush and continued in the firing line until he fainted.

(14) No. 1016 Havildar Jugat Singh, 56th Punjabi Rifles (Frontier Force). At the action at Fort Chibibat on the 13th January 1916, this non-commissioned officer displayed very conspicuous personal bravery. When in the foremost line overlooking the Wadi though only 30 yards from the enemy and under constant fire, he continued firing until hit in the shoulder. He then raised himself on his knees, took a long drink from his bottle in full view of the enemy, removed his accoutrements to ease his wound, and then walked back to cover some 50 yards away, showing and inspiring the greatest contempt for the enemy's fire throughout.

(15) No. 1078 Havildar Sapuran Singh, 56th Punjabi Rifles (Frontier Force). Both at Shaikh Sa'ad on the 6th and 7th and at Fort Chibibat on the 12th January 1916, this Machine Gun Havildar showed the greatest bravery in the handling of his guns. He took command of the Detachment when the Machine Gun Officer was killed on the 13th January and brought his guns forward another 500 yards into the firing line under heavy fire.

(16) No. 2205 Acting Lance-Dafadar Puran, 4th Cavalry. For very great gallantry on the 6th January 1916. On two occasions when a British Officer was making a dismounted reconnaissance of the enemy who were in a strongly entrenched position about 3 miles south of the village of Shaikh Sa'ad he carried messages to a very exposed position, under heavy fire.

(17) No. 2858 Sowar Mazhar Khan, 33rd Queen Victoria's Own Light Cavalry. For consistent steadiness and courage when firing his gun under difficult circumstances, especially on the 8th January 1916, when he continued firing with the greatest steadiness and courage though himself under a heavy rifle fire by which he was at last mortally wounded. His widow (if any) is admitted to the pension of the 2nd Class of the Order with effect from the date of his death.

(18) No. 1650 Private Raja Ram Bwege }
(19) No. 1793 Private Dianu Shinde } 116th Mahrattas. For very conspicuous bravery in advancing at night about 300 yards in front of the enemy's trenches and bringing back 6 mules laden with ammunition which had broken loose, under a heavy fire both from the enemy's trenches and our own, in the action of Shaikh Sa'ad on the 7th January 1916.

(20) No. 1441½ Sepoy Surjan, 37th Dogras. In the action of Shaikh Sa'ad on the 7th January 1916, seeing his Double Company Commander lying severely wounded in the open, prepared cover for him and then, with the assistance of Captain R. A. Jenkins, 97th Deccan Infantry, brought him back to cover under heavy fire and further protected him by lying in front of him and remaining thus until nightfall.

(21) No. 2370 Sepoy Bir Singh, 37th Dogras. All the non-commissioned officers of his section having been wounded in the action of Shaikh Sa'ad on the 7th January 1916, he took command and repeatedly led the section forward with great coolness and initiative under very heavy fire and greatly encouraged the men by his splendid example.

(22) No. 2124 Sepoy Devi Singh, 37th Dogras. In the action of Shaikh Sa'ad on the 7th January 1916, voluntarily went back from the firing line no less than five times, under heavy fire, to bring up ammunition for the machine guns, and on one occasion when the man with him was wounded, brought on both loads alone and then returned and put the wounded man under cover.

(23) Jemadar Munshi, 37th Dogras. Displayed very great gallantry in bringing in under heavy fire his Commanding Officer, who was wounded, and taking him to the first aid post, in the action of Orah on the 21st January 1916.

(24) No. 1678 Havildar Sadhu, 37th Dogras. Displayed very great gallantry in the action of Orah on the 21st January 1916, in bringing in a wounded British soldier and two wounded sepoys under heavy fire. He was himself wounded in doing this.

(25) No. 3330 Sepoy Bishnath Singh, 97th Deccan Infantry. For very conspicuous bravery in the action of Shaikh Sa'ad on the 6th and 7th January 1916, in carrying a message up to the firing line when under heavy fire and for the example he set in remaining with the battalion for two days, though wounded, when he might have well gone to the rear.

(26) No. 2159 Havildar Rachpal Singh, 97th Deccan Infantry. For very conspicuous bravery in the action of Orah on the 21st January 1916, in charging the enemy's trench, bayonetting four of the enemy and killing an officer with a bomb. He only retired after losing his rifle and being twice wounded.

(27) Jemadar Abdul Latif Khan, 128th Pioneers. For very conspicuous gallantry in working under heavy gun fire while making a crossing for the 72nd Battery, Royal Garrison Artillery, in the action of Shaikh Sa'ad on the 7th January 1916. The work took about ten minutes and the enemy's artillery fire during the whole period was directed on his party.

(28) Jemadar Hazara Singh, 92nd Punjabis. At Orah for most conspicuous bravery on the 20th January 1916. When ordered to advance to ascertain the enemy's strength he led his men forward with great daring in face of a terrific fire. He persisted in his advance till ordered to retire. He was severely wounded.

(29) No. 3100 Rifleman Bal Singh, 125th Napier's Rifles. In the action of Shaikh Sa'ad on the 7th January 1916, when within 300 yards of the enemy's trenches he twice returned from the firing line and brought up ammunition from casualties. Also for very great gallantry in digging, under very heavy fire, a shelter for a wounded officer and assisting him to get into it, freely exposing himself throughout

(30) Subadar-Major Dalpat Singh, 6th Jat Light Infantry. For very great courage and gallantry in the action of Orah on the 21st January 1916, during the attack on the Turkish position. He was the only Indian officer of the 6th Jat Light Infantry to enter the enemy's trench.

(31) No. 1906 Pay-Havildar Jugal,
(32) No. 2798 Havildar Chandgi,
(33) No. 3171 Lance-Naik Matu,
(34) No. 2822 Naik Hardwari,
(35) No. 5375 Sepoy Harnam.
6th Jat Light Infantry. For their very great devotion and pluck in the attack on the Turkish position on the 21st January 1916. These were the only men (excluding British Officers and 1 Indian Officer) who reached the enemy's trench. Pay-Havildar Juglal and Lance-Naik Matu are missing and believed killed, and Naik Hardwari and Sepoy Harnam were both severely wounded.

If the deaths of Pay-Havildar Juglal and Lance-Naik Matu are confirmed, their widows (if any) will be admitted to the pension of the 2nd class of the Order with effect from the date of their deaths.

(36) Subadar Ramkumar Singh, 97th Deccan Infantry. For very great gallantry at the battle of Orah on the 21st and 22nd January 1916, in getting up machine guns into the enemy's first line trenches. He and his party were obliged to leave the gun tripods behind when hard pressed by the enemy, but succeeded in getting the machine guns away under very heavy fire. They withdrew to our first line trenches and got their guns into action in spite of having no tripods.

(37) No. 1401 3rd Class Sub-Assistant Surgeon Amba Datt, I. S. M. D. Displayed very great gallantry and self-sacrifice during the attack at Sheikh Sa'ad on the 7th-9th January 1916. He followed up the 41st Dogras closely, in the advance, rendering valuable aid to the wounded, under heavy fire regardless of himself. When the regimental aid post was being shelled, although advised to retire, he went forward to attend to some British Officers who he heard were lying wounded. He was killed while in the act of binding up a badly wounded Indian officer of the regiment, to help whom he voluntarily entered a locality which was being heavily shelled. His work at all times and especially during the period the regiment was in France, has been performed in an exemplary manner.

His widow (if any) is admitted to the pension of the 2nd class of the Order with effect from the date of his death.

(38) No. 340 Sepoy (Ward Orderly) Hoshnak Singh, 41st Dogras. Displayed very great gallantry and conspicuous devotion to duty at Shaikh Sa'ad on the 7th-9th January 1916, during the attack and on subsequent days of the operations; he was alone in charge of the regimental aid post after the Sub-Assistant Surgeon had been killed and the Medical Officer wounded early in the attack. He rendered valuable service in giving first aid to about 85 wounded men of the regiment and arranged for their evacuation to the Field Ambulance with the least possible delay, in spite of casualties among stretcher-bearers, and the distance to which the wounded had to be carried. He has been previously recommended for gallantry and devotion to duty during the attack near Port Arthur in France on the 9th May 1915.

(39) No. 547 Naik Surjan, 41st Dogras. Displayed very conspicuous courage under fire at Shaikh Sa'ad on the 7th-9th January 1916, when he volunteered and went out bringing in two wounded men in turn who were lying about 350 yards in front of the trench held by the regiment on the 9th January. While doing so he was persistently sniped by the enemy, but observed that there were very few men in the Turkish trenches. He reported this on return and went out again with a platoon under Lieutenant H. A. Andrews, which had been detailed to take the enemy's trenches, as a result of which 2 officers and 47 other ranks of the enemy surrendered. He was previously recommended on account of conspicuous gallantry in the attack on the Aubers Ridge in France on the 9th May 1915.

(40) No. 510 Naik Rao, 41st Dogras. During the action of El Wadi on the 13th January 1916, he displayed very conspicuous bravery and devotion to his Double Company Commander at the greatest risk to his own life. When his Double Company Commander was severely wounded this non-commissioned officer put a tourniquet on his right arm the artery of which is believed to have been severed and remained with him applying the tourniquet for 6 hours, within 150 yards of the enemy's trench, most of the time in the open, during which time he was exposed to continual fire, especially of snipers. He thereby probably saved the life of his Double Company Commander who was helpless. The enemy's fire at this range was such that only 20 men of the Company were unhit at the end of the day.

(41) No. 1259 Sepoy Fauju, 41st Dogras. During the action of El Wadi on the 13th January 1916, he displayed very conspicuous bravery and devotion to his Double Company Commander when the latter was severely wounded. He was eventually himself severely wounded.

(42) No. 2136 Sepoy Munshi, 41st Dogras. Showed very great gallantry and self-sacrifice at El Wadi on the 13th January 1916, when within 150 yards of the enemy, by crawling forward from cover about 30 yards towards the enemy's trench, and binding up in the open, under heavy fire (especially from snipers) a wounded non-commissioned officer of his company. In doing so he was severely wounded.

(43) No. 409 Havildar Sodagar Singh, 41st Dogras. During the action at El Wadi on the 13th January 1916, he and his party of signallers displayed conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty in laying telephone cables across the open to a Double Company within 150 yards of the enemy's trench. This Double Company had become detached and it was important to get in touch with it. This was effected successfully through the gallantry of these men. Havildar Sodagar Singh who has already been awarded the Indian Distinguished Service Medal for similar gallantry in the battle of Neuve Chapelle was however killed. His widow (if any) is admitted to the pension of the 2nd Class of the Order with effect from the date of his death.

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 11th May 1916, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. The storm in the Bay referred to in last week's report travelled northwards and crossed the coast near Akyab into Upper Burma on the 6th. It was the cause of widespread and locally heavy rain in Burma and southeast Bengal. In northern India the weather was controlled by a depression from the west. This gave rise to numerous thunderstorms and duststorms which resulted in fairly widespread rainfall in the tract of country extending from the North-West Frontier Province to Bihar, and also in Rajputana. In northeast India rainfall was fairly general towards the end of the week, while in the south of the Peninsula thundershowers were of almost daily occurrence.

2. Burma.—Rainfall was nearly general in Lower Burma on the 4th and 5th, and in Upper Burma on the 5th.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—There was nearly general rain in Assam and Bengal on the 8th, in Orissa on the 9th and in Chota Nagpur on the 9th and 10th. Only local showers occurred in Bihar.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—Rain fell at nearly every station in the east of the United Provinces, and locally in the west of the United Provinces, on the 9th. There were a few light falls in the south of the Central Provinces and the west of Central India.

Northwest India.—Nearly general rain fell in west Rajputana on the 8th, and local rainfall occurred in the Punjab, Kashmir, the North-West Frontier Province, Upper Sind and east Rajputana in the second half of the week.

Burma.—The rain fall during the week was general and heavy. Harvesting of island crops has been almost completed. Ploughing for early sesamum and cotton has commenced in Upper Burma. Standing crops are in good condition. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon has fallen slightly to rupees 119 per hundred baskets and is still above normal. The market for white rice is weak.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable Light to moderate rain fell in all districts and facilitated agricultural operations but more rain is wanted in Sylhet, Cachar, Kamrup and the Naga Hills. Pressing of sugarcane has been finished. Ploughing of land for and sowing of paddy and jute, plucking of tea and planting of sugarcane are in progress. Harvesting of spring rice in Sylhet is going on with outturn poor. Prospects of tea are fair. The price of common rice has risen somewhat. Cattle disease is reported from six districts.

Bengal.—During the week light and scattered showers fell in certain districts of the Province. Ploughing and sowing of jute and autumn paddy continue but the operations are not progressing satisfactorily for want of sufficient rain especially in Western Bengal. Sowings have nearly been finished in most of the Eastern Bengal districts. Weeding is in progress The newly planted sugarcane and other standing crops are doing well. Stocks of food grains are reported to be insufficient in parts of the Kishorganj sub-division of the Mymensingh district. Scarcity of water is felt in parts of the Murshidabad and Midnapore districts and fodder is also wanting in the latter district. Cattle disease is reported from twelve districts. The average price of common rice for the Province has risen by a little over one per cent as compared with that of the preceding week.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—In the Bankura district distress in affected areas is generally unchanged. People on works are generally in good condition. Relief measures are adequate. People are freely resorting to works. Loans are being freely advanced. Private charitable funds are giving assistance. Scarcity of fodder continues Prices are almost stationray. The price of rice is 8¾ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 19,307 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 25,290, total 44,597. The increase is due to the stoppage of agricultural operations for want of rain The number of persons relieved on private works was 5,388. In the affected areas of the Tippera district the conditions are improving. The weather is favourable to standing crops and to weeding operations. The public health is good. The price of rice is 7 seers per rupee The number of persons on relief works was 1,580 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 3,098, total 4,678.

Bihar and Orissa.—Light showers fell in parts of Orissa and in Singhbhum. There was no rain in the rest of the Province. Threshing of spring crops and planting of sugarcane continue. Sowing of jute and paddy is going on in some districts and preparation of lands is in progress but rain is wanted for the purpose in parts of Orissa and in Purnea. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has slightly risen as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient except in parts of Hazaribagh where water is reported to be scarce Cattle disease is reported from twelve districts. There is an unusual shortage of canal water in the Western districts and sugarcane and indigo will be seriously affected. Weighment of opium is in progress. Standing crops are in good condition. Cattle disease is confined to a few villages in some districts. The condition of agricultural stock is generally satisfactory. Fodder and water, apart from canal water, are generally sufficient though there is some scarcity of fodder in parts of Agra and Garhwal. Prices are almost stationary in twenty-eight districts while in others they tend to fall.

Punjab.—Light showers fell in parts of a few submontane and western districts. Elsewhere the weather was dry. Threshing of wheat and other spring crops continues except in the southeast where it has been completed with yield on irrigated areas below normal to normal and on unirrigated areas poor. Sowings of extra spring crops have been completed and of cotton and fodder are in progress and are generally normal. The condition of standing extra spring and autumn crops is generally fair on irrigated and below average on unirrigated areas. Cattle are generally healthy but are weak in some districts owing to scarcity of fodder. Water for drinking and irrigation is generally sufficient. Prices are generally stationary and in the case of wheat range between normal and warning rates and in other cases between warning and scarcity rates. Prices of wheat :—Ferozepore, Lahore and Rawalpindi 11½, Ambala 12 and Lyallpur 12¾ seers per rupee.

Kashmir.—The rainfall during the week was good. The condition of standing crops is fair. Cattle are generally healthy. Fodder is sufficient. Prices are falling.

Rajputana.—The weather is hot and clear. Threshing operations continue in some places with outturn far below normal. Land is being prepared for autumn crops in a few places. The condition of cattle is very poor owing to fodder scarcity in Ajmer and in most States. Cattle disease is reported from Dungarpur, Banswala, Kotah and a few villages of Jhalawar. Water is generally sufficient except in Marwar, Kotah and Tonk. Prices are high. The number of persons on test works in Kishengarh was 1,087 and in Karauli 930.

The condition of standing crops is good in the Gwalior, Bhopal, Malwa and Nagod States and fair in the Jaso and Bhaisaunda States. The probable outturn is good in Bhopal, Bundelkhand, Malwa and the Southern States. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition except in places where there is cattle disease. The fodder supply is fair in Malwa and Baghelkhand except in the Rewah and Nagod States where it is good and sufficient elsewhere except in parts of Gwalior where there is scarcity of fodder and water. Prices are normal in Bhopal and Baghelkhand, slightly fluctuating in Indore and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather continued hot with occasional clouds. Chanda and Bilaspore received light showers not exceeding 21 cents. Threshing and winnowing of spring crops are approaching completion. Preparation of land for autumn crops continues. Fodder and water are sufficient and the condition of cattle is satisfactory. Juar fell by 3 seers per rupee in Nimar. Prices elsewhere remained stationary or fluctuated slightly with a downward tendency.

Bombay.—Rain fell during the week in the Karnatak. Cotton picking continues in Ahmedabad, Kaira, Rewa Kantha, the Karnatak and Kolhapur. Lands are being prepared for autumn cultivation. The fodder supply is deficient in parts of Sind, Kaira, Kathiawar, Cutch, Baroda and Rewa Kantha. Agricultural stock is generally sufficient. Cattle are in good condition except in Larkana, Hyderabad, Thar and Parkar, Palanpur, Ahmedabad, Poona and Sholapur. Drinking water is adequate in parts of Larkana, Kaira, Broach, Baroda and Kolhapur. Water for irrigation is deficient in Ahmedabad, Kaira, Broach, Kathiawar, Baroda, Kolhapur and Dharwar. Prices of food grains are generally steady. Gratuitous relief was given to 235 persons in Kathiawar.

Hyderabad.—Isolated showers fell in a few places. The average fall was 5 cents. Harvesting of spring crops has been nearly completed. Late rice is being harvested and the outturn is generally fair. The highest price of juar in districts is 10 seers per rupee in Karimnagar and the lowest 24 seers per rupee in Adilabad.

Mysore.—The rainfall during the week was good in Bangalore, Tumkur, Mysore and Hassan and light elsewhere. The price of rice has fallen slightly in Bangalore and Chitaldrug and that of ragi has risen in Bangalore and Shimoga. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are generally in good condition. The outturn of the harvested sugarcane and paddy is fair to good. Ploughing and sowing of paddy and sugarcane are in progress. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Rainfall 1 inch. Ploughing for rice continues. Prices of food grains are normal. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was good in Madura, Malabar, Cochin, and the Nilgiris, fair in the Vizagapatam Agency, Salem and Coimbatore and light or nil elsewhere. Standing crops are in fair to good condition generally but are withering or require more rain in parts of a few districts. Harvesting of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowing of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding or is nearing completion normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. The water supply is sufficient in South Canara and in parts of Ganjam, Godavari, Bellary, Anantapur, Cuddapah, the Carnatic and the central and southern parts. Pasture is generally insufficient but fodder is generally available. Prices are steady.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 13th May 1916.

Burma.—During the week light to moderate rainfall was general. Harvesting of miscellaneous crops has been completed and reaping of spring crops continues. Ploughing for sesamum, cotton and groundnut has commenced. Standing crops are generally satisfactory. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon has fallen further to rupees 114 per hundred baskets and is slightly above normal. The market for white rice is steady.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable. Light to moderate rain fell during the week and facilitated agricultural operations in most districts. More rain is wanted in Cachar and Sylhet. Ploughing of land for and sowing of paddy and jute, plucking of tea and planting of sugarcane are in progress. Harvesting of spring rice in Sylhet has been nearly finished with outturn poor. Prospects of tea are fair. The price of common rice is practically stationary Cattle disease is reported from six districts.

Bengal.—During the week light rain fell generally almost throughout the Province. More rain is urgently needed for ploughing and sowing of autumn crops especially in the western and northern districts. Sowings have almost been completed in the eastern districts. Weeding of jute fields continues. Harvesting of summer rice is approaching completion. The young jute and sugarcane plants and other standing crops are doing well but more rain will help their growth. Prospects of mango are reported to be fair in Malda. Scarcity of water continues to be reported from parts of the Murshidabad district. Cattle disease prevails in nine districts. The average price of common rice for the Province has a slight tendency to rise as compared with that of the preceding week.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—In the Bankura District distress in affected areas is generally unchanged. People on works are generally in good condition. Relief measures are adequate. People are freely resorting to works. Loans are being freely advanced. Scarcity of fodder continues. Private charitable funds are giving assistance Prices are stationary. The price of rice is 8¾ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works is 19,515 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 25,724, total 45,239. The number of persons relieved on private works was 6,565. In the Tippera district rain is wanted for standing crops. Sowing and weeding have been practically completed. The public health is good except for sporadic cholera cases. The price of rice is 7 seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works is 887 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 4,470, total 5,357. The decrease in the numbers on works is due to great demand for labour for weeding operations

Bihar and Orissa.—During the week fairly general rain fell over the Province. The fall was moderate in parts of Chota Nagpur and generally light elsewhere. Threshing of spring crops has been nearly finished. Planting of sugarcane continues. Preparation of lands for autumn crops is in progress but more rain is wanted for the purpose in parts of Orissa. Sowing of jute and paddy is going on. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has remained almost stationary as compared with that of the previous week. The supply of fodder and water is generally sufficient. Cattle disease is reported from twelve districts. The attendance of persons on test works in Manbhum was 3,075 and in Singhbhum 7,757. Elsewhere there is practically no cattle disease and the condition of the agricultural stock is satisfactory. Fodder and pasturage are scarce in the Agra and Muttra districts respectively. Deficiency of canal water is reported from some western districts. Prices are almost stationary.

Punjab.—Light rain was general except in a few central districts, and in parts of the submontane and western tracts the fall was fairly good and was beneficial for the extra spring crops, sugarcane and cotton. It will also facilitate ploughing for the autumn harvest. Threshing of wheat continues in some districts with yield on irrigated areas, below normal to normal and on unirrigated areas poor. Sowings of sugarcane, cotton and fodder continue and are generally normal. The condition of the standing extra spring and autumn crops is generally fair on irrigated and below average on unirrigated areas. Cattle are healthy but are weak in some districts owing to scarcity of fodder. Water for drinking and irrigation is generally sufficient but shortage of canal water is reported from the south-east. Prices are generally stationary but they have risen slightly in some districts. In the case of wheat they range generally between normal and warning rates and in other cases between warning and scarcity rates. RESOLUTION.

Three questions of importance have lately been engaging the attention of the Government of India in connection with the policy regarding State scholarships :—

(a) The advisability, in the interest of female education in this country, of assisting and encouraging Indian women to receive a medical training outside India in the United Kingdom or elsewhere ;

(b) The insufficiency, in some cases, of the existing rates of Government scholarships ; and

(c) The difficulty of securing the admission of State scholars to the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge.

2. The importance of (a) has been emphasised by the recent institution of a medical service for women in India. Moreover, the provision of facilities for a course of training in Europe should increase the attractiveness of the study of medicine as well as afford an inducement and an opportunity for the best women graduates to undertake special courses of training abroad. The Government of India have accordingly invited and obtained the approval of the Secretary of State to the grant, from Imperial revenues, to an Indian woman graduate of one scholarship annually, tenable in the United Kingdom or, with special sanction, in foreign countries. This scholarship, however, will not necessarily be confined to the study of medicine but will also be available for training in certain other subjects. The general practice will be that while the scholarship will usually be awarded for the study of medicine, it may also be available for a candidate who desires to undertake some other educational or professional course. Further particulars regarding the scholarship will be found in Appendices I and II. The first scholarship will be awarded in 1916.

3. As regards paragraph 1 (b) it has been found that in the case of scholars residing at an Oxford or Cambridge college the allowance of 200*l*. a year is sufficient only to cover the necessary expenses of college life and permits little margin for vacation and other expenses. The existing allowance of 150*l*. in the case of Oriental scholars is also considered inadequate. Hence, after consultation with local Governments and with the sanction of the Secretary of State the Government of India are pleased to announce that :—

(a) The value of the two Government of India University scholarships and of the scholarships granted to a male member of the domiciled community which are mentioned in paragraph 6 (a) and (c) of this resolution shall be raised from 200*l*. to 250*l*. a year when held in a college at Oxford or Cambridge.

(b) The value of the language or Oriental scolarships which are mentioned in paragraph 6 (d) of this resolution shall be raised from 150*l*. to 200*l*. a year, on the understanding that the holders of these scholarships will in future be required to pay their own university fees ; and it will be further increased to 250*l*. a year on the same understanding when the scholarship is held in a college at Oxford or Cambridge.

(c) Before a male scholar leaves India his parent or guardian must show that he has sent to the Secretary for Indian students in London a sum of 25*l*. for initial outfit expenses. In the case of a technical scholar the sum of 15*l*. will be sufficient.

4. With regard to paragraph 1 (c), the difficulty of securing admission to colleges at Oxford and Cambridge is largely due to the late date on which applications for admission on behalf of State scholars are often received. The Secretary of State has recently pointed out that, to ensure success, such applications, accompanied by the requisite testimonials, should reach the Secretary for Indian students in March or April each year. The importance of the early and punctual submission of the nomination of scholars was therefore brought to the attention of local Governments and Universities. As will be observed from this Department's letter No. 2428-2432, dated the 24th December 1913, nominations for University scholarships are required to be submitted in the spring or earlier. The Government of India have been in communication with the Secretary of State regarding this matter and have ascertained that, in cases where delay is inevitable through the necessity of awaiting examination results, arrangements for the admission of scholars to Oxford and Cambridge colleges may be made, provided that the selection is reported to the Secretary of State by telegram early in June and testimonials forwarded during that month. In order that this may be done, the Government of India desire that in the case of all State scholarships application should be received on or before May 15th at the very latest. Nominations submitted after that date cannot be considered, as otherwise the interests of all concerned may be affected adversely. It is hoped that by this means the arrangements made for the admission of State scholars to the English Universities, and especially those of Oxford and Cambridge, will be rendered more effective.

5. For the sake of convenience the present opportunity is taken to supersede and collate all previous resolutions and orders on this subject, and to issue the present resolution, the appendices to which deal with State scholarships of all kinds held abroad and the rules relating to them. It is proposed, instead of issuing supplementary instructions which may be required in future, to embody them in re-issues of the present appendices. It is thought that this method will be convenient to the public, since enquiries regarding the conditions of these scholarships are frequent.

6. The Government of India have from time to time sanctioned from Imperial revenues the following State scholarships (including that established in this resolution) tenable abroad by students of this country :—

(a) Two scholarships of 200*l*. or 250*l*. [vide paragraph 3 (a)] to be awarded annually by the Universities (vide the Government of India, Home Department, resolution no. 1-45-57, dated the 12th February 1886).

(c) One scholarship of 200*l*. or 250*l*. [vide paragraph 3 (a)] to be awarded annually to a male student of the domiciled community (vide the Government of India, Home Department, resolution no. 221-238, dated the 19th March 1907).

(d) Two scholarships of 200*l*. or 250*l*. [vide paragraph 3 (b)] to be awarded annually for the study of Oriental languages (vide the Government of India, Home Department, resolution no. 731-743, dated the 1st September 1908).

Further detailed information regarding these scholarships is given in Appendices to this resolution.

APPENDIX II.—General and Special Rules governing the Grant of State Scholarships.

I.—General Rules.

(ii) Except in the case of University scholarships for which (subject to the approval of the Governments of India, Madras and Bombay) the Universities make their own selection, each Local Government is invited to nominate annually a candidate or candidates, as the case may be, and the Government of India select from among those nominated the candidates who appear to them the best fitted to hold the scholarships. For technical scholarships no candidate is to be selected by Local Governments on the result of a competitive examination either open or limited.

(iii) Full details including the name and occupation of the scholar's father and place of birth, a summary of his academic career in India and a statement of the course of study proposed to be followed in the United Kingdom, should be furnished for transmission to the India Office some time before the scholar's arrival in England.

(iv) When nominating candidates already resident in the United Kingdom, Local Governments should give the earliest possible intimation to the Government of India regarding the qualifications of such candidates, the course of study they propose to pursue and their address in the United Kingdom. The Government of India will then communicate these particulars to the Secretary of State, and will await a reply from him before selecting the scholars. The Government of India will transmit to Local Governments the views or instructions received from the India Office at the earliest possible date and, if necessary, by telegram.

(v) Difficulties sometimes arise owing to scholars arriving in England with preconceived plans and ideas based on the advice of educational authorities in India as to the courses of study they should follow and the institutions to which they should secure admission, or owing to a scholar's unassisted efforts on his arrival to make his own plans without a sufficient knowledge of the requirements of the educational institutions in the United Kingdom. To obviate this cause of difficulty arrangements should be made to let the India Office receive in good time any special suggestion that may be made by college professors and other educational authorities regarding the course of training which a particular scholar might follow with advantage.

(vi) Selected scholars should communicate with the local Advisory Committee (in Burma, the local branch of the Burma Society) in order that they may obtain advice regarding certificates, &c., and they should, when proceeding to England, take with them the originals of their certificates, testimonials and other important personal documents suggested to them by the local Secretary to the Advisory Committee.

(vii) State scholars are required to proceed to England within a reasonable time from the date of their selection so as to arrive there not later than the middle of September, and to reside there for the period of their scholarship unless compelled to return sooner in consequence of ill-health. The scholarship will be payable from the date on which the scholars report their arrival in England. Selected scholars will be provided with a second-class passage to England and also with a second-class return passage if they carry out the instructions of the Secretary of State, and complete the full period of residence or are compelled by sickness to return within that period.

(viii) The scholarships carry with them no conditions as to any subsequent career or service under Government and no expectations of such employment are held out.

II.—SPECIAL RULES.

It is open to each University to consider whether a special examination should be held for the selection of the scholars, or whether the selection should be made on the results of the ordinary examinations. If special examinations are held, the regulations which the University concerned may propose to lay down in regard thereto should be submitted for the previous approval of the Government of India, the necessary arrangements for the conduct of the examinations being made under the orders of the University authorities. The candidates for the special examinations, when such examinations are held, must be young men of proved ability, and will be selected by the Vice-Chancellor on the report of the syndicate or governing body, who will in their turn be guided by the opinions of the professors and examiners concerned.

(b)—Technical Scholarships.

(i) Local Governments will consider what industries are of importance in the province, and which of them may best be encouraged by scholarships, taking care to connect the scholarship scheme with the system of technical and industrial education in the province. Industries in which Indian capital and enterprise are engaged or likely to be engaged are particularly appropriate for selection.

(ii) In the autumn of each year Local Governments consult local bodies, leading firms and selected individuals as to the industry which is to be encouraged, &c., and, as a result of this preliminary consultation, issue a notification (with a copy of the technical scholarship rules) containing full particulars of the scholarship to be awarded, not later than December.

(iii) If Local Governments anticipate difficulty in arranging suitable courses in certain subjects, such as the study of fats, oils and soaps, glass making or the manufacture of sugar, a copy of the notification is sent to the Government of India, who communicate with the Secretary of State early in January. The Government of India will reserve their final selection for scholarships till they have ascertained from the Secretary of State that suitable arrangements can be made in such subjects. In case courses cannot be arranged in any subject, it may be found convenient for Local Governments to mention more than one industry in the notification, so that there may be a certain range of subjects and of candidates from which selection can be made.

(iv) In determining the industry to be studied and in choosing a candidate for the scholarship, Local Governments are required to bear in mind the importance of ensuring that the scholar on his return will find scope for his skill and experience. In recommending a candidate for the study of any industry connected with agriculture, Local Governments might with advantage consult the Agricultural Adviser to the Government of India as to the course of training which the selected scholar should undergo.

(v) The subjects excluded from the scope of these scholarships are Law, Medicine, Forestry, Veterinary Science, Agriculture, Civil Engineering and Geology. It is not intended to send scholars either to Europe or to America to study the extraction of alkalis or vegetable oil pressing.

(vi) Candidates selected for scholarships should ordinarily be of such formed character and habits, and of such an age, that detailed tutelage should be unnecessary.

(vii) The form in which recommendations should be submitted will be found in Appendix III to this resolution.

(viii) If a technical scholar is receiving preliminary training in India, a report upon his work and progress should be forwarded to the Government of India for transmission to the Secretary of State at the end of each year, so that his training in India and in England may be made parts of one considered plan, and that no time may be lost on his arrival in England.

(c)—Domiciled Community Scholarship (Male Candidates).

(i) The two main principles which govern the grant of the scholarship are:—

(a) that as the object in view is to assist a scholar to take up a University course in England, the scholarship will ordinarily be awarded to a young man at the close of his school career in India so that he may join the University as far as possible at the same age as boys educated in England;

(b) the scholarship will be given to the scholar who is most fitted to benefit from a course of study at a University.

(ii) In making the selection due regard will be paid to the claims of each province to participate in its turn in the scheme.

(d)—Language or Oriental Scholarships.

(i) The scholarship will as a rule be awarded to a candidate who has passed examinations in India which will obtain for him admission to a University in Europe as an Advanced or Research Student.

(ii) Some elementary knowledge of French and German should, if possible, be acquired by the scholar before leaving India.

(iii) In the selection of scholars for the study of Sanskrit regard should be paid to the following considerations. As the vast range of Sanskrit literature makes it necessary for a scholar to select some special field of Sanskrit learning in which to specialise, the choice of the special branch of study should be made in India and the pertinent preparatory studies completed before the scholar leaves for Europe. Professors of Sanskrit in various European Universities have complained that individual Language Scholars have been unable to enter at once on the course of study best fitted for them, through lack of preliminary knowledge which could quite well have been acquired in India. Accordingly if a Sanskrit Scholar wishes to specialise on:—

(a) Veda or philology, he should have some knowledge of Latin and Greek;

(b) philosophy, he should have studied one of the systems of Indian philosophy in the original texts, and have read some Plato and Aristotle;

(c) post-Vedic literature, his reading should have extended considerably beyond the limits of the courses prescribed for the M. A. examination of an Indian University.

(e)—Domiciled Community Scholarship (Female Candidates) and Scholarship to Indian Women.

If a selected scholar has friends or relatives in the United Kingdom willing to receive her during vacations, their names and addresses should be forwarded to the Educational Adviser in London.

APPENDIX IV.—RULES FOR GOVERNMENT OF INDIA (UNIVERSITY) SCHOLARS IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

1. All Government scholars are required to avail themselves of the information and advice which the Secretary for Indian Students and the Local Advisers at University centres are in a position to give them, and to apply to their Local Adviser for instructions as regards their studies and in any circumstances of difficulty. The Local Advisers at Oxford, Cambridge, Manchester, Edinburgh and Glasgow have charge of Government scholars studying at those Universities. Scholars studying at other British Universities will be under the charge of the Educational Adviser in London. The Adviser is the proper person to bring before the Secretary for Indian Students any matter requiring the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council.

2. Every scholar should on reaching England at once report himself to the Educational Adviser in London at 21, Cromwell Road, S.W. Accommodation for new arrivals is provided in that house. After seeing the Educational Adviser in London, and consulting with him in regard to his course of study, he should also call on the Secretary for Indian Students at the India Office.

3. Every scholar must obey all instructions which he may receive, either through the Secretary for Indian Students or through his Local Adviser, and must consult his Local Adviser regularly in regard to his work. Any course of study which requires and has received the sanction of the Secretary of State will not be changed without similar sanction.

4. Every scholar must from time to time, whenever the Local Adviser requires it, submit a certificate from the proper College or University Authority, showing that his conduct and progress in study have been satisfactory.

5. Subject to a due compliance with the above conditions, the scholar's allowance will be paid quarterly in advance by the India Office to the Local Adviser under whose charge he is. It will begin from the date of the scholar's reporting his arrival in England, and the Local Adviser will disburse it to the scholar in such instalments as convenience may dictate. Three months after the date of reporting arrival, the amount to the ensuing official Quarter Day* will be paid to the Local Adviser, and subsequent payments will be made in advance on or after each official Quarter Day. The allowance will be at the rate of 200*l*. a year, except in the case of scholars admitted to Colleges at Oxford or Cambridge, whose allowances will be increased to 250*l.* a year, to cover the additional expenses involved.

6. Every scholar is required to lodge with the Secretary for Indian Students at the India Office, London, before his arrival in England, the sum of 25*l.* for initial expenses. He will have no claim to payment of any instalment of his scholarship until this deposit has been made.

7. Charges for University and College fees, for private tuition, for books, hotel bills, medical attendance, and travelling (except the two journeys between England and India), must be borne by the scholar and will not be defrayed by the Secretary of State.

8. The scholarship is granted for three years, unless the Secretary of State in the exercise of his discretion sees reason to terminate it sooner. Every scholar will forfeit his scholarship who, not being disabled by illness or prevented by any other cause which the Secretary of State may consider sufficient, fails to comply with the Rules here set forth. It may be terminated at any time if a scholar fails in health or conduct.

9. On the expiration of the scholarship a scholar is provided by the India Office with a free second class passage to India, and he should apply for it without delay through his Local Adviser. He is not entitled to make his own passage arrangements, and to claim an allowance in lieu from the India Office. If a scholarship be forfeited, or if it be resigned before completion of its term, or if the holder of it, on completion of its term, declines to return to India when instructed to do so, the scholar will lose his claim to a free passage back to India.

APPENDIX V.—RULES FOR GOVERNMENT OF INDIA (SANSKRIT AND ARABIC) SCHOLARS IN EUROPE.

All Government scholars are required to avail themselves of the information and advice which the Secretary for Indian Students and the Local Advisers at University centres are in a position to give them, and to apply to their Local Adviser for instructions as regards their studies and in any circumstances of difficulty. The Local Advisers at Oxford, Cambridge, Manchester, Edinburgh and Glasgow have charge of Government scholars studying at those Universities. Scholars studying at other British Universities or abroad will be under the charge of the Educational Adviser in London. The Adviser is the proper person to bring before the Secretary for Indian Students any matter requiring the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council.

2. Every scholar should, on reaching England, at once report himself to the Educational Adviser in London at 21, Cromwell Road, S.W. Accommodation for new arrivals is provided in that house. After seeing the Educational Adviser in London and consulting with him in regard to his course of study, he should also call on the Secretary for Indian Students at the India Office.

3. Every scholar must obey all instructions which he may receive, either through the Secretary for Indian Students or through his Local Adviser. He must consult his Local Adviser regularly in regard to his work and carry out any course of study which the Adviser may ultimately prescribe. Any course which requires and has received the sanction of the Secretary of State will not be changed without similar sanction.

4. Every scholar must, from time to time, whenever the Educational Adviser in London or other Local Adviser requires it, submit a certificate from the proper College or University Authority, showing that his conduct and progress in study have been satisfactory.

5. Subject to a due compliance with the above conditions, the scholar's allowance will be paid quarterly in advance by the India Office to the Local Adviser under whose charge he is. It will begin from the date of the scholar's reporting his arrival in England, and the Local Adviser will disburse it to the scholar in such instalments as convenience may dictate. Three months after the date of reporting arrival, the amount to the ensuing official Quarter Day will be paid to the Local Adviser, and subsequent payments will be made in advance on or after each official Quarter Day*. The allowance will generally be at the rate of 200*l*. a year, and Language scholars will not, as a rule, be expected to join Colleges at Oxford or Cambridge. But in the event of a Language scholar being admitted to an Oxford or Cambridge College, his allowance will be increased to 250*l*. a year, to cover the additional expenses involved.

6. Every scholar is required to lodge with the Secretary for Indian Students at the India Office, London, before his arrival in England, the sum of 25*l*. for initial expenses. He will have no claim to payment of any instalment of his scholarship until this deposit has been made.

7. The necessary travelling expenses of scholars abroad by second class, or by third class if no second be available, will be defrayed by the Secretary of State. These expenses should be claimed on forms obtainable from the Adviser. Travelling expenses in the United Kingdom will be borne by the scholars themselves. Charges for University and College fees, for private tuition, for books, hotel bills and medical attendance, must be borne by the scholar and will not be defrayed by the Secretary of State.

8. No claim can be admitted for the payment of any expenditure unless the scholar has obtained previous sanction from the Secretary of State.

9. The scholarship is granted in the first instance for two years, unless the Secretary of State in the exercise of his discretion sees reason to terminate it sooner. Every scholar will forfeit his scholarship who, not being disabled by illness or prevented by any other cause which the Secretary of State may consider sufficient, fails to comply with the Rules here set forth. The scholarship may, for sufficient reasons, be extended beyond two years by the Secretary of State. It may be terminated at any time within the first two years or later, if a scholar fails in health or conduct.

10. On the expiration of the scholarship a scholar is provided by the India Office with a free second class passage to India, and he should apply for it without delay through his Local Adviser. He is not entitled to make his own passage arrangements and to claim an allowance in lieu from the India Office. If a scholarship be forfeited, or if it be resigned before completion of its term, or if the holder of it on completion of its term declines to return to India when instructed to do so, the scholar will lose his claim to a free passage back to India.

APPENDIX VI.—Rules for Government of India (Technical) Scholars in the United Kingdom.

Scholars studying elsewhere will be under the charge of the Educational Adviser in London. The Adviser is the proper person to bring before the Secretary for Indian Students any matter requiring the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council.

Adviser in London, and consulting with him in regard to his course of study, he should also call on the Secretary for Indian Students at the India Office.

3. Every scholar must obey all instructions which he may receive, either through the Secretary for Indian Students or through his Local Adviser, and must consult his Local Adviser regularly in regard to his work. No course of study will be sanctioned which does not provide for an adequate practical training. Any course which has received the sanction of the Secretary of State will not be changed without similar sanction.

4. Every scholar must from time to time, whenever the Local Adviser requires it, submit a certificate from the proper College or University Authority, or from any other Authority under whom he is working, showing that his conduct and progress have been satisfactory.

5. Every scholar must give a written undertaking that he will devote himself exclusively, during the tenure of his scholarship, to the study of the subject for which his scholarship was granted, and that he will return to India on its termination, and there continue to devote himself to the industry which he has studied. Any scholar who neglects his studies, or tries to work for any other profession concurrently, will render himself liable to forfeiture of his scholarship.

6. Every scholar will be required to keep a concise diary, to be submitted at the end of each term to his Local Adviser, and to be forwarded through the Local Adviser at the end of each academic year to the Secretary of State for transmission to India.

7. Scholars will be expected to continue their studies during vacations with the exception of three weeks in each year. Vacation study should, as far as possible, take form of the practical work.

8. Plans for vacation work, accompanied by a complete estimate of any extra expenses for fees or travelling involved, should be sent in to the Local Adviser six weeks before the end of any academic term. Scholars are not entitled to any subsistence allowance in addition to the scholarship allowance during time spent on vacation work, but a scholar who receives permission to visit the Continent may, if the Secretary of State for India in Council considers that the circumstances render it desirable, be granted a subsistence allowance calculated at such rate as the Secretary of State may decide

9. Subject to a due compliance with the above conditions, the scholar's allowance will be paid quarterly in advance by the India Office to the Local Adviser under whose charge he is. It will begin from the date of the scholar's reporting his arrival in England, and the Local Adviser will disburse it to the scholar in such instalments as convenience may indicate. Three months after the date of reporting arrival, the amount to the ensuing official Quarter Day * will be paid to the Local Adviser, and subsequent payments will be made in advance on or after each official Quarter Day. The allowance will, except in special cases, be at the rate of 150*l*. a year.

10. Every scholar is required to lodge with the Secretary for Indian Students at the India Office, London, before his arrival in England, the sum of 15*l*. for initial expenses. He will have no claim to payment of any instalment of his scholarship until this deposit has been made.

11. Charges for University and College fees, premiums for practical training, and the necessary expenses of scholars by second class, or by third class if no second be available, will, if sanctioned, be defrayed by the Secretary of State. Applications for payment of all these charges should be made through the Local Adviser But charges for private tuition, unless specially sanctioned, for books, instruments, hotel bills and medical attendance, must be paid by the scholar himself.

* Note.—The official Quarter Days are the 1st of January, the 1st of April, the 1st of July and the 1st of October.

12. No claim can be admitted for the payment of any expenditure unless the scholar has obtained previous sanction from the Secretary of State.

13. The scholarship is granted in the first instance for two years, unless the Secretary of State in the exercise of his discretion sees reason to terminate it sooner. Every scholar will forfeit his scholarship who, not being disabled by illness or prevented by any other cause which the Secretary of State may consider sufficient, fails to comply with the Rules here set forth. It may be terminated at any time if a scholar fails in health or conduct. It may also be extended for a third year or longer, if the Secretary of State decides that such an extension is required to complete the scholar's training.

14. On the expiration of the scholarship a scholar is provided by the India Office with a free second class passage to India, and he should apply for it without delay through his Local Adviser. He is not entitled to make his own passage arrangements and to claim an allowance in lieu from the India Office. If a scholarship be forfeited, or if it be resigned before completion of its term, or if the holder of it, on completion of its term, declines to return to India when instructed to do so, the scholar will lose his claim to a free passage back to India.

APPENDIX VII.—Rules for Government of India (Women) Scholars in the United Kingdom.

1. All Government scholars are required to avail themselves of the information and advice which the Secretary for Indian Students and the Local Advisers at University centres are in a position to give them, and to apply to their Local Adviser for instructions as regards their studies and in any circumstances of difficulty. The Local Advisers at Manchester, Edinburgh and Glasgow have charge of Government scholars studying at those Universities. Scholars studying elsewhere will be under the charge of the Educational Adviser in London. The Adviser is the proper person to bring before the Secretary for Indian Students any matter requiring the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council.

2. Every scholar should on reaching England at once report herself to the Educational Adviser in London at 21, Cromwell Road, S.W. After seeing the Educational Adviser in London, and consulting with him in regard to her course of study she should also call on the Secretary for Indian Students at the India Office.

3. Every scholar must obey all instructions which she may receive, either through the Secretary for Indian Students or through her Local Adviser, and must consult her Local Adviser regularly in regard to her work and her residence during vacations. Any course of study which requires and has received the sanction of the Secretary of State will not be changed without similar sanction.

4. Every scholar must from time to time, whenever the Local Adviser requires it, submit a certificate from the proper College or University Authority, showing that her conduct and progress in study have been satisfactory.

5. Subject to a due compliance with the above conditions, the scholar's allowance will be paid quarterly in advance by the India Office to the Local Adviser under whose charge she is. It will begin from the date of the scholar's reporting her arrival in England, and the Local Adviser will disburse it to the scholar in such instalments as convenience may dictate. Three months after the date of reporting arrival, the amount to the ensuing official Quarter Day* will be paid to the Local Adviser, and subsequent payments will be made in advance on or after each official Quarter Day. The allowance will be at the rate of 200*l* a year.

*Note.—The official Quarter Days are the 1st of January, the 1st of April, the 1st of July and the 1st of October.

6. Charges for University and College fees, for private tuition, for books, instruments, hotel bills, medical attendance and travelling (except the two journeys between England and India), must be borne by the scholar and will not be defrayed by the Secretary of State.

7. The scholarship is granted, in the first instance, for three years, unless the Secretary of State in the exercise of his discretion sees reason to terminate it sooner. Every scholar will forfeit her scholarship who, not being disabled by illness or prevented by any other cause which the Secretary of State may consider sufficient, fails to comply with the Rules here set forth. It may be terminated at any time if a scholar fails in health or conduct.

8. On the expiration of the scholarship a scholar is provided by the India Office with a free second class passage to India, and she should apply for it without delay through her Local Adviser. She is not entitled to make her own passage arrangements, and to claim an allowance in lieu from the India Office. If a scholarship be forfeited, or if it be resigned before completion of its term, or if the holder of it, on completion of its term, declines to return to India when instructed to do so, the scholar will lose her claim to a free passage back to India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY.

(INDUSTRIES).

RESOLUTION.

Simla, the 19th May 1916.

The Government of India, as announced by Sir William Clark when speaking on Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola's Resolution in the Legislative Council on 21st March 1916, have decided that the time has come when the question of the expansion and development of Indian manufactures and industries should be taken up in a more comprehensive manner than has hitherto been attempted. India possesses two notably successful manufacturing industries in the two great textile industries of cotton and jute, and there are others which have also reached some degree of importance; but it remains none the less true that she is still in the main a producer of raw materials. The Government of India have strong hopes, however, that it may prove possible to place the industries of this country on a much firmer and more extended basis than at present, and they consider that no means should be left untried which holds out a reasonable hope of effecting this end. They are aware of the eager desire of a large number of the people of India for the industrial development of their country, and with this desire the Government of India fully associate themselves.

The efforts of Government in the past towards this end have disclosed the existence of numerous difficulties. Indian capital is timid and unenterprising; skilled labour is lacking; and there is a want of practical information regarding the commercial potentialities of India's raw products. All these difficulties require full examination by men of technical experience and high business standing. The Government of India have therefore decided to appoint a Commission, some of whose members will be acquainted with Indian conditions, some with industrial progress in other countries where similar objects have been pursued and others with industrial problems generally and their business side in particular. The Government of India are well aware that there are especial difficulties in the way of such an enquiry during war time, but after full consideration it has been decided to appoint the Commission at once in order that, when after the close of the war the financial position is once more established on a normal basis, the Government may be able without further delay to take such action as may seem suitable after considering the Commission's recommendations.

2. In framing the terms of reference it has been found necessary to exclude two matters from the scope of the Commission's labours. In the first place, any consideration of the present fiscal policy of the Government of India has been excluded from its enquiries. When introducing the Financial Statement in the Legislative Council, the Honourable Finance Member, it will be remembered, stated, in connection with the question of the cotton duties, that the general fiscal relationship which exists between the various parts of the Empire and other countries must in the opinion of His Majesty's Government be reconsidered after the war, and that in the meantime they wish to postpone any action that would tend to raise such questions. The same considerations apply with even greater force to any proposals involving the imposition of duties for the specific purpose of protecting Indian industries, a policy which would very directly affect the fiscal relations of India with the outside world. In the next place, it is not proposed that the Commission should re-examine those aspects of technical and industrial education which have recently been dealt with by Committees working in England and India whose reports are at present under the consideration of the Government of India.

3. Subject to the above qualifications, the Commission will be instructed to examine and report upon the possibilities of further industrial development in India and to submit its recommendations with special reference to the following questions :—

(b) whether and, if so, in what manner, Government can usefully give direct encouragement to industrial development—

(i) by rendering technical advice more freely available ;

(ii) by the demonstration of the practical possibility on a commercial scale of particular industries ;

(iii) by affording, directly or indirectly, financial assistance to industrial enterprises ; or

(iv) by any other means which are not incompatible with the existing fiscal policy of the Government of India.

The Government of India trust that the Commission will find it possible to place their report in the hands of the Government of India within 12 months from the date of its assembling in India.

4. The Commission will consist of the following gentlemen : —

PRESIDENT.

1. SIR T. H. HOLLAND, K.C.I.E., D.Sc , F.R.S.,

TARIFF VALUATION OF SUGAR.

The following statement shows in respect of each of the descriptions of sugar distinguished in the Tariff Schedule II (excepting molasses and all other kinds of sugar), firstly, the total imports into India in the month of April 1916, and the average value per cwt. as calculated on the returns received from the Customs Houses; and, secondly, a running total showing the total imports into India since the beginning of the year (1st October to 30th September) and the average net value per cwt. so far established. It is published in conformity with the procedure laid down in Customs Circular No. V of 1911, in order to enable merchants to compute the probable rate of duty for the year 1917:—

Director of Statistics

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN SELECTED ARTICLES IN MARCH 1916.

The object of the tables below is to show the quantities of the principal staples of agricultural produce imported from the various provinces, etc., and from foreign countries into the ports of Calcutta, Bombay, Karachi, and the Madras ports during the month of March 1916, and for the twelve months April 1915 to March 1916, as compared with the corresponding periods of 1915. The statistics include foreign sea-borne and coasting trade as well as inland (rail and river-borne) trade. They have been furnished by Collectors of Customs, Steamer Companies, Railway Audit Officers, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, etc.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN MARCH 1915 AND 1916.

It will be seen from Table I, that the imports by rail, river and sea in March 1916, as against the corresponding month of 1915 show (in round numbers) an increase of—

93 per cent in linseed.
(22,900 tons as against 11,900 tons last year.)

77 per cent in tea.
(1,847,700 lbs. as against 1,041,500 lbs. last year.)

21 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour)
(44,100 tons as against 36,300 tons last year.)

17 per cent in rice.
(170,500 tons as against 145,100 tons last year.)

10 per cent in rape and mustard seed.
(25,300 tons as against 22,900 tons last year.)

7 per cent in gram and pulse.
(38,300 tons as against 35,700 tons last year.)

The imports of raw cotton by rail, river and sea into ports show a fall of 30 per cent (508,200 bales as against 727,100 bales last year) due mainly to smaller exports from the Central Provinces and Berar. The decrease of 10 per cent (370,100 bales as against 412,100 bales last year) in the imports of jute into Calcutta is accounted for by smaller exports mainly from Bengal and Assam.

NOTE.- 400 lbs. are equivalent to 1 bale of cotton or jute.
82 $\frac{2}{7}$ lbs are equivalent to 1 maund.
1 maund of paddy is taken as equivalent to 25 seers of rice.

It will be seen from Table IV (wheat, excluding wheat flour) that the principal sources of the imports in March 1915 were the Central Provinces and Berar, the United Provinces, Bombay and the Punjab. Table XI shows the exports out of India of wheat (including wheat flour) month by month during the last five years.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN TWELVE MONTHS ENDING MARCH 1915 AND 1916.

The twelve months' figures in table I show (in round numbers) an increase of—

28 per cent in jute.
(5,938,500 bales as against 4,641,000 bales last year.)

20 per cent in gram and pulse.
(430,200 tons as against 357,900 tons last year.)

14 per cent in raw cotton.
(4,177,400 bales as against 3,657,200 bales last year.)

13 per cent in tea.
(277,939,600 lbs. as against 246,159,800 lbs. last year.)

3 per cent in rape and mustard seed.
(165,900 tons as against 160,800 tons last year.)

3 per cent in rice.
(1,436,900 tons as against 1,393,000 tons last year.)

Imports of linseed into ports show a decrease of 19 per cent (225,100 tons as against 276,700 tons last year) mainly on account of smaller exports from Bihar and Orissa. There is a fall of about 1 per cent only (1,063,000 tons as against 1,070,200 tons last year) in the imports of wheat (excluding wheat flour).

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN MARCH 1916 AS COMPARED WITH THE PREVIOUS MONTH.

114 per cent in linseed.
(22,900 tons as against 10,700 tons previous month)

74 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour).
(44,100 tons as against 25,300 tons previous month.)

74 per cent in rape and mustard seed.
(25,300 tons as against 14,600 tons previous month.)

45 per cent in rice.
(170,500 tons as against 117,900 tons previous month.)

12 per cent in gram and pulse.
(38,300 tons as against 34,000 tons previous month.)

1 per cent in raw cotton.
(508,200 bales as against 505,400 bales previous month.)

and a decrease of—

78 per cent in tea.
(1,847,700 lbs. as against 8,296,200 lbs. previous month.)

37 per cent in jute.
(370,100 bales as against 585,300 bales previous month.)

The Statistics for March 1915 and 1916, as also for the twelve months ending March 1915 and 1916, together with those for February 1916 and March 1916 are summarised below:—

COMPARISON WITH THE IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF MARCH 1916.

A DECREASE IN THE IMPORTS OF SUGAR, 16 D. S. AND ABOVE.

The imports of food, drink, and tobacco in April 1916, as compared with the preceding month (March 1916), decreased by R54 lakhs, due mainly to the reduced imports of sugar. The imports of Sugar, 16 D. S. and above, decreased in April 1916 to 21,914 tons, valued at over R67 lakhs, from 38,038 tons, valued at R1,16 lakhs, in March 1916. Imports from Java decreased in April 1916 to 6,326 tons from 29,023 tons in the preceding month and those from Mauritius to 3,434 tons from 6,077 tons. As compared with April 1915, the imports in April 1916 showed a decrease of 9,221 tons, those from Mauritius accounting for a decline of 13,224 tons, partly set off by an increase of 6,538 tons in the imports from Java.

AN INCREASE IN THE IMPORTS OF KEROSENE OIL AND A DECREASE IN THE IMPORTS OF RAW SILK.

The value of the imports of raw materials increased by R11 lakhs, due mainly to an increase in the imports of mineral oil. The imports of kerosene oil in April 1916 amounted to 8 million gallons, valued at R39⅔ lakhs, as against 6¼ million gallons, valued at nearly R25 lakhs, in the preceding month. Over 3 million gallons were received from Borneo in April 1916 as against 1,700,000 gallons in the preceding month, and nearly 5 million gallons from the United States of America as against 4½ million gallons. Imports of raw silk declined in April 1916 to 37,895 lbs, valued at R1¾ lakhs, from 172,910 lbs, valued at R8¾ lakhs, in the preceding month, due to smaller receipts from China.

AN INCREASE IN THE IMPORTS OF MANUFACTURED ARTICLES.

The value of the imports of manufactured articles increased by R60 lakhs. The quantity of cotton piecegoods imported in April 1916 was almost the same as in the preceding month. There were also noticeable increases as compared with March 1916, under hardware (+R5 lakhs), paper (+R8 lakhs), and tea-chests (+R5 lakhs).

II.—Exports.

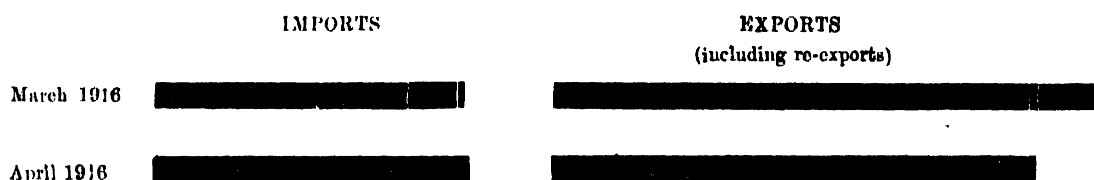
A DECREASE IN THE EXPORTS OF ARTICLES OF FOOD AND DRINK, ESPECIALLY RICE.

Exports of food, drink and tobacco decreased by R1,09 lakhs, mainly due to the restricted shipments of rice. Exports of rice, not in the husk, decreased in April 1916 to 149,743 tons, valued at R1,65½ lakhs, from 249,514 tons, valued at R2,76¾ lakhs, in the preceding month. There were no shipments to the continent of Europe in April 1916, and the exports to the United Kingdom decreased to 49,093 tons from 94,068 tons in March 1916; Ceylon took 35,130 tons as against 33,755 tons; the Straits Settlements 11,822 tons as against 30,839 tons; and Mauritius and Dependencies 101 tons as against 11,964 tons. As compared with April 1915, the exports in April 1916 were less by 5,193 tons.

Exports of wheat both on private and Government account in April 1916, amounted to 3,183 tons, valued at nearly R4 lakhs, as against 920 tons, valued at R1⅜ lakhs, in the preceding month. 2,595 tons of wheat were shipped in April 1916, from Karachi to the United Kingdom on Government account. Exports of wheat in April 1915 amounted to 10,650 tons and were more by 7,467 tons than those in April 1916. Shipments of tea in April 1916 decreased to 18 million lbs, valued at R1,02⅗ lakhs, from 21 million lbs, valued at R1,21¼ lakhs, in the preceding month (March 1916). The United Kingdom took 13 million lbs against nearly 18 million lbs in the preceding month, and Russia 3¾ million lbs against 205,000 lbs in March 1916. In April 1915, the exports of tea amounted to 2¾ million lbs only and were less by 15¼ million lbs than those in April 1916. Exports of spices increased to 7¼ million lbs in April 1916 from 3¼ million lbs in the preceding month, due mainly to larger shipments of pepper.

AN INCREASE IN THE EXPORTS OF RAW MATERIALS, ESPECIALLY RAW WOOL, RAW JUTE, RAW SKINS, AND RAW COTTON.

The value of the exports of raw materials increased by R73 lakhs. Shipments of raw wool, almost entirely to the United Kingdom, increased in April 1916 to over 4 million lbs, valued at R33 lakhs, from 1¾ million lbs, valued at R11½ lakhs, in the preceding month. Shipments of raw jute, in April 1916, amounted to 44,051 tons, valued at R1,36½ lakhs, as against 43,287 tons, valued at nearly R1,17 lakhs, in the preceding month. The increase in value was due partly to an increase in quantity and partly to an increase in the declared value per unit. Exports to the United Kingdom increased in April 1916 to 24,395 tons from 16,731 tons in the preceding month, and those to the United States of America decreased to 8,241 tons from 15,557 tons. Exports in April 1915 amounted to 44,991 tons, valued at R98¾ lakhs. The quantity exported was more by 940 tons and the value of the exports less by R38 lakhs than those in April 1916. Shipments of raw skins increased in April 1916 to 1,966 tons, valued at nearly R12 lakhs, from 1,668 tons, valued at R24⅓ lakhs, in the preceding month. The United Kingdom took 156 tons in April 1916, against 79 tons in March 1916, and the United States of America 1,757 tons as against 1,536 tons. Exports of raw hides decreased in April 1916 to 3,413 tons, valued at R57½ lakhs, from 4,100 tons, valued at R64⅓ lakhs, in the preceding month, due mainly to smaller shipments to the United States of America. Exports of raw cotton increased in April 1916 to 39,328 tons, valued at nearly R2,68 lakhs, from 37,263 tons, valued at R2,57 lakhs, in the preceding month. Japan took 24,632 tons in April 1916 against 27,719 tons in March; Italy 5,409 tons against 3,086 tons, and the United Kingdom 4,585 tons against 3,533 tons. Exports in April 1915 amounted to 49,943 tons, valued at R2,34 lakhs, and the quantity exported was more than the figures for April 1916 by 10,615 tons, while the value of the exports was less by R34 lakhs. The quantity of seeds exported in April 1916 decreased to 89,683 tons from 97,955 tons in the preceding month, while the value of these exports increased to nearly R1,62 lakhs from R1,46 lakhs in the preceding month. There were noticeable increases in the exports of castor seed, copra or coconut kernel, linseed, and sesamum (til or jinjili), while groundnuts and rape-seed heavily declined.



A DECREASE IN THE EXPORTS OF MANUFACTURED ARTICLES, ESPECIALLY OF JUTE GOODS.

Exports of manufactured articles decreased by R1,55 lakhs. Shipments of gunny bags, in April 1916, decreased to 53 millons in number, valued at R1,63 lakhs, from 72 millions and R2,08½ lakhs in the preceding month. Sacking and hessian bags and cloth have been separately recorded in the sea-borne trade returns from April 1916, and of the total number (53 millions) of bags exported in April, 22 millions were sacking gunny bags and 31 millions hessian bags. The United Kingdom took 17½ millions (2¼ million sacking bags and 15¼ million hessians) in April 1916 against 24 million in March 1916; Russia 12 millions (hessian bags) against 17 millions; France 519,100 against 117,000; the United States of America nearly 4 millions (1 million sacking and 3 million hessians) against 7 millions; and Australia 3½ millions (mainly sacking bags) against 2½ millions. The exports in April 1915 amounted to 36⅛ millions in number valued at R93½ lakhs and were less than those in April 1916 by 16½ millions in number and R66 lakhs. The exports of gunny cloth in April 1916 decreased to nearly 64 million yards, valued at R1,17 lakhs, from 110 million yards, valued at R1,84 lakhs, in the preceding month. Of the cloth exported in April 1916, nearly 7 million yards were sacking gunny cloth and 57 million yards hessian cloth. The United Kingdom took 16¼ million yards (4½ million yards sacking cloth and 11¾ million yards hessian cloth) in April 1916 against 14 million yards in March 1916; Russia 6 million yards (hessian cloth) against 7¾ million yards; France 6 million yards (hessian cloth) against nearly 4 million yards; the United States of America 25½ million yards (hessian cloth) against 74 million yards. The exports of gunny cloth in April 1915 amounted to 80 million yards, valued at R96 lakhs, and the quantity was more than the figures of exports in April 1916 by 16 million yards, but the value less by R21 lakhs.

The total value of cotton manufactures exported in April 1916 decreased to R43½ lakhs from R63½ lakhs in the preceding month, mainly due to smaller exports of cotton twist and yarn to China and of cotton piecegoods to several Asiatic countries and Egypt. Exports of hides, tanned or dressed, (mainly to the United Kingdom), in April 1916, decreased to 890 tons, valued at R22 lakhs, from 1,498 tons, valued at R36 lakhs, in the preceding month. Shipments of skins, tanned or dressed, increased in quantity in April 1916 to 1,016 tons from 926 tons in the preceding month, but the value of the exports in April 1916 decreased to R34 lakhs from R40½ lakhs in the preceding month.

The following diagrams illustrate the relative magnitude of the import and the export trade in merchandise in March and April 1916:—

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 20th May 1916.

Burma.—The rainfall was general throughout the Province Harvesting of miscellaneous crops has been completed and reaping of spring crops continues. Ploughing of the lowlying paddy lands has commenced in a few districts. Agricultural operations for the cultivation of sesamum, cotton and groundnut continue. Standing crops are in good condition Cattle are healthy. Prices are unchanged. The price of rice at Rangoon is stationary at rupees 114 per hundred baskets and is slightly above normal. The market for white rice is steady.

Assam.—The weather is hot. Light to moderate rain has fallen almost in all districts. More rain is wanted in some districts for agricultural operations. Harvesting of spring rice in Sylhet has been finished with outturn poor. Sowing of paddy and jute, plucking of tea and planting of sugarcane are in progress. Ploughing of land for rice seedlings has commenced. Red spider blight on tea is reported from the Chargola valley in the Sylhet district. Prospects of autumn rice and tea are fair to good. The price of common rice has fallen somewhat. Cattle disease is reported from seven districts.

Bengal.—Except in some Northern Bengal districts no rain fell during the week. Continued want of rain is greatly retarding the sowing of autumn crops especially in some of the Western Bengal districts. Growth of the young plants of autumn paddy and jute in Eastern Bengal is also being impeded. Continuance of such dry weather for a week or so more, is likely to affect the prospects of the autumn crops seriously. Summer rice is still being harvested in places. Weeding of jute fields is going on throughout Eastern Bengal. Mangoes are ripening in Malda. Water scarcity is being felt in parts of the 24-Parganas, Murshidabad, Burdwan, Birbhum, Bankura and Midnapore. Fodder is getting scarce in the last three districts. Cattle disease is reported from nine districts. The average price of common rice for the Province rose by 1·16 per cent as compared with that of the preceding week.

The weekly report on the famine and scarcity is as follows:—In the Bankura district the state of affairs in affected areas is generally unchanged. The condition of people on works is generally good Relief measures are adequate. People are resorting to works freely. Loans are being advanced freely. Scarcity of fodder continues. Private charitable funds are giving relief Prices have risen. The price of rice is 8½ seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 21,556 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 24,888, total 46,444. The increase in the number on works is due to the severity of distress for want of rain. The number of persons relieved on private works was 6,410. In the Tippera district the draught has affected standing crops. The public health is good Relief measures are adequate. The price of rice is 7 seers per rupee The number of persons on relief works was 2,401 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 1,791, total 7,192 The increase in the number on works is due to cessation of agricultural employment with completion of weeding and sowing operations.

Bihar and Orissa.—During the week light showers fell in parts of Orissa. There was no rain in Bihar and Chota Nagpur. Planting of sugarcane continues. Preparation of lands for autumn crops is in progress but more rain is wanted for the purpose in parts of Orissa. Sowing of jute and paddy is going on. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has risen as compared with that of the previous week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient except in parts of Hazaribagh and the Santal Parganas where the water supply is reported to be insufficient. Cattle disease is reported from twelve districts. The attendance of persons on test works in Manbhum was 3,805 and in Singhbhum 9,599. Gratuitous relief was given to 1,470 persons in Manbhum. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—The week was practically rainless. Hill districts need rain urgently. Indigo, cotton and early rice are being sown. Standing crops are doing well and prospects are generally good. Threshing and winnowing of spring crops and weighments of opium or practically over. Irrigation of sugarcane and extra crops continues but water is still short in western districts. Fodder is generally adequate but there is some scarcity of pasture in Muttra. Little cattle disease is reported. Prices are generally stationary.

Punjab.—During the week the weather was generally dry. Rain is wanted for extra spring crops, sugarcane and cotton and for the ploughing of land for autumn crops. Threshing of wheat has been nearly completed with yield on irrigated areas below normal to normal and on unirrigated areas poor. Sowings of sugarcane, cotton and fodder continue and are generally normal. The condition of standing extra spring and autumn crops is generally fair on irrigated and below average on unirrigated areas. Cattle are generally healthy but are weak in some districts owing to scarcity of fodder. Water for drinking and irrigation is generally sufficient but shortage of canal water is reported from the south-east. Prices are generally stationary, but are rising slightly in some districts. In the case of wheat they range generally between normal and warning rates and in other cases between warning and scarcity rates. Price of wheat :—Rawalpindi 10¼, Lahore 11, Amballa 11¾, Ferozepore 12 and Lyallpur 12¼ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was rainless except in Bannu. The weather is temperate. The condition of standing crops on irrigated areas is average everywhere and on unirrigated lands average in Peshawar, below average in the Lakki tahsil of the Bannu district and poor in Dera Ismail Khan. Harvesting of spring crops is proceeding with outturn average. Sowings of autumn and extra spring crops continue. Sowings of extra spring crops have been finished in Dera Ismail Khan. A hailstorm occurred in several villages of the Lakki tahsil but caused no damage to crops. The condition of cattle is good throughout the Province but it is bad in unirrigated tracts of the Lakki tahsil of the Bannu district. Fodder and water are sufficient except in unirrigated tracts of the Lakki tahsil and in some villages of the Dera Ismail Khan district. The public health is good. Prices are high. The price of gram and barley in Peshawar, of gram and maize in Bannu and of wheat in Dera Ismail Khan is rising slightly while that of bajra in Dera Ismail Khan is falling.

Jammu.—During the week slight rain fell in some parts. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8 to 12 and maize from 10 to 18 seers per rupee The condition of standing crops is average on the whole. There is no cattle disease. Fodder is rather insufficient.

Kashmir.—The rainfall during the week was fair. Standing spring crops are in good condition. Agricultural operations for autumn crops have commenced. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are sufficient. Prices are normal.

Rajputana.—The weather is hot and clear. Showers are reported from Jaisalmer and Jaipur. Bikaner received 178 cents of rain last week. Land is being prepared for autumn sowings. Fodder is scarce in Ajmer-Merwara and in most States and consequently the condition of cattle is very poor. Cattle disease is reported from Dungarpur, Banswara, Kotah and a few villages of Jhalawar and Mewar. Water is generally sufficient except in Marwar, Kotah, Jhalawar and Tonk. Prices are generally high and stationary. The number on test works in Kishengarh was 3,531 and in Karauli 1,011.

The weekly report on scarcity in Merwara is as follows :—Distress is slightly increasing among agriculturists. Marwar emigrants are returning with cattle via Merwara. The physical condition of the people on works is generally satisfactory. Relief measures are sufficient. Cash and grass takavi are being distributed to cultivators. Cholera is prevalent in one village of Merwara. Otherwise public health continues to be good. Prices are 11 seers per rupee. The number of persons on test works was 5,200 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 1,800, total 7,000.

Central India.—No rain fell during the week. Winnowing of spring crops is in progress in Bhopal. Land is being prepared for autumn crops almost everywhere. The condition of standing crops is good in Gwalior and Bhopal and fair in Malwa. The probable outturn is good in Bhopal and Bundelkhand and normal in the Southern States. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition. The fodder supply is fair in Malwa and sufficient elsewhere, except in Gwalior where there is scarcity of fodder and water. Prices are normal in Baghelkhand and Bhopal, falling in parts of Bundelkhand and the Southern States and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces :—(Report not received).

Bombay.—Rain fell during the week in Sind, Ratnagiri, Kanara, Ahmednagar, Poona, Sholapur, Satara, the Karnatak and Kolhapur. Lands are being prepared for the cultivation of autumn crops. The fodder supply is deficient in parts of Sind, Kaira, Kathiawar, Cutch and Baroda. Agricultural stock is generally sufficient. Cattle are in good condition except in parts of Sind, Ahmedabad and Kaira. Drinking water is inadequate in parts of Larkana, Kaira, Broach, Baroda and Kolhapur. Water for irrigation is deficient in Sind, Gujarat, Kathiawar, Baroda, Kolhapur and Dharwar. Prices of food grains have fallen slightly in Gujarat and the Deccan generally and are steady elsewhere. Gratuitous relief was given to 238 persons in Kathiawar.

Hyderabad.—Slight showers fell during the week. The average fall was 16 cents. Late rice crop is being harvested. Lands for autumn crops are being prepared. Cattle disease prevails in six talukas. Prices of grains are almost constant. The highest price of juar in districts is 10 seers per rupee in Karimnagar and the lowest 24 seers per rupee in Adilabad.

Mysore.—The rainfall during the week was good throughout the State. The price of ragi has risen in Shimoga. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition. The outturn of the harvested paddy is fair to good. Ploughing and sowing of paddy, sugarcane, ragi and other dry crops are in progress. Prospects of the season are good. Harvesting of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops are proceeding or are nearing completion normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. The water supply is sufficient except in Anantapur and in parts of Ganjam, Vizagapatam, Godavari, the Carnatic, the Central and Southern parts and the Deccan except Kurnool. GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Irrigation.

Simla, the 16th May 1916.

Review of Irrigation in India in 1914-15.

Classification of Irrigation Works.

Irrigation Works in India are divided into two main classes, viz., major and minor works. Major Works are sub-divided into :—

(a) Productive public works, the capital of which is usually provided from borrowed money.

(b) Protective works, designed as a protection against famine, the capital of which is provided from current revenues, and is usually met from the annual grant under Famine Relief and Insurance.*

Capital and revenue accounts are kept for all major works.

Minor works are constructed from funds provided from the current revenues of India and, broadly speaking, consist of irrigation systems which are not sufficiently important to treat as major works. Some of them are old works constructed by the former rulers of this country, and extended or restored by the British Government; some are works which have been constructed by the British Government; others, again, are village works originally provided by private or communal effort, the control of which the State has been obliged to assume owing to disputes between the parties interested or their inability to maintain the efficiency of the works.

Capital and revenue accounts are maintained for the more important minor works, but for those on which the capital outlay has not exceeded half a lakh of rupees, revenue accounts only are, as a rule, maintained. There is a third class of minor works, consisting for the most part of small tanks, for which neither capital nor revenue accounts are kept. These exist principally in the Madras Presidency.

Productive Public Works.

2. Productive public works are expected within 10 years after the probable date of their completion to yield sufficient revenue to pay their working expenses and the annual interest calculated at 4 per cent on the capital invested. No project is now sanctioned as a productive public work unless it can be shown beyond reasonable doubt that when fully developed it will fulfil these conditions. This standard was not attained in the case of the earlier irrigation projects, and thus it has happened that several large irrigation works which were financed from borrowed capital, are not remunerative. There are 14 such works, viz., two in Bihar and Orissa and two in Bengal, seven in the Deccan and Gujarat, two in Madras and one in the North-West Frontier Province. They are still retained on the list of productive works, but expenditure against their capital account is now charged against the current revenues of India. The total accumulated losses on these 14 works have exceeded the sum of 11½ crores. But though they have proved financial failures in the ordinary commercial sense, they have been indirectly of great value in securing large areas of cultivation against the vicissitudes of the seasons.

3. The remaining works in operation, 45† in number, satisfy productive conditions. These works collectively paid during the year 10·90 per cent on their capital outlay; while after paying interest charges, the surplus revenue, which they had contributed to the general revenues of the country up to the end of 1914-15, amounted to over 51 crores of rupees against 40·44 crores, the capital invested on them. The financial results, the area irrigated, and the mileage in operation for all productive public works in operation, are shown separately by provinces in Statement I.

* NOTE.—In such cases the expenditure is chargeable to the main head "35—Construction of Protective Irrigation Works." Expenditure in excess of this grant is chargeable to "42-A.—Expenditure on Protective Irrigation Works in addition to that charged to Famine Relief and Insurance."

†NOTE.—Except where otherwise stated, this review relates to works actually in operation. The figures in the appended Financial Results of Irrigation operations deal both with works in operation and with those under construction. Hence the figures in the review do not at first sight agree with those contained in the statements referred to.

Areas irrigated, and return realised by productive works.

4. During the year under review the total area irrigated by all the productive public works, excluding branches in Native States of the Punjab, amounted to 16,608,700 acres*. Towards this total the Punjab canals contributed 7·3 million acres, Madras 3·4, the United Provinces 3 and Sind 1·3 million acres. In Bihar and Orissa an area of 908,400 acres was attained. The return on capital is highest in the Punjab, where the canals yielded 14·70 per cent. The next province in this respect is Madras, where a return of 12·62 per cent was realised, excluding the Kurnool and Barur systems referred to in paragraph 2, expenditure on which is charged to Revenue. In the United Provinces and Sind the returns realised were 8·71 per cent and 6·13 per cent respectively. Details regarding other provinces and administrations will be found in Statement I. The return of productive works as a whole, excluding those under construction and not earning revenue, was 8·97 per cent on the capital outlay.

Protective Works.

5. There were in operation in the year under review 29 protective works which together irrigated a total of 515,300 acres. The most important works are the Ramtek reservoir in the Central Provinces, the Betwa and Ken canals in the United Provinces, the Rushikulya in Madras, and the Nira and Godavari systems in the Bombay Presidency. A number of small but interesting tank works are to be found in the Central Provinces. They were sanctioned as experimental works, in accordance with the recommendations of the Irrigation Commission, in order to test how far the people were willing to resort to irrigation for the maturing of their crops and what water rates they were prepared to pay. The results obtained are gratifying and show that the people are beginning to realise the great advantages of irrigation.

Minor Works. Works for which capital and revenue accounts are kept.

6. There were 117 works so classed in 1914-15, the majority of which are in Bombay and Madras. Nine are purely navigation works. The net revenue paid by works of this category amounted to Rs. 34,90,144 (excluding navigation canals) or a return of 8·39 per cent on the capital outlay, against 7·66 per cent in the previous year. Nearly all the minor works in Sind return exceptionally high percentages. It is in contemplation to transfer these to the Major Works class as soon as it is possible to amalgamate them with certain large projects which are in contemplation. The total area served by works of this class was 2,189,400 acres. This figure includes the area shown under Burma, viz., 499,621 acres, which is not under actual irrigation, but represents the area of cultivation on lands reclaimed by river flood embankments.

Works for which only revenue accounts are kept.

7. There are numerous works which maintain only revenue accounts. They are credited with a share of the land revenue depending on their maintenance and are debited with all expenditure incurred on construction, extension, improvements and maintenance. During the year reviewed these works irrigated an area of nearly 3 million acres and returned a net revenue of Rs. 37,74,017.

Works for which neither Capital nor Revenue Accounts are kept.

8. As explained in the opening paragraph of this review, practically all the works of the class which have neither capital nor revenue accounts are situated in the Madras Presidency. They consist of some 37,000 tanks and irrigation channels, mainly the former, the improvements and repairs of which are executed by the Public Works Department, except in the case of the smaller works which are maintained by civil officers. The areas irrigated by works of this class in 1914-15 aggregated to 3,401,200 acres. The area irrigated in 1913-14 was 3,275,200 acres.

9. In the Punjab the year started under somewhat unfavourable conditions. The previous winter rains were poor and there was considerable drought in the summer. It was not until the end of July that the monsoon broke with heavy and widespread rain. There was good rain in the early days of August. The long break that followed ended in heavy rain late in September. The monsoon, though late, was good and widely distributed and it was possible with its aid to sow and mature a record kharif area. The September rain resulted in large rabi sowings, which were canal irrigated in the following months, during which no rain fell. Timely showers in February assisted in the maturing of the rabi crop, which was larger in area than any previous one; but unseasonable rain in March and high winds and temperature in April and May marred what had promised to be a bumper outturn.

The demand for water was keen in the early kharif and during the long break in August and September. The river supplies were well maintained but the distribution of the supply over an unusually large area required careful organization. The conditions in the Punjab were favourable for a large increase in the canal irrigated area and a record area was attained. Under Imperial and Provincial the area irrigated and the area matured show increases respectively of 636,666 and 600,700 acres, over the figures of 1913-14 and 547,414 and 721,726 acres over those of the previous triennia.

The Lower Chenab canal maintains its reputation as a productive investment. It irrigated 2,312,213 acres and earned a gross revenue of nearly 156 lakhs, giving a percentage of 41·81 on its capital cost.

The Lower Jhelum canal is steadily improving; the net percentage of profits was 21·80 and the area irrigated 821,488 acres.

The Sidhnai canal also did particularly well with a net return of 38·61 per cent. The Upper Sutlej Inundation canals returns fell from 21·75 per cent in the previous year to 14·59 per cent; the decline being due to the small rabi area in 1913-14 consequent on a low river and the early closing of most of the canals of this system.

The Triple project is nearing completion. The Upper Chenab canal was formally opened in 1912; the Lower Bari Doab canal was opened in 1913 but had to depend on Ravi supplies until the completion of the tail reach of the Upper Chenab canal in the year under report permitted it to share in the surplus waters of the Chenab. The Upper Jhelum canal being incomplete, supplies from the Jhelum river were not available. The Chenab River rose earlier and fell later than usual and this helped to increase the irrigated area on the Upper Chenab and Lower Bari Doab canals, on which the progress of irrigation was, on the whole, satisfactory.

On the Upper Jhelum canal the construction work proceeded satisfactorily. The bund on the foreshore at Mangla was breached in April 1914 and flooded the foundations of the regulator and the deep cutting beyond. The bund was rebuilt, though operations were handicapped by a rising river, and since its completion the progress has been steady and rapid. The regulator was finished in November 1915 and the canal was formally opened by His Excellency the Viceroy early in December 1915.

During the year the Haveli project scheme for the improvement of the Chenab series of inundation canals in the Multan and Muzaffargarh districts and for the irrigation of new land in the Jhang district was investigated in detail. A project has since been drawn up and is under consideration.

The Neila Gorge reservoir project on the Sutlej has been revived. Its financial and engineering details are being reconsidered.

10. In the United Provinces good rain fell in both seasons of the year.

The monsoon set in at the beginning of July and rain continued to fall till the 25th of August when a break occurred which lasted till the 10th of September, after which date rain fell continuously till the end of the month. Light showers fell about the middle of October, and in November; good rain fell in January, followed by ample showers in February, and by heavy and continuous rain from the middle of March.

Supplies were sufficient on all canals except on the protective canals, Dhasan and Ken. No irrigation could be carried out at the beginning of the kharif season from the Dhasan canal as there was no water in the reservoir, the supply having been utilised for rabi sowings in the previous year. The supply in the Ken canal reservoir ran short in January and the demand for water in that month could not be met. The cultivation in the area irrigated from the Betwa canal was matured with the help of rain in February.

Even in a normal year the need for additional storage for the canals in Bundelkhand is keenly felt.

The total area irrigated, 3,267,272 acres, was 182,631 acres lower than that irrigated in the previous year, but 403,963 acres more than the average area of 2,863,309 acres for the three years ending 1913-14.

The total assessment of the year was 124¾ lakhs of rupees or Rs. 38,887 less than in 1913-14.

11. In Madras the rainfall of both monsoons was above the average and the net cropped area in the Presidency during the year under review was 39 million acres, exceeding the previous year's figures by a million. The character of the season was favourable and the area irrigated under all classes of works, viz., 7,179,000 acres, was practically identical with that of the previous year.

12. In Sind the rainfall is negligible and the cultivation depends entirely upon irrigation. The country is flat, and the soil is mostly very fertile, but until it is brought under irrigation the land presents everywhere the appearance of a desert.

The canals in Sind depend for their supply on the inundation of the river Indus. The inundation of 1914-15 was an exceptionally good one. It may be regarded as a record year as regards height and duration of supply, though actually the highest gauge reading recorded during the year at Bukkur has been exceeded on two previous occasions, viz., in 1882 and 1897. It is considered that the river has not reached its fair irrigating level until the reading on the gauge at Bukkur is 13 feet and that on the Kotri gauge is 17 feet. During the year under review, these "fair irrigating levels", or more, were maintained at Bukkur and Kotri for 45 days and 100 days, respectively, against averages of 39 days and 68 days for the previous 10 years. The rainfall, which is not a matter of prime importance in Sind, was below the average, yet it helped the kharif cultivation in certain areas. The high inundation was peculiarly favourable for irrigation, but it caused some disastrous floods in the Western Nara and the Karachi canals districts.

The area irrigated and gross revenue during the year showed an increase of 485,000 acres and Rs. 7,86,000, respectively, as compared with the average of the previous three years. At present about a quarter only of the culturable area is irrigated in Sind, but it will be possible to bring a much larger area under irrigation if the river water is headed up to the required level by the construction of a barrage across the Indus. A scheme for a barrage at Sukkur is under consideration.

13. In the Presidency proper (Deccan and Gujarat) a very great deal of cultivation is dependent upon rainfall only and the tanks and canals, therefore, are useful for the purpose of growing the more valuable crops or to counteract, when required, the evil of a deficient rainfall. There are not many streams in the Deccan from which it is possible to obtain much water except during the monsoon, and hence the irrigation schemes in this part of the country involve the construction of storage reservoirs. These irrigation works are generally small and costly compared with those in Sind.

The construction of new protective irrigation works in the Deccan is being pushed forward as quickly as possible. The schemes now in hand are the Godavari canals (nearly finished), the Pravara canals and the Nira Right Bank canal. The Gokak canal extension project has been sanctioned but not yet commenced.

In Gujarat an excellent irrigation season was experienced. The area irrigated and the growth of irrigation revenue were phenomenal, showing a vast increase over the average of the previous three years. In the Deccan, however, the seasonable and plentiful rainfall resulted in a diminution in the area irrigated.

14. The canal systems in Bengal, the most important of which are the Midnapur canal, the Hijili Tidal canal, the Circular and Eastern and the Madaripur Bhil systems are used principally for navigation purposes. The Midnapur canal is also utilised for irrigation.

The total area irrigated by the last named was 78,310 acres, showing a slight decrease compared with the preceding year. The decrease was chiefly under rabi (bars) irrigation. The financial results of this work do not fulfil productive conditions, the revenues being just sufficient to meet the working expenses. The estimated value of crops raised on the area irrigated by it amounted to Rs. 34 lakhs.

15. In Bihar and Orissa the Sone and Orissa canals of the productive class are used both for irrigation and navigation. The area irrigated during the year was 908,416 acres, showing an increase of 98,883 acres as compared with the preceding year. The increase was chiefly on the Sone canals and was due to a larger area having been irrigated under rabi season leases owing to a failure of the hathia rains in the year under review. The financial results of these works do not fulfil productive conditions, but the estimated value of crops raised on the area irrigated by them amounted to 5⅓ crores of rupees, a sum which is almost equal to the total capital cost of the works.

The whole length (61 miles) of the Tribeni canal was completed and of this 59 miles were in operation during the year under review, the remaining portion being practically ready to be opened for irrigation. The prospects of the demand for canal water are very favourable. The area irrigated during the year under report was 76,138 acres against 41,435 acres in the preceding year showing an increase of 34,703 acres. This is more than double the area anticipated in the project forecast.

The construction estimate of the canal was closed on 31st March 1914. The works that were not finished or begun on the 1st April 1914 will now be carried out on a schedule of incomplete works, sanctioned by the Government of India, to be furnished by the 31st March 1920.

16. In Burma the total rainfall was about normal, but not well distributed. Abnormal floods occurred which caused damage to irrigated crops, and a large drainage crossing on the Mon canals was wrecked. The area irrigated by productive works amounted to 266,800 acres as compared with 279,500 acres in the previous year.

The estimated value of the crops grown on lands irrigated by major works amounted to 71·6 lakhs as against 88·6 lakhs in 1913-14. The decrease is accounted for partly by the smaller area irrigated in the year under review and partly by the fall in the price of paddy.

17. In the Central Provinces the monsoon rainfall, taken as a whole, was good and very well distributed; consequently there was a large decrease in the area irrigated by most of the tanks, as compared with that irrigated in the previous year. The total area irrigated during the year under review was 44,405 acres against 71,021 acres in the preceding year. The gross assessed revenue for the year was Rs. 1,41,625 against Rs. 1,90,862 during the previous year.

18. The rainfall in the North-West Frontier Province was greatly in excess of the previous year and was about 69 per cent more than the normal. By these excessive rains the crops were damaged to a certain extent, but the agricultural and other conditions were generally favourable. The supplies in the rivers were sufficient. The area irrigated and matured though less than the previous year was in excess of the average of the previous triennium.

NOTES.

The rate of interest, 3·4992 per cent. charged on the capital outlay and shown in statements I, II and III represents the percentage of the total interest actually paid by Government during the year on the mean of the total interest bearing debt at the beginning and at the end of the year (excluding the figures relating to specific Railway debt and advances to Railway companies, vide Government of India, Finance Department, Despatch No. 262, dated 18th July 1907).

2. The direct charges referred to in the statements are made up of outlay on (1) works, (2) establishment, (3) tools and plant, (4) suspense, and less (5) receipts on capital account.

3. The indirect charges represent the charge for—

(a) Capitalized abatement of land revenue calculated at twenty-five times the annual amount of land revenue remitted.

(b) Leave and pension allowances calculated at the rate of 14 per cent. on the gross charges for establishment (vide Public Works Department Code, Volume II, paragraphs 1724 to 1726).

4. The word "sum-at charge" mentioned in column 10 of the statements means capital outlay (direct and indirect) plus all arrears of simple interest, if any, i.e., balance of total interest over total net revenue.

5. In column 20 of the statements the percentage of working expenses to receipts represents the proportion which the working expenses of the year bear to the actual revenue collected during the year. The latter may, however, include receipts in respect of previous years or may exclude revenue due in respect of, but not collected during the financial year to which the return relates. A more correct method of striking a ratio between working expenses and revenue is that adopted in statistical statement II-E., appended to the provincial administration reports where the revenue is taken at the amount assessed as due for the financial year concerned.
